Mother's Premonition Told Her Son Wouldn't Return From Gulf

FERRIDAY, La. (AP) — "I waved until the car was out of sight," says Alice Golings, describing the scene as her two sons left for their jobs on an oil rig in the Gulf of Mexico. "I just kept waving. I knew it was the last time I would ever see Sammie."

The body of her son, Samuel Lee Golings, 20, will be returned to the family on Easter Sunday for burial. He was one of 13 men who died in a flooded escape capsule after the rig sank in a gale. The family's other son, 19-year-old Henry Golings, was rescued. He was treated at a Corpus Christi, Tex., hospital and is expected home today.

"All week long I felt like something was going to happen — and it did," said Mrs. Golings. Her sons left last Monday, but the feeling stayed with her. "I couldn't get in the Easter spirit," she said.

Both sons were employed by Ocean Drilling & Exploration Co. of New Orleans and worked on the rig Ocean Express, which sank Thursday night about 40 miles northeast of Corpus Christi while being towed to a new location.

There are risks in working on the floating rigs, and the family knew it, said Sam Golings, the father. "When that wind and water hits, steel and iron ain't nothing," he said Friday.

"Sammie was crazy about the job," he added. "He'd been working on rigs about four years and he loved it. It was the only kind of work he wanted to do."

But Sammie, too, was conscious of the risks, said Golings. "Just last time he was home, he said, 'Well, dad, anything's liable to happen. You can't never tell. But you've got to work somewhere.'"

Golings said both his sons escaped from two oil rig mishaps last year.

"They were warned to get off," he said, "and they went back to New Orleans. After the storm was over, they went back out and the rig was broken open just like sticks."

In another incident before Christmas, Golings said his sons were told to "Jump quick — this thing's going down."

He said the rig sank "just like it did Thursday night when it killed my boy."

A spokesman for Ocean Drilling & Exploration said he was not aware of either incident, nor did he know whether the brothers were employed by his company at the time.

And now Sammie is dead and Henry is coming home.

"I won't let Henry go back out there — I just won't," said Mrs. Golings. "It's too dangerous."

Golings nodded in agreement. "When Henry gets back in,

Belscot Opening Here Sets Record

The opening of the new Belscot department store at 1800 M-139 in Benton township last week was the most successful grand opening in the company's 15-year history, according to Jeffrey Kleckner, Belscot Retailers, Inc. president.

The new Belscot store, located across M-139 from Fairplain plaza, opened last Thursday and a grand opening sale continued through Sunday. Belscot Retailers, Inc., based in Chicago, operates 15 discount stores in Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana. The new store on M-139 is the first Belscot location in Michigan.

"We will do everything possible to maintain customer confidence and establish good relations within the community," Kleckner said.

Latest Tourist Attraction

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — The 20th floor of the Hotel Princess, the last headquarters of Howard Hughes, has become Acapulco's latest tourist attraction. As soon as it was reopened Friday, dozens of tourists rushed to see the luxurious penthouse where the reclusive billionaire stayed before he died April 5. A hotel clerk said Hughes' Summa Corp. paid $10,000 daily for the penthouse, but assistant manager Manuel Catalan said each of the eight rooms rented for $250 a day.

Sandstorm Darkens The Holy Land For Easter Pilgrims

By The Associated Press

A stinging sandstorm covered most of the Holy Land with a powdery haze for the beginning of the Easter weekend as thousands of pilgrims crowded into Jerusalem for services under the tightest Israeli security in years.

At the Vatican, Pope Paul VI limped through the Good Friday procession as he carried a light wooden cross, but held up the cross firmly before the thousands of persons gathered for the service near the Colosseum. He later spoke of the "mystery of the redeeming power of our own suffering."

The 78-year-old Pope had been described at an earlier service as "this crucified one of the contemporary church," a reference to recent personal attacks on him and to his health problems. A Capuchin friar and preacher of the papal household told a large audience, including the pontiff, at St. Peter's basilica that the Pope suffered at the hands of "many manipulators of public opinion through the mass media, men of science, culture and art."

It was the second reference in two days to recent attacks in the international press on Pope Paul's uncompromising stands on sexual ethics and abortion.

Ugo Cardinal Poletti, vicar of Rome, on Thursday criticized the attacks and asked the faithful to support the Pope.

The sandstorm that encompassed Jerusalem was reminiscent of a passage from St. Luke describing the "first Good Friday."

"And there was darkness over the whole land ... while the sun's light faded and the veil of the temple was rent in the midst. Then Jesus, crying in a loud voice, said 'Father, into Thy hands I commit My spirit.'"

Thousands of pilgrims braved the storm to sing afternoon devotions on Calvary, the small hill in Jerusalem where Jesus died on the cross.

Israeli soldiers with assault guns watched the crowd as part of increased security measures following Arab riots protesting Israeli occupation of the East Bank of Jordan since the 1967 Middle East War.

Some of the pilgrims carried heavy crosses down the narrow Street of Sorrow to the tomb of the resurrection on Golgotha under the Church of the Holy Sepulchre.

Thousands jammed the church from noon to 3 p.m., observed as the time Jesus was on the cross.

The Good Friday worship was concluded by a procession led by the Most Rev. Maurilio Sacchi, the Franciscan guardian of the Holy Land, to the site of the crucifixion.

There, a replica of Christ's body was removed from a cross, anointed and taken to the Tomb of the Resurrection.

In the Philippines, the most fervently Christian land in Asia, 34-year-old Juan Piring was nailed to a cross for the seventh consecutive year as part of an annual village ceremony.

Piring's brother-in-law, Medino Pomposo, drove the nails into his palms in a ceremony in a field of the village of Barrio San Pedro, 40 miles north of Manila.

Piring spent about 10 seconds on the cross and the pain in his spiked palms drove him to tears and whimpers.

The father of seven children, and a farmer and former security guard, Piring said his annual crucifixions are part of a vow he made when his mother recovered from an illness.

Despite the seven crucifixions, his palms are nearly unmarked.

Piring later told reporters that he would undergo the crucifixion ceremony only three more times.

Malpractice Fee Probe Is Asked

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers has asked for a state probe of whether insurance companies are running up health care costs through excessive profits from medical malpractice policies.

UAW Vice President Douglas Fraser made the request Thursday in a letter to Michigan Insurance Commissioner Thomas Jones.

"It is certainly in the public interest for you ... to conduct such an investigation, for in the end it is the consumers who must pay for the costs incurred by doctors for malpractice insurance," Fraser said.

Fraser said the union's political arm, the Community Action Program, is willing to participate in any hearing held on the subject.

The soaring cost of health insurance looms as one of the top issues in contract talks this summer between the UAW and the nation's auto companies.

The auto makers, who currently pay the full premium for employees, say their costs have more than doubled since 1973 and they will ask that employees pay part of future increases.

The union, however, says it is opposed to such a move. Union sources have said the UAW is prepared to strike if the industry doesn't agree to continue paying the full premium costs.

Driverless Truck Backs Over Pair

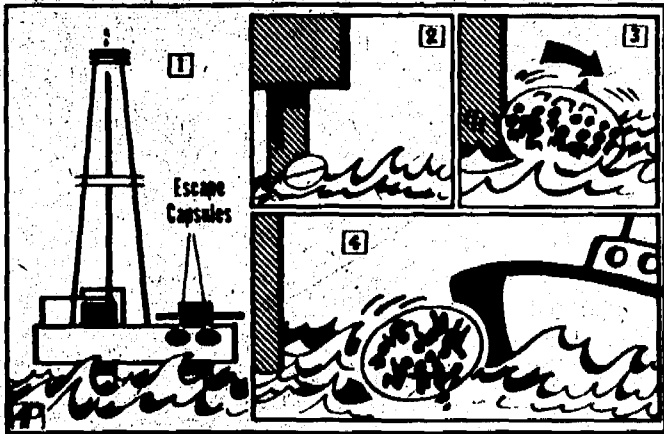

DOWAGIAC — A Pokagon township woman and her two-year-old daughter were injured about 11:20 a.m. yesterday in a bizarre farm accident, according to Cass sheriff's deputies.

Deputies said the woman reported she had jumped from the pickup truck she was driving to go to the aid of her daughter who had fallen from the tailgate, and the truck, still in gear, backed up over both of them.

Listed in fair condition today at Lee Memorial hospital, Dowagiac, was two-year-old Deana Seelzo. Her mother, Mrs. Christine Seelzo, 30, Beeson street in Pokagon township, was listed in good condition at Pawling hospital, Niles.

The child was being treated for a concussion and the mother for a fractured leg, according to deputies.

Officers said the accident occurred in a cornfield near the Seelzo house. Mrs. Seelzo was not ticketed, deputies said.

SEQUENCE OF EVENTS: Chart shows what is believed to be sequence of events leading to the death of 13 men in one of two saucer-like survival capsules during sinking of an oil rig in the Gulf of Mexico. According to Adrian LaBorde, chairman of Ocean Drilling & Exploration Co. which owned the rig, "The capsule apparently got loaded and away, as intended, and it got turned over in some manner while a towing vessel was trying to capture it." Easter Is A Joy No Fear Can Destroy

It was a small, simple world that first Easter morning. Those who were privileged to witness the momentous event had traveled from their homes no farther than a commuter's bus would take us today.

Yet in the almost 2,000 years which have passed, the dazzling spirit of light revealed to those first Christians has been neither embellished nor tarnished.

Geographically, we have expanded our world around the globe and into outer space. And we have learned most successfully how to destroy it in the twinkling of an eye. How little these men of Galilee staring into the heavens could have comprehended of the modern universe and still how much, for it can in truth be no greater than the mind of any of us can encompass.

Christians can claim no monopoly for recognition of the fact that mortal survival is not the be-all and end-all of life. Human dignity has always spurned a philosophy preoccupied with the saving of one's own skin. But it is through the Easter message that the meaning is made clear.

The joy of Easter is an indestructible joy, something no man can take, something which no fear can destroy. Neither life nor death can separate us from our eternal destiny.

Dr. Richard Hammill Casts A Long Shadow

Back in 1963, a slightly-built, wispy-haired man walked into the editorial offices of this newspaper and introduced himself.

"I'm Richard Hammill, associated with Andrews University."

Staffers had to search their memories to recall that the visitor was the newly-elected president, "Doctor" Richard Hammill, of Berrien Springs college recently turned university. Modestly, Dr. Hammill said "I've come for help. There's a lot I don't know about this community, a lot I don't know about being a university president. Perhaps you could help me by answering some questions?"

Thirteen years have passed since then. Dr. Hammill hasn't changed his modest demeanor one whit. But no one around these parts notices any longer that he's physically a small man. He stands ten feet tall and casts a long shadow across not only Berrien county but across the entire academic community of the U.S., as well.

A former minister of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination that owns and operates Andrews University, Dr. Hammill has "worked miracles" during his 13-year tenure as president.

Student enrollment has risen 75 percent, from 1,516 to 2,655. The university's plant facilities have trebled in value, from $8 million to $24 million. The annual operating budget has quintupled, from $4 million to $20 million.

Most of all, however, the academic variety and excellence of Andrews University have grown under Dr. Hammill's astute, loving care. His eminence is universally accepted in many fields of scholarship.

One more immensely important goal Dr. Hammill has accomplished for his great academic complex: he has made it an admired, accepted, integral part of the community around it.

This was not always so. Andrews had its roots in the old Emmanuel Missionary College, a combination seminary and practical trade school. Because they celebrated the Sabbath on Saturday instead of Sunday, because they were largely vegetarians, because they almost never drank alcoholic beverages or smoked, Seventh-day Adventists were looked upon as "different."

While Emmanuel College, its faculty and students never encountered outright hostility, neither were they welcomed into the fold as "hometown folks."

Dr. Hammill led the way in changing that. He offered the courses and services of the university to students and communities of the surrounding area. He carried the both the message of brotherhood and the universality of knowledge to the huts.

So well did he perform in this regard that the business and industrial leaders of the community, none of the Adventist faith, raised more than a million dollars in a capital funds campaign on behalf of Andrews.

Today, there's hardly an informed adult in Berrien county who does not realize that one day Berrien county will be best known throughout the nation and the world as the "home of Andrews University."

For, in announcing his retirement yesterday, Dr. Hammill noted that as one phase of the university's growth has been completed, another is about to begin.

Let's hope Dr. Hammill's successor, still to be elected, is just close to being as effective as the "little giant."

At 62, Dr. Hammill has been promoted to a high church post, vice president of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists in Washington, D.C.

We don't know what kind of a high churchman he'll make; he's not much on ceremony.

But, if he'll pardon the expression, we do know he's made one hell of a university president!

One Way To Look At It!

Wildflower Enthusiasts Urge 'Look--Don't Pick' Attitude

Editor:

So many times in early spring we see children and adults carrying bouquets of wildflowers. For this reason in the more heavily populated areas of the state some varieties of wildflowers are becoming scarce.

We the members of the Garden Forum of Berrien Springs would like you to publish the following article in your paper. Mrs. E.E. Kidder The Garden Forum Berrien Springs

A WILDFLOWERING WE WILL GO!

Spring is here! It's time for hikes and the thrill of finding the first harbingers of a new growing season. Wildflowering is fun if you know the names of the flowers you find. When I use the "Wildflowering" I don't mean digging and picking plants. I mean drinking the wonderful display Mother Nature has created for us, maybe taking a few pictures, then going on your way and leaving it all for the next person who comes along. Although many people aren't aware of it, a number of Michigan wildflowers are protected by Michigan law.

Many species are becoming scarce, especially in the more populated areas of the state. Trailing Arbutus, Birdfoot violet, Yellow Ladyslipper, Dogwood, all native. Trillium, Native Orchid, all Club Mosses, North American Lotus, Climbing Bittersweet, and Michigan Holly are all on the protected list.

How does a beginner know the names of the different plants? Identification is important and a part of the fun. Check out from the local library a good handbook, such as "Michigan Wildflowers", by Helen V. Smith.

On hiking with friends who are familiar with the springtime beauties. There are nature groups such as the Michigan Botanical Club, or the Michigan Nature Association.

Probably the most familiar to most people are the large flowered Trillium (Trillium grandiflorum) with its three-petaled white flowers with green sepals beneath and three large leaves below that. This is how the flower received its name-tri.

There are also the Spring Beauties, Mayapples, Dutchman's Breeches, and Marsh Marigolds that grow in low areas along a still stream.

There is only one trouble with this absorbing and relaxing pastime that gives you plenty of exercise and fresh air; you won't want to stop. You won't have to stop! After spring is over these beautiful wildflowers keep on blooming through summer and fall as well.

The board voted $350 for the purchase of a Bertillon camera and equipment to photograph prisoners to aid in identification. This is a special camera which is becoming the standard throughout the country for criminal detection. It is constructed to make a clear reproduction of every detail in the subject's features.

Berrien county's rural schools and the county superintendent of education, Benjamin F. Carter Plans

Big Government

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — I went home the other day much impressed with Jimmy Carter's attacks on big government and its bloated bureaucracy. His charges concerned strongly with my own views after covering Washington these past 20 years.

And apparently, if these reports are correct, Carter struck fire on that issue in his string of primary victories.

For that reason, I began collecting what I could of the Carter speeches and other public statements to determine how this persuasive candidate would go about unbundling the bureaucracy and how he would cut big government to size.

There was much talk in the Carter papers about zero budgeting, justifying each program from scratch each year. Mr. Carter would consolidate bureaus and slash on waste, duplicating and inefficiency in a host of programs from making to energy, unemployment and health.

Then came a series of astounding Carter proposals. Each would expand the federal role significantly in our lives. Combined, they add up to big government on a scale calculated to make Hubert Humphrey green with envy.

Carter would put the importation of oil "under government authority to allow strict control of purchases and the auctioning of purchase orders. If it became necessary, petroleum supplies available for consumption should be allocated by the Federal Energy Agency to the individual states." To control the consumption of energy, "standby taxes should be available to the president for selective imposition on petroleum products."

Carter proposes that "subsidized housing... be re-established" and establishment of a federal system of loan guarantees for the purchase of low and medium-priced homes.

He wants federally mandated motor vehicle efficiency standards, mandatory improvements in building including regulatory agency decisions that reduce fuel consumption and federal standards set for the efficiency of electric appliances.

He would put a "fulltime federal employee" with full authority to shut down the plant in case of any operational abnormality "in the control rooms of every private nuclear power electricity generating plant."

Through his language, typically, is vague to the point of fuzziness. Carter favors what appears to be a series of wide-ranging federal programs for creating jobs to rehabilitate the railroads, "for completing our mass transit system," for preventive health care and for stimulating employment in the private home heating industry.

He wants the government to make a job for every man and woman willing to work. If necessary, he says, as a last resort, "public employment jobs need to be created similar to the CCC and the WPA during the Depression years."

Carter states that the bulk of the funds needed for most of these programs could be secured by transferring money from one civilian program or another — in transportation, energy, research and, apparently, in unemployment benefits, although, he does not directly say so.

I do not know how many jobs Carter has in mind. Typically, he gives no figures on costs, or on the number of men and women he'd put to work. But considering the vigor of his attacks on unemployment and his conviction that the government has a basic obligation to insure jobs for all interested, two trillion would be, I think, a conservative figure in a nation plagued with seven million unemployed.

News reports have estimated the gross cost of creating two million public-supported jobs at about $25 billion a year. I suggest this amount would be most difficult to scratch from other civilian programs. So he's either knowing the public or proposing big spending.

Social Spending Is Major Issue

The central domestic issue in American politics has not been mentioned directly by the principal candidates, but some of them, notably Jimmy Carter and Hubert Humphrey, have begun to position themselves on it by means of winks and code words.

That central issue may be stated as follows: "During the past two decades or so, there has come into existence a powerful new class of exploiters. These exploiters are in the business of applying academic social science theory to supposed social problems. The enterprise consumes tens of billions of dollars and engages millions of people. Naturally it desires to expand and consume still more."

The programs and projects of this new class occasionally to some good, but generally do not. Often, by any reasonable measure, they are disasters. In consequence, such programs and projects are seldom justified and sold to us on practical grounds, but rather because they are "moral," "liberal," "compassionate," and whatnot.

The projects and programs sold to us by the new exploiters include things like, busing. Federally supported day-care centers, expensive programs of criminal rehabilitation that show no statistical results, elaborate compensatory education schemes for the "poor" that have no effect, urban renewal and model cities schemes that are usually counter-productive, affirmative action hiring, so-called "experimental textbooks," an array of environmental schemes, a few of which produce desirable results, and all of which provide jobs for professionals in the new exploiter class.

The theories animating these schemes are almost always generated on the campus by academic social scientists. But the campus is like the hub of a wheel from which spokes radiate outward. The spokes consist of the professionals and technicians who staff the programs, the planners and bureaucrats who shape the overall design, the publicists and media people who sell the programs to "public opinion," the lawyers who subsidize by advancing the legal interests of the new exploiters, and so on.

The new form of exploitation is paid for by the middle class and the working class who are not the beneficiaries of its "affirmative action" and other schemes.

Therefore, the central political question before us is: will the power of this new class of exploiters be held within present bounds, cut back, or expanded at still greater taxpayer expense?

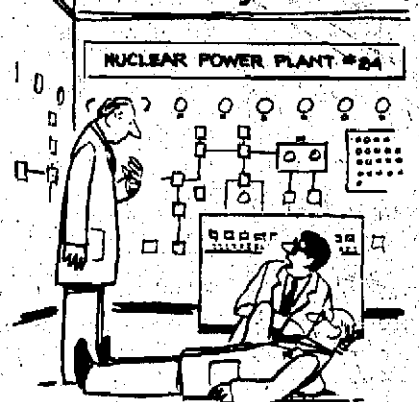

Jimmy Carter signals his position as follows. He realizes that "Washington" — a code word for the new-class social-engineering bureaucracy — is widely detested. He hints that he would resist its further expansion. But, also, he will by no means attack it in a reformist spirit, or cut it back. Thus we get his key refusal to back a constitutional amendment on busing, and his recent veiled assurances to the Washington establishment.

Hubert Humphrey is sending out quite different signals, and is running as the candidate of new class exploiters. The social welfare exploiters can expect more billions from him. He wants a "Marshall Plan" for the cities. He castigates attacks on "Washington" as "racist."

Easter Is A Joy No Fear Can Destroy

It was a small, simple world that first Easter morning. Those who were privileged to witness the momentous event had traveled from their homes no farther than a commuter's bus would take us today.

Yet in the almost 2,000 years which have passed, the dazzling spirit of light revealed to those first Christians has been neither embellished nor dimmed.

Geographically, we have expanded our world around the globe and into outer space. And we have learned most successfully how to destroy it in the twinkling of an eye. How little these men of Galilee staring into the heavens could have comprehended of the modern universe and still how much, for it can in truth be no greater than the mind of any of us can encompass.

Christians can claim no monopoly for recognition of the fact that mortal survival is not the be-all and end-all of life. Human dignity has always spurned a philosophy preoccupied with the saving of one's own skin. But it is through the Easter message that the meaning is made clear.

The joy of Easter is an indestructible joy, something no man can take, something which no fear can destroy. Neither life nor death can separate us from our eternal destiny.

Dr. Richard Hammill Casts A Long Shadow

Back in 1963, a slightly-built, wispy-haired man walked into the editorial offices of this newspaper and introduced himself:

"I'm Richard Hammill, associated with Andrews University."

Staffers had to search their memories to recall that the visitor was the newly-elected president, "Doctor" Richard Hammill, of Berrien Springs college-recently-turned university.

Modestly, Dr. Hammill said "I've come for help. There's a lot I don't know about this community, a lot I don't know about being a university president. Perhaps you could help me by answering some questions?"

Thirteen years have passed since then. Dr. Hammill hasn't changed his modest demeanor one whit. But no one around these parts notices any longer that he's physically a small man. He stands ten feet tall and casts a long shadow across not only Berrien county but across the entire academic community of the U.S., as well.

A former minister of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination that owns and operates Andrews University, Dr. Hammill has "worked miracles" during his 13-year tenure as president.

Student enrollment has risen 75 per cent, from 1,516 to 2,655. The university's plant facilities have trebled in value, from $8 million to $24 million. The annual operating budget has quintupled, from $4 million to $20 million.

Most of all, however, the academic variety and excellence of Andrews University have grown under Dr. Hammill's astute, loving care. Its eminence is universally accepted in many fields of scholarship.

One more immensely important goal Dr. Hammill has accomplished for his great academic complex: he has made it an admired, accepted, integral part of the community around it.

This was not always so. Andrews had its roots in the old Emmanuel Missionary College, a combination seminary and practical trade school. Because they celebrated the Sabbath on Saturday instead of Sunday, because they were largely vegetarians, because they almost never drank alcoholic beverages or smoked, Seventh-day Adventists were looked upon as "different."

While Emmanuel College, its faculty and students never encountered outright hostility, neither were they welcomed into the fold as "hometown folks."

Dr. Hammill led the way in changing that. He offered the courses and services of the university to students and communities of the surrounding area. He carried the both the message of brotherhood and the universality of knowledge to the hustings.

So well did he perform in this regard that the business and industrial leaders of the community, none of the Adventist faith, raised more than a million dollars in a capital funds campaign on behalf of Andrews.

Today, there's hardly an informed adult in Berrien county who does not realize that one day Berrien county will be best known throughout the nation and the world as the "home of Andrews University."

For, in announcing his retirement yesterday, Dr. Hammill noted that as one phase of the university's growth has been completed, another is about to begin.

Let's hope Dr. Hammill's successor, still to be elected, is just close to being as effective as the "little giant."

At 62, Dr. Hammill has been promoted to a high church post, vice president of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists in Washington, D.C.

We don't know what kind of a high churchman he'll make; he's not much on ceremony.

But, if he'll pardon the expression, we do know he's made one hell of a university president!

One Way To Look At It!

Wildflower Enthusiasts Urge 'Look--Don't Pick' Attitude

Editor.

So many times in early spring we see children and adults carrying bouquets of wildflowers. For this reason in the more heavily populated areas of the state some varieties of wildflowers are becoming scarce.

We the members of the Garden Forum of Berrien Springs would like you to publish the following article in your paper. Mrs. E.E. Kidder The Garden Forum Berrien Springs

A WILDFLOWERING WE WILL GO!

Spring is here! It's time for hikes and the thrill of finding the first harbingers of a new growing season. Wildflowering is fun if you know the names of the flowers you find. When I use the "Wildflowering" I don't mean digging and picking plants. I mean drinking the wonderful display Mother Nature has created for us, maybe taking a few pictures, then going on your way and leaving it all for the next person who comes along. Although many ing Bittersweet, and Michigan Holly are all on the protected list.

How does a beginner know the names of the different plants? Identification is important and a part of the fun. Check out from the local library a good handbook, such as "Michigan Wildflowers", by Helen V. Smith.

Go hiking with friends who are familiar with the spring-time beauties. There are nature groups such as the Michigan Botanical Club, or the Michigan Nature Association.

Probably the most familiar to most people are the large flowered Trillium (Trillium grandiflorum) with its three-petaled white flowers with green sepals beneath and three large leaves below that. This is how the flower received its name-tri.

There are also the Spring Beauties, Mayapples, Dutchman's Breeches, and Marsh Marigolds that grow in low areas along a still stream.

There is only one trouble with this absorbing and relaxing pastime that gives you plenty of exercise and fresh air; you won't want to stop. You won't have to stop. After spring is over those beautiful wildflowers keep on blooming through summer and fall as well.

Carter Plans Big Government

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — I went home the other day much impressed with Jimmy Carter's attacks on big government and its bloated bureaucracy. His charges coincided strongly with my own views after covering Washington these past 30 years.

And apparently, if press reports are correct, Carter struck fire on this issue in his string of primary victories.

For that reason I began collecting what I could of the Carter speeches and other public statements to determine how this persuasive candidate would go about unbloating the bureaucracy and how he would cut big government to size.

There was much talk in the Carter papers about zero budgeting, justifying each program from scratch each year, programs for consolidating bureaus and attacks on waste, fumbling and inefficiency in a host of programs from welfare to energy, unemployment and health.

Then came a series of astounding Carter proposals. Each would expand the federal role significantly in our lives. Combined, they add up to big government on a scale calculated to make Hubert Humphrey green with envy.

Carter would put the importation of oil "under government authority to allow strict control of purchases and the auctioning of purchase orders." If it became necessary, "petroleum supplies available for consumption should be allocated by the Federal Energy Agency to the individual states." To control the consumption of energy, "standby taxes should be available to the president for selective imposition on petroleum products."

Carter proposes that "subsidized housing ... be re-established" and establishment of a federal system of loan guarantees for the purchase of low and medium-priced homes.

He wants federally mandated motor vehicle efficiency standards, mandatory improvements in building insulation, regulatory agency decisions that reduce fuel consumption and federal standards set for the efficiency of electric appliances.

He would put a "fulltime federal employee, with full authority to shut down the plant in case of any operational abnormality" in the control rooms of every private nuclear power electricity generating plant.

Through his language, typically, is vague to the point of fuzziness, Carter favors what appears to be a series of wide-ranging federal programs for creating jobs to rehabilitate the railroads, "for completing our mass transit system," for preventive health care and for stimulating employment in the private solar heating industry.

He wants the government to insure a job for every man and woman willing to work. If necessary, he says, as a last resort, "public employment jobs need to be created similar to the CCC and the WPA during the Depression years."

Carter states that the bulk of the funds needed for most of these programs could be secured by transferring money from one civilian program or another — in transportation, energy research and, apparently, in unemployment benefits, although he does not directly say so.

Alleged 'Bottle Club' Raid Nets 100 Arrests

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

An estimated 100 to 120 people were arrested early this morning, when some 20 police officers representing nine area police departments raided an alleged "bottle club" in Benton township.

The raid at 4:10 a.m. was at an establishment called "The Hole in the Wall" on Townline road at Dewey avenue. The establishment formerly had a liquor license and was called Townline bar. It no longer has a liquor license, reported Sgt. Jerry Hyland of the Benton Harbor state police post, who coordinated the raid.

Hyland identified the proprietor of "The Hole in the Wall" as Larry Robinson, 30, Benton Harbor. Hyland said Robinson was booked on a charge of operating an unlicensed establishment for consumption of alcoholic beverages, a felony.

All others arrested were booked on misdemeanor charges of disorderly conduct by frequenting an establishment conducting an illegal occupation.

State police said today they won't have an accurate account of the number arrested until the bookings and paperwork are completed.

All those arrested were inside, Hyland said. He said many people also were outside at the time, but they were not arrested. Hyland said 41 of those arrested were permitted to post $25 bonds on the spot. They were then released, after providing identification and being instructed to appear in Fifth District court.

Those who did not post bonds immediately were being booked this morning at the Berrien county sheriff's department.

Berrien county Assistant Prosecutor Wilbur Schillinger said it's illegal in Michigan to operate what Schillinger said are commonly called "bottle clubs." These establishments usually provide ice and mixes for drinks to people who bring their own liquor and pay a cover charge to enter, Schillinger said.

Hyland said those arrested appeared about evenly divided between men and women.

Hyland said the raid followed an investigation of about six weeks. Police officers assembled at the Benton Harbor state police post.

Schillinger said a search warrant was authorized by the prosecutor's office and issued by Fifth District Judge Ronald Taylor.

Reported confiscated were suspected narcotics, several knives, a handgun, liquor on tables, and a jukebox.

No resistance to arresting officers was reported. Prisoners were transported in two paddy wagons and patrol cars, which lined the road on both sides.

Departments reported in the raid included Benton Harbor and Paw Paw state police posts, Berrien sheriff's department, and the Benton Harbor, St. Joseph, Benton township, St. Joseph township, Waterville, and Berrien Springs-Oronoko township police departments.

The raid was organized and launched under a veil of secrecy that prompted a radio dispatcher at one department to comment he wondered what was going on.

Recall Leader's Business Sues Seven BH Officials

All-Time Pest Control Co. of Benton Harbor, owned by Maurice Bishop, has filed suit in Berrien Fifth District court claiming seven city officials have acted to breach the city's service contract with Bishop's firm.

The exterminating company claims the city owes $45 in unpaid bills and additionally claims that all but one of the defendants have acted "to defame plaintiff's business reputation."

Defendants in the suit are Benton Harbor Mayor Charles Joseph; Clean Slate-Commissioners Helen Forit, Charles Shepherd, Alfred Williams and Barbara Huckaby; Commissioner Winston Minott, who has voted with the Clean Slate faction; and the city.

City Manager James Peoples Jr. is named a defendant in the part of the suit regarding unpaid bills, but not in regard to the alleged defamation.

Bishop is the leader of an effort to recall Joseph, Minott, Williams, Shepherd and Mrs. Huckaby.

Atty. Yvonne Hughes, representing All Time Pest Control, said the firm seeks payment of the $45 and will ask for a court order to stop the city from any further breach of contract.

The defamation portion of the suit does not request a specific monetary amount. Atty. Hughes contends Joseph and the other commissioners listed as defendants passed a resolution of Feb. 23 asking the Berrien county prosecutor's office to investigate city expenses for her and the pest control firm and to prosecute, if any violations were found.

She contends the resolution cast "untrue allegations" at All Time Pest Control. Atty. Hughes was fired as city attorney the same night the resolution was passed.

SJ Guard Unit Slates Open House

The National Guard unit based in St. Joseph will hold an open house Saturday, April 24, with a display of weapons and vehicles at the Armory, 128 North Pier street (adjacent to the Coast Guard station).

Included in the display, according to Sgt. Herschel Newton, will be five trucks and a display of weapons, including .45 caliber pistol, .30 and .50 caliber machine guns, and M-16 rifles. The public is invited to attend from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Inheritance Leads To ADC Fraud

The mother of four children was sentenced to fine and costs of $205, one year probation and restitution of $678 by Berrien Fifth District court Judge Hugh Black yesterday for welfare fraud.

Sentenced for welfare fraud under $500 was Connie Pearl Allen, 23, of 1244 Monroe street, Benton Harbor. She pleaded guilty to the misdemeanor, and a felony fraud charge was dismissed.

Mrs. Allen received an inheritance which she failed to report to the department of social services, Black said. Her failure caused overpayments in ADC for the months of August and September, 1973.

Mrs. Jennings is shown with Mrs. Marlon VanderMeer, store manager. Rear of store has been remodeled into country kitchen effect. Meskimen's has been in business 37 years, starting out in Benton Harbor and moving to St. Joseph in 1969. Mrs. Jennings said she grew up in store and worked there before her marriage to Atty. Dean Jennings. They are the parents of six children. Mr. and Mrs. V.B. Meskimen will continue to be active in the store during the summer months. (Staff photo)

Seniors Golf League

A senior citizens golf league for men 55 and older will be organized at a meeting at 9 a.m. Tuesday at Blossom Trails course, according to Harry White of Benton Harbor, one of the organizers. White said any senior citizen male golfer is welcome. Play will start immediately after the organizational meeting.

Baroda Meeting Changed

BARODA — Baroda township board will meet Tuesday night at 7:30 p.m. in the township hall instead of Monday night, according to township officials. The meeting night was changed for this month because Supervisor Orland Mead has a Monday night class at Lake Michigan college, officials said.

Judge From SJ Plans To Quit

Ingham county Circuit Court Judge Donald Reisig, a native of St. Joseph, announced Friday he will resign from the bench May 31 to enter private law practice in Lansing.

Reisig, 41, was appointed to the circuit court in September, 1966, by former Gov. George Romney and was elected to a full eight-year term two months later.

Recall Leader's Business Sues Seven BH Officials

All-Time Pest Control Co. of Benton Harbor, owned by Maurice Bishop, has filed suit in Berrien Fifth District court claiming seven city officials have acted to breach the city's service contract with Bishop's firm.

The exterminating company claims the city owes $45 in unpaid bills and additionally claims that all but one of the defendants have acted "to defame plaintiff's business reputation."

Defendants in the suit are Benton Harbor Mayor Charles Joseph; Clean Slate Commissioners Helen Ford, Charles Shepherd, Alfred Williams and Barbara Huckaby; Commissioner Winston Minott, who has voted with the Clean Slate faction; and the city.

City Manager James Peebles Jr. is named a defendant in the part of the suit regarding unpaid bills, but not in regard to the alleged defamation.

Bishop is the leader of an effort to recall Joseph, Minott, Williams, Shepherd and Mrs. Huckaby.

Atty. Yvonne Hughes, representing All Time Pest Control, said the firm seeks payment of the $45 and will ask for a court order to stop the city from any further breach of contract.

The defamation portion of the suit does not request a specific monetary amount. Atty. Hughes contends Joseph and the other commissioners listed as defendants passed a resolution of Feb. 23 asking the Berrien county prosecutor's office to investigate city expenses for her and the pest control firm and to prosecute, if any violations were found.

She contends the resolution cast "untrue allegations" at All Time Pest Control. Atty. Hughes was fired as city attorney the same night the resolution was passed.

Mrs. Allen received an inheritance which she failed to report to the department of social services, Black said. Her failure caused overpayments in ADC for the months of August and September, 1973.

THE BIBLE

No. 235. The Daughters of Zion

Isaiah continued to point out to the people of Judah and Jerusalem that their ungodly ways would invite the wrath of the Lord. After chastising the men for their boastful sinning, he turns to castigating the women.

"...Because the daughters of Zion are haughty, and walk with stretched forth necks, and wanton eyes, walking and mincing as they go and making a tinkling with their feet: Therefore the Lord will smite with a scab the crown of the head of the daughters of Zion, and the Lord will discover their secret parts." (Isaiah 3:16-17)

"And it shall come to pass, that instead of sweet smell, there shall be a stink; and instead of a girdle, a rent; and instead of well set hair, baldness; and instead of a stomach, a girding of sackcloth; and burning instead of beauty. Thy men shall fall by the sword, and thy mighty in the war. And her gates shall lament and mourn; and she, being desolate, shall sit upon the ground." (Isaiah 3:24-26)

THE BIBLE

No. 235. The Daughters of Zion

Isaiah continued to point out to the people of Judah and Jerusalem that their ungodly ways would invite the wrath of the Lord. After chastising the men for their boastful sinning, he turns to castigate the women.

"...Because the daughters of Zion are haughty, and walk with stretched forth necks, and wanton eyes, walking and mincing as they go and making a tinkling with their feet: Therefore the Lord will smite with a scab the crown of the head of the daughters of Zion and the Lord will discover their secret parts." (Isaiah 3:16-17)

"And it shall come to pass, that instead of sweet smell, there shall be a stink; and instead of a girdle, a rent; and instead of well set hair, baldness; and instead of a stomacher, a girding of sackcloth; and burning instead of beauty. They men shall fall by the sword, and they might in the war. And her gates shall lament and mourn: and she, being desolate, shall sit upon the ground." (Isaiah 3:24-26)

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

The Wig Is Her Problem

Dear Ann Landers: I am 26 years old, not what you would call a raving beauty, but I still rate a wolf whistle now and then.

The problem is this: Last year my hair began to fall out. I became increasingly concerned and finally went to see a doctor. He told me it was nerves, suggested that I have my hair cut short and wear a wig.

Six months ago, I met a man I respect, admire, and am now in love with. He wants me to go to the Bahamas with him for a little vacation. I am dying to say yes. I know the full implications of the trip. We would undoubtedly sleep together.

Please, no lectures on morality. I'm no teenager. The problem is the wig. I doubt very much that he knows I wear one. Should I tell him in advance and remove it at bedtime? Or should I wear the darned thing to bed and hope it stays on? — Needing An Answer

Dear Needing: You may be asking for more trouble than a slipped wig, but I shall respect your wishes and respond only to the question put to me.

Buy a pretty piece of net veiling. Wrap it around your head and tie a bow in front. Secure the veiling with a few baby pins. It will keep the blowin' thing anchored.

Settles Argument

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been arguing about something and collecting opinions, but so far we haven't been able to settle it. Please give us an answer. Whatever you say will be it.

Suppose there was a national contest with a big prize for the first baby born in the United States in the New Year. Say a girl was born at 12:01 a.m. in Greenwich, Conn., on Jan. 1, and a boy was born in Berkeley, Calif., at 12:15 a.m. the same morning. Who would be the winner? (P.S. Ours is due in August, but don't tell anybody.) — On Dead Center

Dear O.D.C.: The Connecticut baby would be the winner, because of the three-hour difference in time zones. The Greenwich baby made the scene 3 hours and 14 minutes ahead of the Berkeley baby.

P.S. Your secret is safe with me. I wouldn't dream of telling a soul!

Control Needed

Dear Ann Landers: Can you believe that a seven-year-old nephew is ruining our marriage? Sunday little Lloyd walked on our new sofa with his muddy feet, carved his initials on the kitchen cabinet and tore apart two new ferns.

No magazine is safe in little Lloyd's hands. He tears up everything. Every day we bring him in pieces in ten minutes.

This morning I told my husband I was going to give the boy the spanking of his life if he did one more destructive thing in our home. (The child is his sister's.) He said, "You can't touch him because he's not yours to discipline."

How about this, Ann Landers? — Burned in Lansing

ANN LANDERS

Dear B.: Where is little Lloyd's mother, anyway? If she leaves him in your care, you have every right to discipline him. If she is present and permits such shenanigans she should be told to "control" the boy or leave him home. To tolerate such destruction is nonsense; moreover, you do that child no favor.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism — Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

It wasn't too difficult. Dummy's nine covered the eight. East played the jack and AI won. Three trump leads left AI in dummy to lead the 10 of hearts. East's queen lost to the ace and West's seven spot fell.

Now it was a simple matter to enter dummy with the king of clubs, lead the deuce of hearts and take a successful finesse with the four spot against East's five. This made it possible for AI to discard dummy's queen of diamonds on the six of hearts.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

The Wig Is Her Problem

Dear Ann Landers: I am 26 years old, not what you would call a raving beauty, but I still rate a wolf whistle now and then.

The problem is this: Last year my hair began to fall out. I became increasingly concerned and finally went to see a doctor. He told me it was nerves, suggested that I have my hair cut short and wear a wig.

Six months ago, I met a man I respect, admire, and am now in love with. He wants me to go to the Bahamas with him for a little vacation. I am dying to say yes. I know the full implications of the trip. We would undoubtedly sleep together.

Please, no lectures on morality. I'm not a teenager. The problem is the wig. I doubt very much that he knows I wear one. Should I tell him in advance and remove it at bedtime? Or should I wear the darned thing to bed and hope it stays on? — Needing An Answer

Dear Needing: You may be asking for more trouble than a slipped wig, but I shall respect your wishes and respond only to the question put to me.

Buy a pretty piece of net veiling. Wrap it around your head and tie a bow in front. Secure the veiling with a few bobby pins. It will keep the bloomin' thing anchored.

Settles Argument

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been arguing about something and collecting opinions, but so far we haven't been able to settle it. Please give us an answer. Whatever you say will be it.

Suppose there was a national contest with a big prize for the first baby born in the United States in the New Year. Say a girl was born at 12:01 a.m. in Greenwich, Conn., on Jan. 1, and a boy was born in Berkeley, Calif., at 12:15 a.m. the same morning. Who would be the winner? (P.S. Ours is due in August, but don't tell anybody.) — On Dead Center

Dear O.D.C.: The Connecticut baby would be the winner, because of the three-hour difference in time zones. The Greenwich baby made the scene 3 hours and 14 minutes ahead of the Berkeley baby.

P.S. Your secret is safe with me. I wouldn't dream of telling a soul!

Control Needed

Dear Ann Landers: Can you believe that a seven-year-old nephew is ruining our marriage? Sunday little Lloyd walked on our new sofa with his muddy feet, carved his initials on the kitchen cabinet and tore apart two new ferns.

No magazine is safe in little Lloyd's hands. He tears up everything. Every toy we bring him is in pieces in ten minutes.

This morning I told my husband I was going to give the boy the spanking of his life if he did one more destructive thing in our home. (The child is his sister's.) He said, "You can't touch him because he's not yours to discipline."

How about this, Ann Landers? — Burned in Lansing

ANN LANDERS

Dear B.: Where is little Lloyd's mother, anyway? If she leaves him in your care, you have every right to discipline him. If she is present and permits such shenanigans she should be told to "control" the boy or leave him home. To tolerate such destruction is nonsense; moreover, you do that child no favor.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism — Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

North's jump to four spades showed a minimum opening bid with good spades. South decided not to use Blackwood in an effort to reach a grand slam.

It was well that he did. Had the bid four notrump, North would have responded five diamonds and East could have doubled to ask for a diamond lead against the eventual spade contract.

A diamond lead would have almost surely led to defeat of the six-spade contract, but West opened the eight of hearts and the late Albert Morehead, who sat South, proceeded to take all the tricks.

It wasn't too difficult. Dummy's nine covered the eight. East played the jack and AI won. Three trump leads left AI in dummy to lead the 10 of hearts. East's queen lost to the ace and West's seven spot fell.

Now it was a simple matter to enter dummy with the king of clubs, lead the deuce of hearts and take a successful finesse with the four spot against East's five. This made it possible for AI to discard dummy's queen of diamonds on the six of hearts.

ASK THE JACOBS

A Delaware reader wants to know why we show so few hands where declarer fails to make his contract.

The answer is that people like success and while we do show some examples of brilliant defense we feel that most of our readers prefer to look at winners.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Others perceive that you're in a cooperative mood today. This is to your advantage. It will lead them to appreciate you more.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Though this may not be a working day for you, something beneficial may happen that could be a large, unexpected plus for your career.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll be in the limelight wherever you go today. Though you may not seek the acclaim, center stage will be where you are.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're likely to be rather restless today. A short excursion could be just what you need. But don't put too many miles on your car.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Aspects for personal accumulation are still in your favor today, especially if you're engaged in work or service for other people.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're lucky today at things which have an element of chance. That doesn't mean you should bet the whole wad on a long shot.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Simply being in the company of people you have close personal bonds which will make your day. If they don't come to you, go to them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You'll be very much on the mind today of someone you've been thinking a lot about lately. Why not call him?

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Someone influential holds you in especially high esteem. This person is in a position to help your cause today. Don't hesitate to ask.

For Monday, April 19, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's not likely you'll get the support you hoped for today in projects important to you, unless others profit personally.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't make plans or decisions for others today without first getting their approval. Let everyone think for himself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be wary of involving yourself today in any situation with friends where money or something of material value is at stake.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) One-to-one relationships and partnerships matters require extremely tactful handling today. Be as co-operative as possible.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you want to get the most from your coworkers today you may have to butter them up a bit. Be complimentary if it's deserved.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Normally you're not the type prone to taking flyers. Today, you could abandon caution and do something too impulsively.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your family responsibilities should take priority over other affairs today. Don't let down loved ones who rely upon you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Several things you haven't planned for could suddenly pop up today to disrupt your schedule. Keep cool so they don't get the better of you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) This could be an expensive day if you're with friends who fail to pick up their share of the tab. Avoid freeloaders.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A sure way to turn-off persons whose co-operation you need is to be self-serving today. Consider their interests, too.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't promise to do things today unless you're serious. You could later be severely inconvenienced when you have to deliver.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Try not to mix business and pleasure today. Concentrate on one or the other, but not both at the same time.

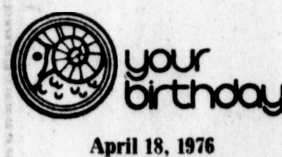

April 19, 1976

This year you are likely to be extremely enterprising and eager for success in several areas. However, you must zero in on specific goals if efforts are to be rewarded.

Swine Flu Immunizations Starting On Small Scale

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first shots of the new swine flu vaccine will be administered in experimental doses next week to hundreds of federal employees. It is the first step toward mass immunization of the U.S. population.

The Food and Drug Administration said Friday that four drug companies have delivered 24,000 vials of vaccine in three dosage strengths to the FDA. Volunteers will be inoculated and monitored to determine which strength provides the best protection against the flu virus with minimal side effects.

The vaccine is manufactured from inactivated virus and no one will catch influenza from the shots, the FDA said. One of the purposes of the testing is to measure possible adverse reactions from the vaccine such as a sore arm, fever or allergic response.

The subjects will be from the FDA and National Institutes of Health. Testing will later be expanded to Baylor University in Texas and the University of Rochester in New York, and then to other locations across the country.

Test results should be back by early June, in time to establish the dosage strength so manufacturers can begin producing millions of vials of vaccine for the fall immunization campaign, the FDA said.

President Ford signed a bill Thursday providing $135 million for purchase and distribution of the vaccine.

The government's goal is to vaccinate 95 per cent of the American population against swine flu which is suspected of being of the same type that led to the deaths of 20 million persons in the 1918-19 worldwide epidemic, including 548,000 in the United States.

Seattle Girlie Show 'Goes Gay'

SEATTLE (AP) — The stripper cried as she gave her last performance at Seattle's "only totally nude live girlie show." When her act ended, the New Paris Theater went gay.

The "Boy-lesque Review" was the new attraction Friday night. One hundred persons bought $5 tickets for the first two performances, the manager said. Most, but not all, were men.

Only 75 persons were there Thursday night when Sheri Champagne closed out the old show.

"I started crying twice out there on stage," said Sheri, whose real name is Sheri Crandall. "All the regulars that I've seen so often in that front row were out there."

For the farewell performance, Sheri included the routines for which she has twice been arrested. "It's my last show. I wanted to do everything," she said.

Why the sex change? Money, said Roger Forbes, president of the Gaiety Theater chain, which operates the theater. The New Paris can make more money catering to homosexuals, he said.

The decision to seek a gay audience was had news to the New Paris' four strippers and to Larry Cavello, who was the manager and master of ceremonies until Thursday night.

"The regulars that come here are not very happy," said Cavello. "We had one guy come to us and practically start crying. He said this is the closest thing to burlesque we've got."

Sheba, one of the now unemployed strippers, said Forbes "is absolutely crazy for putting guys in here. They'll do the same thing we do. The thing is, we can do it better."

But Ray Gehrman, the new operations manager, said he expected 200 people for a total of four performances, opening night. "It's word of mouth that's going to carry this business," he said.

For their $5, the customers get a look at six local men who dance to "disco music" for about an hour-and-a-half. "The boys strip all the way down," said Gehrman. "It's what we call totally anatural."

He said the Seattle Police Department vice squad visited the theater Friday night, but he indicated there was no problem. "We're not catering totally to the gay community. This show is open to anyone," said Gehrman. "We've already had six women tonight and a couple of couples."

Over The Hill At Age 35?

MANILA, The Philippines (AP) — The Philippine government today ordered a dairy company to keep on the job 20 promotional ice cream sellers past age 35 after the employer contended they had lost their "youth, freshness and personality."

The labor department said a woman retains her "qualities of personality and attractiveness" even after age 35.

For the farewell performance, Sheri included the routines for which she has twice been arrested. "It's my last show. I wanted to do everything," she said.

Why the sex change? Money, said Roger Forbes, president of the Gaiety Theater chain, which operates the theater. The New Paris can make more money catering to homosexuals, she said.

The decision to seek a gay audience was bad news to the New Paris' four strippers and to Larry Covello, who was the manager and master of ceremonies until Thursday night.

"The regulars that come here are not very happy," said Covello. "We had one guy come to us and practically start crying. He said this is the closest thing to burlesque we've got."

Sheba, one of the now unemployed strippers, said Forbes "is absolutely crazy for putting guys in here. They'll do the same thing we do. The thing is, we can do it better."

But Ray Gehrman, the new operations manager, said he expected 200 people for a total of four performances opening night. "It's word of mouth that's going to carry this business," he said.

For their $5, the customers get a look at six local men who dance to "disco music" for about an hour-and-a-half. "The boys strip all the way down," said Gehrman. "It's what we call totally au natural."

He said the Seattle Police Department vice squad visited the theater Friday night, but he indicated there was no problem.

"We're not catering totally to the gay community. This show is open to anyone," said Gehrman. "We've already had six women tonight and a couple of couples."

Swine Flu Immunizations Starting On Small Scale

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first shots of the new swine flu vaccine will be administered in experimental doses next week to hundreds of federal employees. It is the first step toward mass immunization of the U.S. population.

The Food and Drug Administration said Friday that four drug companies have delivered 24,000 vials of vaccine in three dosage strengths to the FDA. Volunteers will be inoculated and monitored to determine which strength provides the best protection against the flu virus with minimal side effects.

The vaccine is manufactured from inactivated virus and no one will catch influenza from the shots, the FDA said. One of the purposes of the testing is to measure possible adverse reactions from the vaccine such as a sore arm, fever or allergic response.

The subjects will be from the FDA and National Institutes of Health. Testing will later be expanded to Baylor University in Texas and the University of Rochester in New York, and then to other locations across the country.

Test results should be back by early June, in time to establish the dosage strength so manufacturers can begin producing millions of vials of vaccine for the fall immunization campaign, the FDA said.

President Ford signed a bill Thursday providing $135 million for purchase and distribution of the vaccine.

The government's goal is to vaccinate 95 per cent of the American population against swine flu which is suspected of being of the same type that led to the deaths of 20 million persons in the 1918-19 worldwide epidemic, including 548,000 in the United States.

MANILA, The Philippines (AP) — The Philippine government today ordered a dairy company to keep on the job 20 promotional ice cream sellers past age 35 after the employer contended they had lost their "youth, freshness and personality."

The labor department said a woman retains her "qualities of personality and attractiveness even after age 35."

Portable power sanders have made the job of giving wood a smooth finish a lot easier. More important, they enable almost anyone to get a good result.

While hand sanding still has a place on some kinds of wood finishing, there isn't much doubt that power sanding has taken over with most professionals as well as do-it-yourselfers.

The disc sander, which is attached to a circular pad that has a metal rod to fit into a chuck, is for rough, fast work.

It may be a tool in itself or an attachment to another tool such as a portable electric drill.

The disc sander must be operated very carefully to prevent making swirls and gouges in the wood. Even though refinements have been made in some sanders of this type to cut down on the possibility of marring the wood, the disc sander generally should be reserved for removing paint on rough surfaces and other jobs where smooth finishes are not required.

For most heavy-duty work, the belt sander is ideal. On flat surfaces where considerable smoothing is necessary, it does well, especially when it is planned to use a finishing sander for the final operation.

Consider the belt sander the workhorse of the workshop. When the right abrasive paper is used, it even does a good job of getting a reasonably good, smooth final finish. This sander utilizes a continuous abrasive belt that runs over cylinders with a flat metal plate which gives the moving material the necessary backing. To give the surface of the wood a fine finish, the proper portable electric tool is the finishing sander. Under that name there are several types, such as orbital, straight-line, vibrator, etc.

The vibrator is not motor-driven and is used for small work. The orbital and straightline sanders are the kind most home owners and wood finishers find the most practical.

The abrasive paper attached to the orbital sander moves in tiny, almost imperceptible ovals. The pad on the straightline sander moves back and forth. Some people find the orbital sander perfect for all finishing operations. Some prefer the straight-line sander, especially when an exceptionally fine finish is needed, the theory being that the abrasive paper is never crossing the grain.

To most eyes, there is no visible difference between the finishes produced by the two types. To others, the straight-line sander seems to give a better result.

I solved the problem a few years ago by purchasing a dual action sander. When the switch is set one way, the sander has an orbital movement; when set the other way, the dual action sander is used orbitally for the first and second sandings, in a straight line for the final sanding.

In all sanding operations, it is important that the right abrasive paper be used. The rougher the paper, the smoother the finish.

Many do-it-yourselfers neglect this principal between they don't want to spend the extra couple of minutes it takes to change the paper.

With a power sander, by way, it is wise to get a type of sandpaper that stands up to the extra pressure of the machine. Most such products are marked.

If they aren't, ask your dealer to advise you, being sure to tell him which type of sander you have.

Turbine Ventilators Use 'Wind Power'

NEW YORK (AP) — It took the energy shortage to make people more conscious of the possibilities of better utilization of sun and wind.

Solar energy and windmills have come in for some attention. Less well-known, however, are efforts to use wind as a warm-weather coolant, even in house which have air conditioning.

Wind-powered turbine ventilators are being seen here and there on rooftops. They spin freely in the slightest breeze, removing hot air from attics and reducing the use of air conditioning equipment, saving money and electric energy.

The Federal Housing Administration has given its approval for use of the ventilators, as has the Office of Energy Conservation in the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Turbine ventilators aren't new. Years ago John Fetter, head of the Triangle Engineering Co. of Houston, Texas, took the old commercial version and redesigned it for residential use. Such a ventilator literally sucks hot air from an attic, equalizing temperature and pressure, permitting an air conditioner's thermostat to be set 3 to 5 degrees high without any loss of cooling comfort.

A turbine ventilator is no substitute for the entry of outside air into the house through gabled louvers or screened soffits in the eaves.

In fact, such air is required is the ventilator is to do its job efficiently.

Ventilator or no ventilator, an attic should not be completely sealed. Besides making a house hot, the heat pressure that builds up can cause shingles to buckle and the roof itself to warp.

What happens if there is no wind blowing? Heat inside the attic will rise and, of itself, turn the ventilating unit, which in turn will draw heat out of the attic.

Because of the powerful thrust of the specially-designed blades of the ventilator, no outside elements — such as rain, snow, sleet or whirlwind sand or dust — can enter the attic.

Q. — I know all about how to correct squeaky floors by nailing through the boards into the joists, but I would like to avoid that since I have heard the squeaks can be eliminated by sprinkling talcum powder or spraying graphite powder between the boards. I don't want to do this unless there is a good chance that it will work. Can you advise me?

A. — When the squeaks are minor and when they are caused by floor boards rubbing against each other, powder or graphite may eliminate them. There is no harm in trying this method, but be forewarned that even if it works, it is likely that the squeaks will return at some future time when the powder or graphite has worn off.

Q. — Some years ago when I painted the outside of my house, I discovered when I had finished that hundreds of small flying insects had been caught in the wet paint. I have since moved and now want to do a paint job on my present house. Is there any way that the insect problem can be avoided?

A. — How far away from your previous location is your present residence? It may be that there will be no such trouble where you now live. If you want to be sure, rub about three tablespoons of citronella oil with each gallon of paint.

Q. — I notice that when an electrician winds the end of a wire around a terminal screw when making a connection, it comes out nice and neat. Whenever I do it, my strands of the wire poke their way out from under the screw, resulting in quite a mess. What am I doing wrong?

A. — You are probably winding the wire around the screw in the wrong direction. Twist the wire around the screw in a clockwise direction, so that when you tighten the screw, the wire will stay in place. If you wind the wire in a counter-clockwise direction, it will be pushed out of alignment when you drive home the screw.

Q. — I have been told that urethane varnish is extra good but that it is more expensive. How can I tell when the varnish type is the urethane type?

Ventilator or no ventilator, an attic should not be completely sealed. Besides making a house hot, the heat pressure that builds up can cause shingles to buckle and the roof itself to warp.

What happens if there is no wind blowing? Heat inside the attic will rise and, of itself, turn the ventilating unit, which in turn will draw heat out of the attic.

Because of the powerful thrust of the specially-designed blades of the ventilator, no outside elements — such as rain, snow, sleet or dust — can enter the attic.

Q — I know all about how to correct squeaky floors by nailing through the boards into the joists, but I would like to avoid that since I have heard the squeaks can be eliminated by sprinkling talcum powder or spraying graphite powder between the boards. I don't want to do this unless there is a good chance that it will work. Can you advise me?

A — When the squeaks are minor and when they are caused by floor boards rubbing against each other, powder or graphite may eliminate them. There is no harm trying this method, but be forewarned that even if it works, it is likely that the squeaks will return at some future time when the powder or graphite has worn off.

Q — Some years ago when I painted the outside of my house, I discovered when I had finished that hundreds of small flying insects had been caught in the wet paint. I have since moved and now want to do a paint job on my present house. Is there any way that the insect problem can be avoided?

A — How far away from your previous location is your present residence? It may be that there will be no such trouble where you now live. If you want to be sure, mix about three tablespoons of citronella oil with each gallon of paint.

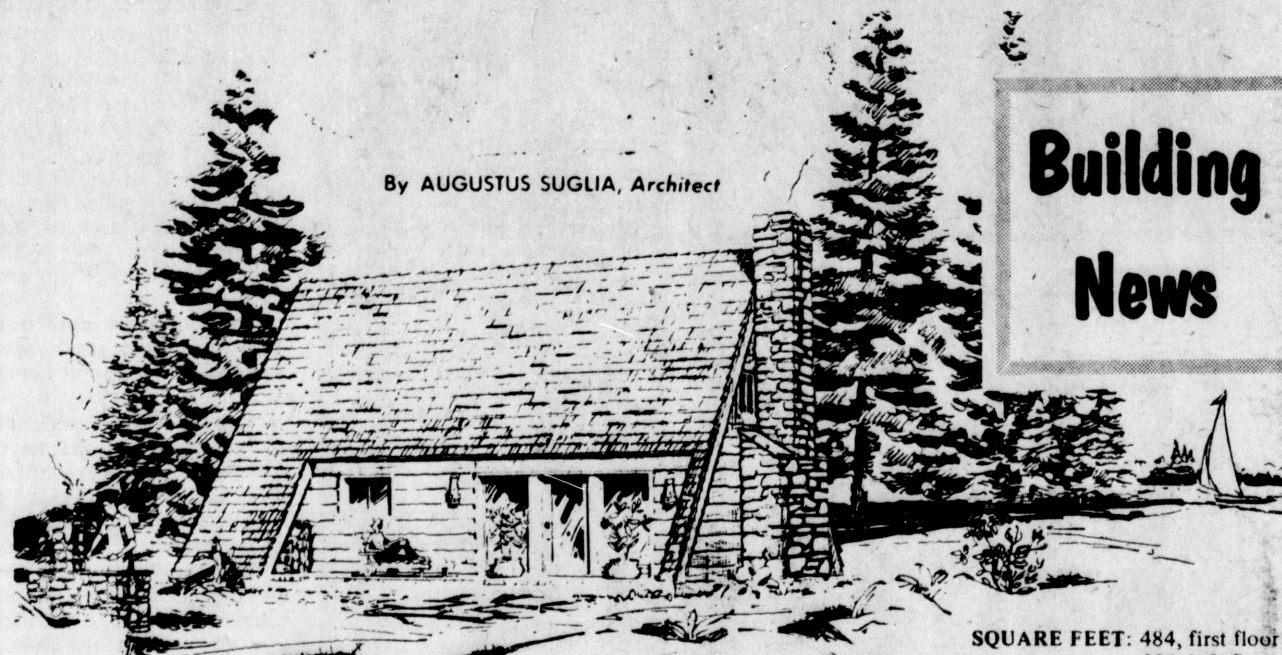

Q — I notice that when an electrician winds the end of a wire around a terminal screw when making a connection, it comes out nice and neat. Whenever I do it, tiny strands of the wire poke their way out from under the screw, resulting in quite a mess. What am I doing wrong?

A — You are probably winding the wire around the screw in the wrong direction. Twist the wire around the screw in a clockwise direction, so that when you tighten the screw, the wire will stay in place. If you wind the wire in a counter-clockwise direction, it will be pushed out of alignment when you drive home the screw.

Q — I have been told that urethane varnish is extra good but that it is more expensive. How can I tell when the varnish type is the urethane type?

VEGETABLES NOW

The time has arrived for planting those cold tolerant crops. Beets, carrots, celeriac, collards, garlic, kohlrabi, leek, lettuce, onion, parsnip, peas, potatoes, radishes, rhubarb, sal-sify, spinach, cabbage, broccoli, and cauliflower should be planted now. Fall crops of cabbage, cauliflower and broccoli can be planted as transplants until July 15th. Plant sweet corn now but remember it is frost-tender.

MAGGOTS

I would suggest that those crops that have root maggot problems (radish, cabbage, onion, etc.) be drenched with diazinon once at planting and again two weeks later, but at least 10 days before harvest in the case of radish. Apply 2 tsp. of 50 per cent powder in a gallon of water over 20 feet of row.

MAPLE BLADDER GALL The green, red, or black galls formed on the leaves of silver or soft maple are not harmful to the tree. They are caused by tiny mites feeding on the new leaves. If you do wish to control them, spray with malathion or kethane when the leaves are as big as a cat's ear.

Patty's Testimony Sought In Soliah Robbery Trial

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst faces an Easter weekend in the hospital undergoing medical tests. An air tube has been removed from her chest, but doctors are concerned about her general health and signs that could indicate a liver ailment.

Her right lung, which collapsed on Tuesday, was reinflated. Doctors at Sequoia Hospital felt the air leak in the lung was sufficiently healed Friday to remove a vacuum tube from the chest cavity.

But they said an air-filled blister, known as a "bleb," remains on the lung and "bears watching." A rupture of the blister could cause a second collapse of the lung.

Meanwhile, Miss Hearst, convicted of bank robbery March 20 and under temporary sentence pending 90 days of psychiatric and medical tests, was placed in federal custody.

U.S. Marshals patrolled the hospital halls and one marshal was stationed in her room.

And in Sacramento, Calif., an attorney for one of her underground companions now on trial for bank robbery said he wants the 22-year-old newspaper heiress to testify about what she told prosecutors concerning the 1975 bank robbery in a Sacramento suburb.

"We intend to ask the judge to call her," said Sheldon Otis, attorney for Steven Soliah, 27, a housepainter who was sharing a house with Miss Hearst when they were arrested Sept. 18.

Soliah is charged with taking part in a $15,000 robbery last April at the Crocker National Bank in Carmichael, Calif.

Soliah is the only person charged in that crime, but the San Francisco Examiner said Friday that Miss Hearst named four to six other persons who took part in the robbery in a lengthy session with government prosecutors last Monday.

Quoting sources close to the investigation, the Examiner said Miss Hearst told investigators that Wendy Yoshimura, the fugitive artist arrested with her, drove a getaway car in the robbery.

The newspaper said Miss Hearst told investigators that terrorist robbers fled the bank in one car on April 21, 1975, then switched to a second car blocks away with Miss Yoshimura behind the wheel.

Otis said Al Johnson, one of Miss Hearst's attorneys, told him that the newspaper heiress also confirmed that Soliah was "in the area" the day of the bank robbery but did not participate.

U.S. District Court Judge Philip Wilkins postponed until Monday a decision on whether to call Miss Hearst.

Connally Says He's Still Neutral

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Texas Gov. John Connally says that in his political discussions with President Ford and GOP challenger Ronald Reagan, neither candidate has promised him anything in exchange for his support.

With the Texas primary two weeks away, Connally has thus far maintained public neutrality although both Ford and

Reagan have been courting the former treasury secretary.

Connally has met twice with Ford in the past two weeks and has said he has also spoken to Reagan.

But he emphatically denied published reports that Ford has offered him a Cabinet post in exchange for his support.

"In the conversations which I have had with the two principals — President Ford and Gov. Reagan — there's never been even the hint of an offer of any post or any assignment now or in the future or after the election," Connally said Friday.

Ford held two White House meetings with Connally, then early this week nominated a Connally law partner to a federal judgeship.

Both Ford and Reagan believe Connally could swing a lot of votes in the May 4 Texas primary battle. His endorsement would be less critical for Reagan, who is thought to be favored by the conservative Texas Republicans who follow Connally.

Connally's comments Friday followed a published report that Ford had offered to make him secretary of state after the November elections in exchange for support in the Texas primary.

"I want to say this story is a speculative rumor that is the product of a distorted imagination. It is totally untrue," Connally said.

The White House also denied the report and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger dismissed it with a smile.

Mayor Cuts Ribbon At Big Klan Rally

BONHAY, La. (AP) — The mayor cut the ribbon at the Ku Klux Klan's house-warming party, but he didn't stick around for the cross-burning. About 100 persons were on hand Friday as the Klan held a march and rally to celebrate the opening of its new political headquarters for the 8th Congressional District. The ceremony marked the once-furtive group's most public venture in this papermill town since the early 1960s. Police were out in force, and there were no incidents. Mayor Louis Rawls, appearing somewhat ill at ease, turned his back to the crowd and the television cameras to snip the ribbon. He declined to make a speech, explaining that it was his long-standing policy to cut a ribbon for any local group which requests it.

"They are citizens just like anybody else," he had said of the Klansmen. But as dusk descended, his honor hurried off before the Klan launched into a traditional rally with speeches exhorting blacks, Jews, Communists and federal bureaucrats. Thirty hooded Klansmen raised their torches to the blazing cross. "We light the cross to show that Christ is the light of the world," proclaimed Imperial Wizard Bill Wilkinson of Denham Springs, La.

"Any crosses you see burned in the speak of the night, it's not our doing," he added to fervent applause from the crowd. "When we light a cross, we stand by it until it is extinguished." Paul

Pierce Jr., great titan of the 6th District, told the gathering he foresees a day soon when KKK members will run for every office in his district. "And we're going to have Klansmen elected to a majority of offices they are running for," he said.

Once an invisible army of night riders, the Klan demonstrated its new open style by routing its midday march — led by a hooded horseman — through a black section of town. Residents lining the parade route responded with black power salutes, but there was a carnival atmosphere — almost as if the blacks appreciated the irony of a KKK parade in this city known for its civil rights marches and violence a decade ago.

Foster Home Patient Death Triggers Probe

DETROIT (AP) — The death of one of three beating victims at a state-funded adult foster care home has triggered an investigation by the chief of the state Department of Social Services. The state agency's director, John T. Dempsey, said Friday he wants to find out why officials inside his agency failed to take action against the Adams Adult Foster Care Facility in Detroit for more than a year, despite frequent reports of irregularities at the home.

A report by a state social worker in February 1977 recommended the home be closed. Dempsey said he wants to find out why the social worker, Bonnie Russell, was pulled off the case after she wrote the report.

The state probe began in April with the death of Clarence Kitchen, 67, who was badly beaten and found unconscious March 6 on a bathroom floor at the home. He died April 4. Dempsey said the social worker's report, dated Feb. 6, 1977, alleges that no one supervised the home, attendants drank on duty, high doses of drugs were administered to keep residents quiet, the diet was inadequate and there were no planned activities at the home.

Later reports to the state detailed at least two patient beatings at the home. In one of them, a man suffered a broken hip when another resident threw a chair at him.

"My frank feeling is that there was a dereliction (of duty) on the part of some people within the state agency," Dempsey said.

The owner of the home, Mary Aulis, refused to comment on any of the allegations against her facility. It houses between 15 and 20 residents and the state pays the home up to $300 a month for each patient. The home is for former mental patients who require supervision.

Kitchen's unconscious body was found by several residents. Three of the residents said no attendant was on duty at the time. The attendant, Fred Moore, said he left the home only for a few minutes to take out the trash.

An autopsy report showed Kitchen suffered broken ribs, bruises on both temples and what the apparent cause of death was a cerebral hemorrhage.

Homicide Detective Joseph Bayol said two persons were being investigated in the case. Bayol said the elderly man was either kicked or beaten with a fist, apparently by someone who wanted cigarettes from Kitchen.

Citizens for Better Care, a non-profit group which monitors nursing homes and similar institutions, asked for state entry into the case.

When I surfaced, somebody from the tugboat handed me a stick. I was tickled to death to see that stick ... I grabbed it," said Boudreaux.

Terry Jones, 21, of Springhill, La., said the capsule capsize when it approached the tugboat and "it was being set up" for rescue.

"The capsule's seam split open and the hatch popped up when it hit the side of the tugboat," said Jones. "I THINK I got out through a porthole."

Efforts by the tugboat and the Coast Guard to right the capsule failed. The aircraft carrier Lexington, on maneuvers off the Texas coast, was dispatched to the scene.

Capsize No. 2 finally was hoisted aboard the Lexington on Friday morning, nearly 12 hours after it capsize. As it was pulled out of the water, four bodies tumbled through the open hatch. They were recovered by divers. The bodies of the nine other men were still inside.

The Nueces County medical examiner said all 13 men died by drowning.

The doomed survival capsules were made by the Whitaker Corp. of San Diego, Calif.

"It's considered around the world to be the most advanced piece of life saving equipment available," said Joe Payne of Whitaker.

Named the Survival System, the fiberglass units are tested through a 2,000-degree scorching and a 50-foot drop from a helicopter. They are big enough to hold 20 men and foam flotation material keeps them seaworthy even when flooded.

St. Joe Mailboxes, Fences Vandalized

St. Joseph police Friday investigated vandalism that included damaged mailboxes, a broken fence and scattered trash along the 2000 block of Lakeview avenue.

Mailboxes were reported damaged at the residences of Dr. W.A. Chickering, 2016 Lakeview; D.L. McFall, 2020 Lakeview; John Gersonde, 2030 Lakeview; Gordon Hinkley, 2085 Lakeview; Stanley Miller, 2099 Lakeview; Robert Herkner, 2515 Lakeview; and Edward Putlick, 2613 Lakeview.

Police said a wooden fence was pulled out and scattered about at the residence of Lynn Dulcher, 2615 Lakeview, while a name plate was torn loose at the residence of William Mawhinney, 3225 Lakeview. Trash bags were reported emptied on the ground at several of the area residences.

Police said several youths have been questioned, but no arrests have been made, pending further investigation.

The damage was discovered by officers on patrol shortly after 8 a.m.

St. Joseph police Friday investigated the theft of an umbrella tent with two sleeping bags, and two flashlights, totaling some $110, from the residence of Richard Lemire, 817 Lewis Park drive.

Benton Harbor police investigated thefts of two citizens' car radios from parked autos.

Dave Lewis, 1010 Park road, rural Benton Harbor, said a $100 citizens' band radio was stolen from his car, parked on Columbus, near Cataips. Susan Taylor, 282 Pleasant street, Benton Harbor, said a $188 unit was stolen from her auto, parked on Broadway near Lincoln.

Bertha Patton told Benton Harbor police $60 in cash was stolen from her residence, 515 Whitcomb court.

Police said several youths have been questioned, but no arrests have been made, pending further investigation.

he's staying home," he said. "He ain't going back, not if I can help it."

Survivors said pale-whipped winds combined with the rescue efforts of a tugboat to flip over the space-age escape capsule in which Sammie and 12 other workers died.

Winds of up to 50 miles per hour stirred 25-foot waves as the crew silently fled into two of the $65,000 survival capsules fitted on the side of the rig. Similar in shape and design to the spacecraft of the Apollo astronauts, the covered capsules are self-propelled, supposedly unsinkable and carry food and water for five days.

Fourteen crewmen reached safety in capsule No. 1 as the rig sank in 187 feet of water. The rig supervisor, Peter Van DeGraaff, was plucked to safety by a Coast Guard helicopter. It was in capsule No. 2, launched from the starboard side of the rig, that the 13 men died.

Spokesmen for Ocean Drilling and Exploration called it a "freak accident" and said the sphere was tipped over by the high winds and the rough seas. "We don't know exactly what happened. These things are supposed to float head up," a company spokesman said.

Most of the 20 men in capsule No. 2 were sitting down on its circular bench with their safety belts on when the hatch popped open and the Gulf waters rushed in as one of the tugboats tried to rescue them, the survivors said.

"The boat kept trying to pick us up and it turned us over and somehow the hatch came open and I fell through it as the capsule flipped," said Dudley Boudreaux, 45, of Abbeville, La., who said he was probably the only man in the capsule not sitting when it overturned.

"When I surfaced, somebody from the tugboat handed me a stick. I was tickled to death to see that stick ... I grabbed it," said Boudreaux.

Terry Jones, 21, of Springhill, La., said the capsule capsize when it approached the tugboat and "it was being set up" for rescue.

"The capsule's seam split open and the hatch popped up when it hit the side of the tugboat," said Jones. "I THINK I got out through a porthole."

Efforts by the tugboat and the Coast Guard to right the capsule failed. The aircraft carrier Lexington, on maneuvers off the Texas coast, was dispatched to the scene.

Presley To Marry?

ATHENS, Ala. (AP) — Iddan Tribble, a widow, said Friday night that she will marry entertainer Elvis Presley in a private ceremony today. But there was no confirmation from Presley and a spokesman denied it. "I am going to marry him," Mrs. Tribble, a secretary, told The Associated Press in a telephone interview. "I thought that the publication and everything was being left up to him because of the position he's in." Presley, 41, could not be reached for comment. However, his physician, Dr. George Nichopoulos of Memphis, Tenn., said the report was not true. Nichopoulos has regularly served as a spokesman for the entertainer.

Teen Bound For Trial

NORTH BRANCH, Mich. (AP) — A 17-year-old youth charged with assault with intent to murder the assistant principal at his school has been bound over to stand trial in Lapeer County Circuit Court. Gary Dadds is charged with assault with intent to murder North Branch High School assistant principal Leo Schleicher on March 31. Schleicher was hit in the face with a basketball from a 20-gauge shotgun as he slept on his living room couch. Schleicher testified at Dadds' district court examination Thursday that noise from the shot woke him up an instant before he was hit. The shot, which was fired from an outside window, tore away much of Schleicher's face.

Giant Oil Storage Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is seeking to establish a one-billion barrel oil reserve as insurance against another foreign oil embargo. The program is designed to protect the United States from energy shortages which could result from another embargo like the five-month cutoff imposed during the October 1973 Middle East war. The reserve would not be ready until 1977, when oil would be poured into large salt dome cavities along the Gulf Coast. Ford has asked a House Commerce subcommittee for authority to commit $871 million for oil storage facilities and studies by Sept. 30, 1977.

Seafarer Straw Vote

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — Students at Northern Michigan University have voted 9-1 against basing Project Seafarer in Upper Michigan. However, only about 10 per cent of the school's 8,314 students voted on the issue. The final tally was 80 votes supporting Seafarer and 724 against. Seafarer is a proposed U.S. Navy Project which would bury cables beneath hundreds of square miles of the Upper Peninsula. The cables would emit low-frequency waves and be used to communicate with submarines, especially in time of war.

Says It Wasn't Stolen

DETROIT (AP) — A former Detroit police officer has testified that merchandise sold near the courtroom of a Warren district judge was not stolen property, but was purchased by the policeman. Det. Sgt. Mitchell Skotarczyk, who retired Feb. 11 after 25 years' service with the Detroit police department, was one of the final witnesses before the Michigan Judicial Tenure Commission-authorized hearing on Judge Roy N. Greenburg, was recessed for the Easter weekend. Skotarczyk was among 14 defense witnesses called Thursday in the hearing on 17 charges of judicial misconduct filed against Greenburg. One of the accusations was that the judge allowed his court chambers to be used for display and sale of property which "may have been stolen." Skotarczyk disputed that account.

A Third Of The Way

DETROIT (AP) — The Michigan Citizens Lobby said it has already collected more than a third of the signatures it needs to place on November's ballot a proposal to revamp the state's tax system. Group officials called the present system "an enormous welfare program for the wealthy and large corporations." Douglas Ross, an executive of the group, said has collected more than 100,000 signatures in its three-month campaign to collect 300,000 signatures before July 6. If collected and verified, the proposal would be put on the ballot. Ross said a Michigan family making $15,000 a year pays 35 to 50 per cent more of its income in state and local taxes than does a family earning $100,000. The group's plan would reduce the state income tax from 4.6 per cent to 3.9 per cent for those earning $20,000 or less. It would hike the state income tax from 4.6 per cent to 9.3 per cent on all income above $20,000.

Truck Found On Fire Is Said Stolen

SOUTH HAVEN — A pickup truck reported stolen from outside a Pullman tavern late Thursday was found on fire early yesterday, according to state police from the South Haven post.

Police were notified by Leetownship firemen at about midnight Thursday that a truck later determined to be Wilkington's was found on fire on 19th avenue near 5th street.

Police said the fire damaged the engine and passenger compartment.

BH Gets Grant To Assist Park Feeding Program

DETROIT — Action, the federal agency for volunteer service, has awarded $2,000 to the Benton Harbor area recreation board to set up a volunteer program for local service.

The grant to the local recreation board, 809 Territorial road, was announced in Detroit by Action State Director Stan Stewart.

The one-year grant, part of a national grant program, to mobilize local volunteers, will provide funds for approximately 20 volunteers to work on seasonal park program projects. Effective June 1 and through the summer the volunteers will help staff the summer feeding program which provides lunch and an afternoon snack to some 300-odd children in the eight area parks and four school playground sites.

After the summer season the volunteers will be assigned to teach arts and crafts at school sites and various pre-school programs.

Sarah Eggleston, program supervisor and acting director of the recreation board, will organize the volunteers.

The grant is one of many programs for local service funded by Action, established in 1971. Other Action programs include Corps, Vista, Foster Grandparent program, Retired Senior Volunteers, Action Cooperative Volunteers, and University Year for Action.

Mayor Cuts Ribbon At Big Klan Rally

BOGALUSA, La. (AP) — The mayor cut the ribbon at the Ku Klux Klan's house-warming party, but he didn't stick around for the cross-burning. About 100 persons were on hand Friday as the Klan held a march and rally to celebrate the opening of its new political headquarters for the 6th Congressional District. The ceremony marked the once-furtive group's most public venture in this papermill town since the early 1960s. Police were out in force and there were no incidents. Mayor Louis Rawls, appearing somewhat ill at ease, turned his back to the crowd and the television cameras to snip the ribbon. He declined to make a speech, explaining that it was his long-standing policy to cut a ribbon for any local group which requests it.

St. Joe Mailboxes, Fences Vandalized

St. Joseph police Friday investigated vandalism that included damaged mailboxes, a broken fence and scattered trash along the 2000 block of Lakeview avenue.

Mailboxes were reported damaged at the residences of Dr. W.A. Chickering, 2016 Lakeview; D.L. McFall, 2020 Lakeview; John Gersonde, 2030 Lakeview; Gordon Hinkley, 2605 Lakeview; Stanley Miller, 2609 Lakeview; Robert Herkner, 2611 Lakeview; and Edward Petlick, 2613 Lakeview.

Police said a wooden fence was pulled out and scattered about at the residence of Lynn Dutcher, 2615 Lakeview, while a name plate was torn loose at the residence of William Mawhinney, 2525 Lakeview. Trash bags were reported emptied on the ground at several of the area residences.

Police said several youths have been questioned, but no arrests have been made, pending further investigation.

The damage was discovered by officers on patrol shortly after 6 a.m.

St. Joseph police Friday investigated the theft of an umbrella tent with two sleeping bags, and two flashlights, totaling some $110, from the residence of Richard Lemire, 817 Lions Park drive.

Benton Harbor police investigated thefts of two citizens' radios from parked autos.

Dave Lewis, 1010 Park road, rural Benton Harbor, said a $160 citizens' band radio was stolen from his car, parked on Columbus, near Catalpa. Susan Taylor, 262 Pleasant street, Benton Harbor, said a $189 unit was stolen from her auto, parked on Broadway near Lincoln.

Bertha Patton told Benton Harbor police $68 in cash was stolen from her residence, 515 Whitcomb court.

"They are citizens just like anybody else," he had said of the Klansmen. But as dusk descended, his honor scurried off before the Klan launched into a traditional rally with speeches exhorting blacks, Jews, Communists and federal bureaucrats. Thirty hooded Klansmen raised their torches to the blazing cross. "We light the cross to show that Christ is the light of the world," proclaimed Imperial Wizard Bill Wilkinson of Denham Springs, La.

"Any crosses you see burned in the sneak of the night, it's not our doing," he added to fervent applause from the crowd. "When we light a cross, we stand by it until it is extinguished." Paul

Pierce Jr., great titan of the 6th District, told the gathering he foresees a day soon when KKK members will run for every office in his district. "And we're going to have Klansmen elected to a majority of offices they are running for," he said.

Once an invisible army of night riders, the Klan demonstrated its new open style by routing its midday march — led by a hooded horseman — through a black section of town. Residents lining the parade route responded with black power salutes, but there was a carnival atmosphere — almost as if the blacks appreciated the irony of a KKK parade in this city known for its civil rights marches and violence a decade ago.

The domed survival capsules were made by the Whittaker Corp. of San Diego, Calif.

"It's considered around the world to be the most advanced piece of life saving equipment available," said Joe Payne of Whittaker.

Named the Survival System, the fiberglass units are tested through a 2,000-degree scorching and a 50-foot drop from a helicopter. They are big enough to hold 28 men and foam flotation material keeps them seaworthy even when flooded.

Foster Home Patient Death Triggers Probe

DETROIT (AP) — The death of one of three beating victims at a state-funded adult foster care home has triggered an investigation by the chief of the state Department of Social Services. The state agency's director, John T. Dempsey, said Friday he wants to find out why officials inside his agency failed to take action against the Adams Adult Foster Care Facility in Detroit for more than a year, despite frequent reports of irregularities at the home.

A report by a state social worker in February 1975 recommended the home be closed. Dempsey said he wants to find out why the social worker, Bonnie Russel, was pulled off the case after she wrote the report.

The state probe began in April with the death of Clarence Kitchen, 67, who was badly beaten and found unconscious March 6 on a bathroom floor at the home. He died April 4.

Dempsey said the social worker's report, dated Feb. 6, 1975, alleges that no one supervised the home, attendants drank on duty, high doses of drugs were administered to keep residents quiet, the diet was inadequate and there were no planned activities at the home.

Later reports to the state detailed at least two patient beatings at the home. In one of them, a man suffered a broken hip when another resident threw a chair at him.

"My frank feeling is that there was a dereliction (of duty) on the part of ... some people" within the state agency, Dempsey said.

The owner of the home, Mary Auld, refused to comment on any of the allegations against her facility. It houses between 15 and 20 residents and the state pays the home up to $300 a month for each patient. The home is for former mental patients who require supervision.

Kitchen's unconscious body was found by several residents. Three of the residents said no attendant was on duty at the time. The attendant, Fred Moore, said he left the home only for a few minutes to take out the trash.

An autopsy report showed Kitchen suffered broken ribs, bruises on both temples and that the apparent cause of death was a cerebral hemorrhage.

Homicide Detective Joseph Bayol said two persons were being investigated in the case. Bayol said the elderly man was either kicked or beaten with a fist, apparently by someone who wanted cigarettes from Kitchen.

Citizens for Better Care, a non-profit group which monitors nursing homes and similar institutions, asked for state entry into the case.

BH Gets Grant To Assist Park Feeding Program

DETROIT — Action, the federal agency for volunteer service, has awarded $2,000 to the Benton Harbor area recreation board to set up a volunteer program for local service.

The grant to the local recreation board, 809 Territorial road, was announced in Detroit by Action State Director Stan Stewart.

The one-year grant, part of a national grant program to mobilize local volunteers, will provide funds for approximately 20 volunteers to work on seasonal park program projects. Effective June 1 and through the summer the volunteers will help staff the summer feeding program which provides lunch and an afternoon snack to some 300,000 children in the eight area parks and four school playground sites.

After the summer season the volunteers will be assigned to teach arts and crafts at school sites and various pre-school programs.

Sarah Eggleston, program supervisor and acting director of the recreation board, will organize the volunteers.

Presley To Marry?

ATHENS, Ala. (AP) — Itadean Tribble, a widow, said Friday night that she will marry entertainer Elvis Presley in a private ceremony today. But there was no confirmation from Presley and a spokesman denied it. "I am going to marry him," Mrs. Tribble, a secretary, told The Associated Press in a telephone interview. "I thought that the publication and everything was being left up to him because of the position he's in." Presley, 41, could not be reached for comment. However, his physician, Dr. George Nichopoulos of Memphis, Tenn., said the report was not true. Nichopoulos has regularly served as a spokesman for the entertainer.

Teen Bound For Trial

NORTH BRANCH, Mich. (AP) — A 17-year-old youth charged with assault with intent to murder the assistant principal at his school has been bound over to stand trial in Lapeer County Circuit Court. Gary Dadds is charged with assault with intent to murder North Branch High School assistant principal Lee Schleicher on March 31. Schleicher was hit in the face with a buckshot from a 20-gauge shotgun as he slept on his living room couch. Schleicher testified at Dadds' district court examination Thursday that noise from the shot woke him up an instant before he was hit. The shot, which was fired from an outside window, tore away much of Schleicher's face.

Giant Oil Storage Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is seeking to establish a one-billion barrel oil reserve as insurance against another foreign oil embargo. The program is designed to protect the United States from energy shortages which could result from another embargo like the five-month cutoff imposed during the October 1973 Middle East war. The reserve would not be ready until 1977, when oil would be poured into large salt dome cavities along the Gulf Coast. Ford has asked a House Commerce subcommittee for authority to commit $871 million for oil, storage facilities and studies by Sept. 30, 1977.

Seafarer Straw Vote

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — Students at Northern Michigan University have voted 9-1 against basing Project Seafarer in Upper Michigan. However, only about 10 per cent of the school's 8,514 students voted on the issue. The final tally was 80 votes supporting Seafarer and 724 against. Seafarer is a proposed U.S. Navy Project which would bury cables beneath hundreds of square miles of the Upper Peninsula. The cables would emit low-frequency waves and be used to communicate with submarines, especially in time of war.

Says It Wasn't Stolen

DETROIT (AP) — A former Detroit police officer has testified that merchandise sold near the courtroom of a Warren district judge was not stolen property, but was purchased by the policeman. Det. Sgt. Mitchell Skotarczyk, who retired Feb. 11 after 25 years' service with the Detroit police department, was one of the final witnesses before the Michigan Judicial Tenure Commission-authorized hearing on Judge Roy N. Gruenberg was recessed for the Easter weekend. Skotarczyk was among 14 defense witnesses called Thursday in the hearing on 17 charges of judicial misconduct filed against Gruenberg. One of the accusations was that the judge allowed his court chambers to be used for display and sale of property which "may have been stolen." Skotarczyk disputed that account.

A Third Of The Way

DETROIT (AP) — The Michigan Citizens Lobby said it has already collected more than a third of the signatures it needs to place on November's ballot a proposal to revamp the state's tax system. Group officials called the present system "an enormous welfare program for the wealthy and large corporations." Douglas Ross, an executive of the group, said has collected more than 100,000 signatures in its three-month campaign to collect 300,000 signatures before July 6. If collected and verified, the proposal would be put on the ballot. Ross said a Michigan family making $15,000 a year pays 35 to 50 per cent more of its income in state and local taxes than does a family earning $100,000. The group's plan would reduce the state income tax from 4.6 per cent to 3.9 per cent for those earning $20,000 or less. It would hike the state income tax from 4.6 per cent to 9.3 per cent on all income above $20,000.

Contractors Sue Berrien Over Industrial Expansion

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Two firms which supplied materials for an addition at the

Stanley Knight Corp. in New Troy have filed suit in Berrien Circuit court against the company, Berrien county and all 13 county commissioners.

The county and its commissioners were named defendants in the suits because Berrien county in 1974 sponsored $700,000 in industrial revenue bonds so Stanley Knight could expand, technically making Berrien county the owner of the plant.

In separate but related suits, Great Lakes Heating & Air Conditioning Co., of South Bend, seeks $13,000 and Burdick Electric, Inc., of Niles, asks for $14,624, with both suits alleging the amounts are for labor and materials.

Both contracting firms claim they were subcontractors to furnish materials and labor to McCollough Construction Co. of Stevensville, which in turn had a contract with the county and Stanley Knight, the suits allege. The suits contend both firms hold mechanic's liens and have not been paid.

County Coordinator Roger Petrie noted McCollough went out of business about 1½ years ago and that any receivership appointed for the defunct firm would be responsible for bills which McCollough still has outstanding.

"In no way does the county have any obligation to pay the bills," Petrie emphasized, adding the contract which the county endorsed the bonds for Stanley Knight in contains a "hold harmless" clause for the county.

The county basically issues industrial revenue bonds so a firm can expand and receive the county's low interest rates under Berrien's Economic Development program.

Assistant Prosecutor John Bruha, chief of the civil division, explained that under the act for the bonds, Stanley Knight turns the title for the plant over to the county, which then leases the plant back, with the rent going to pay off the bonds.

As part of the lease, according to Bruha, Stanley Knight is responsible for operations of the business, and is required to hold the county harmless from all claims and to satisfy all liens.

The suits also contend that the county violated state statutes by not requiring McCollough to post a performance bond for construction. But Bruha maintained a performance bond is only required on public works projects, and contended the Stanley Knight addition was not a public work, so no bond was required.

Stanley Knight is a subsidiary of the Dwyer Products Corp. of Michigan City. Dwyer builds soda fountains and stainless steel kitchen and cafeteria equipment. Stanley Knight has been in operation in New Troy for the past three years in a plant originally built in 1922.

Limit On Congress Terms Is Proposed

HOLLAND, Mich. (AP) — A Michigan Congressman criticized his colleagues Friday and suggested limiting their terms of office.

Republican Rep. Guy VanderJagt said such a limit on Congressional terms would be the only way to bring about "a change in the direction America is heading."

VanderJagt did not specify what sort of limit he believes should be imposed upon Congressional terms.

The fifth-term Congressman said recent Gallup Poll figures showing nine per cent of the country approves of Congress are three times higher than they should be.

VanderJagt contended other Congressmen "should hang their heads in shame" for taking a 10-day vacation now with the federal Elections Law still in limbo.

He also criticized his Congressional cohorts for failing to police their own ethics properly. He called the House Ethics Committee "a sham," saying in its eight-year existence the committee has investigated just one House member.

He noted that during the same period, eight members of Congress have been convicted of felonies.

team playing two games there for a total of 40 to gain Kuhn's approval for an AL franchise in Toronto. A compromise solution offered by the AL to play 28 games in Kennedy Stadium, was rejected.

While the situation speeds toward a boil-over point, it was reported Friday that the enthusiasm of NL officials is cooling with each unsettled day. The Washington Post said it learned that some NL clubs want to withdraw support of a request that the Commissioner rule their expansion plans to be in the best interests of baseball.

Cincinnati Reds President Robert L. Howsam told The Post the issue "should never have been sent to the Commissioner in the first place."

AL Unanimously Ignoring Kuhn's Toronto Ruling

NEW YORK (AP) — The ultimate showdown apparently looms for Bowie Kuhn, baseball's embattled commissioner. American League owners, with high emotions ranging upward from open disrespect to sheer anger, have voted unanimously to ignore his latest ruling and go ahead with plans to place a franchise in Toronto.

"What I have to say about Bowie Kuhn's reactions wouldn't be printable," said the Oakland A's effusive owner, Charles O. Finley, after learning Kuhn had given the National League two weeks to put into effect its proposed 1977 expansion plan for Washington and Toronto.

"The only thing I can tell you is that the American League is going to Toronto, Period. Bowie Kuhn or no Bowie Kuhn."

Finley said by telephone from his room in a Chicago hospital. "If the National League doesn't like it, that's just too bad."

Finley was one of the AL owners who reportedly led a move to oust the commissioner last summer. He would not say Friday that Kuhn had put his job on the line by taking the stand that was called "an attempt to retroactively interfere with (the AL's) expansion to Toronto" by AL President Lee MacPhail.

"It wouldn't be very dignified for me to say his job was on the line," said Finley. But he attacked Kuhn's position that his actions were in the best interests of baseball.

His words echoed those issued earlier Friday by MacPhail. The 11-1 AL expansion vote had taken place March 20, followed in less than a week by the $7 million agreement to enfranchise the Canadian city with an ownership group headed by Labatt's Brewery. The NL, meanwhile, voted 10-2 to give Toronto a team but needed unanimous approval. The dissenting votes were cast by Cincinnati and Philadelphia.

But the NL has formulated contingency plans for expansion to Washington, and the AL—despite a seven-day planning period and two extensions—has so far been unable to satisfy Kuhn along those lines. That fact, combined with Kuhn's insistence that Washington be given priority consideration for a franchise, has led to his ruling in the NL's favor.

Under a plan announced April 1, Baltimore would have been obligated to play 13 games in Washington with each other AL team playing two games there for a total of 40 to gain Kuhn's approval for an AL franchise in Toronto. A compromise solution offered by the AL, to play 26 games in Kennedy Stadium, was rejected.

While the situation speeds toward a boil-over point, it was reported Friday that the enthusiasm of NL officials is cooling with each unsettled day. The Washington Post said it learned that some NL clubs want to withdraw support of a request that the Commissioner rule their expansion plans to be in the best interests of baseball.

Cincinnati Reds President Robert L. Howsam told The Post the issue "should never have been sent to the Commissioner in the first place."

Etchebarren Calls Winning Hit Tigers Topple In 11th

From Associated Press

They sat together on the bench, combining 28 years of baseball experience and 70 years of age. Catcher Andy Etchebarren surveyed the field from his perch in the California Angels' dugout and leaned over to his batterymate, pitcher Jim Brewer.

The Angels and Detroit Tigers were deadlocked 5-5 in the 11th inning, Etchebarren's two-out, ninth-inning RBI single having driven in the tying run. After Dave Chalk had opened the inning with his third hit of a lengthening evening, Andy Etchebarren spoke.

"If Rusty (Torres) sacrifices Chalk to second, I think I'll drive in the winning run, too," Etchebarren said to his 38-year-old teammate.

The script was followed perfectly. After Torres had moved Chalk over, Etchebarren strode to the plate and cracked his game-winning hit.

The 6-5 triumph over the Tigers was the Angels' third in a row after the club opened the American League season by losing its first four games. The hit that decided the game was Etchebarren's fourth in his last four at-bats.

In the other AL games Friday night, the Kansas City Royals defeated the Cleveland Indians 5-3 and the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Texas Rangers 3-1.

Jim Brewer got credit for the triumph, keeping Detroit off the board over the final 3 2/3 innings. Steve Grilli, 0-1, the third Detroit pitcher, was the loser in his first appearance of the year.

Detroit, on RBI hits by Willie Horton and Rusty Staub and a California throwing error, had rallied for three runs in the eighth inning to carry a 5-4 lead into the ninth.

Tigers starter Joe Coleman missed the bag while covering first on a ground ball for the fielding error which led to three unearned California runs in the fourth. The Angels burst wiped out an early 2-0 Tigers lead.

John Mayberry hit a tiebreaking bases-loaded single off Cleveland reliever Don Hood in the eighth inning, giving him three RBI for the night and lifting Kansas City over the Indians in a game delayed 63 minutes by rain.

Buck Martinez aided the Royals' cause with a wind-blown home run in the fifth inning. Alan Ashby hit one in the eighth for the Indians.

Darcy, John End Streaks Dodgers Lose Fifth Straight; Reds Bombed

From Associated Press

Pat Darcy hadn't lost a game since June 29, 1975, and Tommy John hadn't pitched in one since July 17, 1974. Those personal streaks now must start anew with April 16, 1976.

Darcy's 10-game winning string came to an end Friday night as the San Francisco Giants battered him and four relievers for 18 hits in a 14-7 thumping of the Cincinnati Reds. Meanwhile, John made one bad pitch — a three-run homer by Atlanta's Darrell Evans — and the Braves handed the winless Dodgers their fifth consecutive defeat, 3-1.

In the only other National League games, Doc Medich came home and posted his first NL triumph as the Pirates downed the New York Mets 3-1 and the Houston Astros won their fourth in a row, beating the San Diego Padres 4-1.

Bobby Murcer wielded San Francisco's biggest bat against the Reds, driving in four runs with a two-run homer and a bases-loaded single, while Ken Reitz, Gary Matthews and Craig Robinson each had two RBIs.

Murcer's home run capped a three-run fifth inning against Darcy and his bases-loaded single off Rawly Eastwick highlighted a six-run ninth.

Jim Barr was the winning pitcher.

Evans smashed his three-run homer in the fifth inning and Roger Moret, Atlanta's third pitcher, put down a Los Angeles rally in the ninth.

Although he was tagged with the loss, it was a satisfying comeback for the veteran John, who was making his first major league appearance since July 17, 1974, when he ruptured a ligament in his pitching elbow.

"I'd like to have won, but, yes, I'm pleased," said the 32-year-old left-hander, who allowed five hits and walked four in five innings.

Medich allowed eight hits, including a John Milner home run, but only two over the final five innings in outdueling Mickey Lolich. Meanwhile, Dave Parker drove in two Pittsburgh runs with a fourth-inning single and singled and scored on a double by Frank Taveras in the seventh as the Pirates remained the majors' only unbeaten team at 5-0.

Run-scoring doubles by Enos Cabell and Cliff Johnson and RBI singles by Greg Gross and Larry Milbourne highlighted Houston's four-run outburst in the sixth inning against rookie Dave Wehrmeister and reliever Dave Tomlin. John Grubb homered for San Diego.

Old Pro January Champions Leader

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Old pro Don January slumped back in a chair, pleased but obviously bone-weary after leaning his skinny frame into a lashing, 40-mile-per hour wind.

"Whew," he breathed. "That's tough on old folks."

January ended 2 1/2 years of retirement at age 45 and now, at 46, is fighting for the title in one of pro golf's most prestigious events, the $225,000 Tournament of Champions.

The steady, seemingly-nerveless, January, who has lost 20 pounds in his comeback and now weighs only 155, came from two strokes off the pace with a four-under-par 68 and took the second round lead from Hubert Green.

A respectable, one-over-par finish over the last three holes—played into the teeth of the whipping winds—and some excellent putting were the decisive factors in January's advance.

Green is the winner of three tournaments in a row earlier this year and two in front of the field going into Friday's windy round over the testing, 6,855-yard La Costa Country Club, course.

January had a two-round total of 139, five under par for two trips over the tough layout and one ahead of Green, whose erratic putting let him do no better than 71 and 140.

Australian Bruce Crampton, who had a share of second until he three-putted the last hole, was next at 70-140.

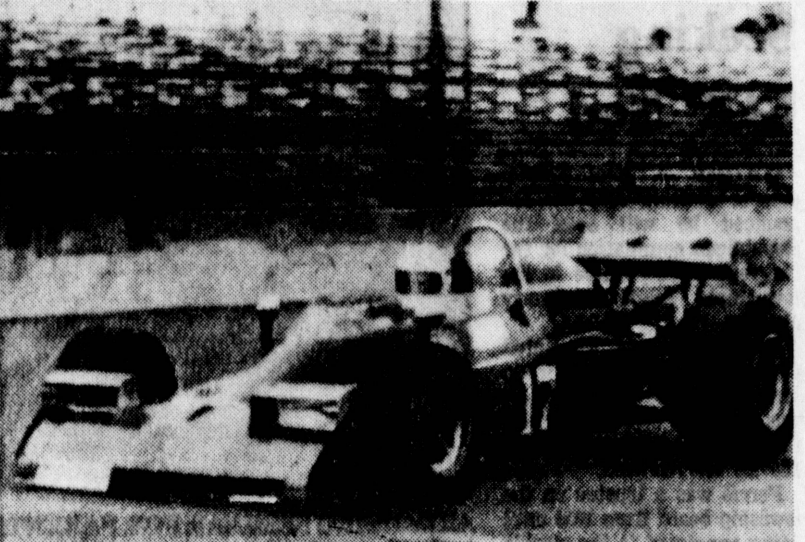

U.S. Open champion Lou Graham and J.C. Snead, tied at 142, were the only others in the elite, 22-man, winners-only field able to break par 144. Snead had a 70, Graham a 69.

Ben Crenshaw, the youthful runner-up in last week's Masters, was at 72-144.

Ray Floyd, the run-away winner of the classic in Augusta, Ga., improved from an opening 78 to 70 and said he was back in the race here.

Jack Nicklaus is not competing. Arnold Palmer, Lee Trevino and Gary Player failed to win in the United States in the last 12 months and were not eligible.

TIGHT SQUEEZE: Rookie race car driver Janet Guthrie squeezes on a pair of glasses underneath her crash helmet before going out for a trial run at the Trenton Speedway Friday. Miss Guthrie is hoping to qualify for the upcoming Trenton 200 race on April 25. Depending on her performance in the Trenton race, Miss Guthrie might be allowed to enter the Indianapolis 500. The local Special Olympics competition will begin next week at St. Joseph high school.

About 150 trainable mentally impaired students from the Gard school in St. Joseph will take part in track and field events Tuesday starting at 9:30 a.m. at Dickinson Stadium.

The Gard students will be joined by about 180 educable mentally impaired students from Benton Harbor area schools for the swimming competition which starts Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. in the St. Joseph pool.

The Benton Harbor area students will hold their local track and field events April 27 starting at 10 a.m. at Benton Harbor's Filstrup Field.

Local winners will advance to the area finals. The area swimming competition will be held April 30 in the St. Joseph pool while the track and field events are slated May 7 at Southwest Michigan College near Dowagiac.

The state Special Olympics will be held June 3-4 at Central Michigan University.

Events included in the track meet are the standing broad jump, softball throw, 50-yard dash, 220 and 440 (for 14 and over) runs. Swimming events include the 25-yard freestyle, 25-yard backstroke, 50-yard freestyle and 100-yard relay.

The Special Olympics competitors from Gard are again being sponsored by the St. Joseph-Benton Harbor Rotary Club. The Rotary Club will finance Gard local winners all the way to the state competition.

About 35 volunteer students from St. Joseph high school will assist the Gard staff at the local events.

Special Olympics was created by the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation in 1968. The goal is to provide mentally impaired persons with the opportunity to feel special and develop self-confidence and self-esteem by competing in athletic events with others on the same level. Last year the program had over 400,000 participants and a goal of 1,000,000 has been set for this year.

Every four years an international Special Olympics is held. Last year it was held at Central Michigan.

Concentrating Rankin First

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Bad weather brings better concentration, says Judy Rankin, and she used it to good advantage to move into the lead going into today's second round of the $80,000 Ladies Professional Golf Tournament.

"My concentration was good today," Miss Rankin said Friday after shooting a four-under par 68. "In bad weather it's always better."

It took lots of concentration after wind and rain delayed play for over an hour on the 6,142-yard, par-72, McCormick Ranch Course. The course is a new one, chosen after rains earlier in the week damaged the original tournament site.

It was dark when Miss Rankin reached the clubhouse as the field of 118 golfers completed the round. Sandra Palmer was two shots back with a 70.

Marlene Hagge was the only other golfer to break par as she shot a 71.

Four golfers managed to shoot 72s under the adverse conditions, which had a light snowfall on nearby mountains during the afternoon. They were Kathy Ahern, Carol Mann, Sandra Haynie and Amy Alcott.

Going one-over at 73 was defending champion Jane Blalock. Seven others were at 73. They were Judy Kimball, Shelley Hamlin, Pam Barnett, Beth Solomon, Jan Farraris, Sandra Post, Bonnie Bryant, Peggy Wilson and Sue Roberts.

The field will be cut to the low 60 scorers and ties after today's round of the 54-hole contest. The winner will receive $14,000.

Layman Sparks Beaver Romp

BLOOMINGDALE — Karen Layman smashed four homers, driving in nine runs, to power Eau Claire to a 22-10 win over Bloomingdale in a girls softball game played here Thursday afternoon.

The Beavers, now 1-0 this season, broke open a close game in the second inning when they scored eight runs. Cathy Badell smacked three hits in the game, including a roundtripper, for Eau Claire. Carla Hahn got the win.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT: Ontario attorney general Roy McMurtry announced Friday that three members of the Philadelphia Flyers have been charged in connection with an altercation with police behind the penalty box during Thursday night's NHL game in Toronto. McMurtry said defenseman Joe Watson (left) and forward Mel Bridgman (right) face charges of assault, assaulting police and possession of an offensive weapon. McGinnis Hits 34 In 76ers Win Braves Don't Know Secret BUFFALO (AP) — George McGinnis let everyone, except the Buffalo Braves, in on a secret: how to stop him from scoring.

"The only thing to do against a guy like myself, who is an offensive player, is to deny me the ball," the powerful McGinnis said Friday night after leading the Philadelphia 76ers to a 131-106 victory over the Braves in a National Basketball Association playoff game.

The Braves weren't able to do that, and McGinnis got off 24 shots from the floor. He connected on 16, mostly on fallaway one-handers, and finished with a game-high 34 points.

The 76ers' triumph deadlocked the best-of-three preliminary round series at 1-1. The decisive game will be played Sunday in Philadelphia.

The other preliminary series, between Milwaukee and Detroit, also is tied 1-1 and will be decided Sunday at Milwaukee.

In the best-of-seven quarterfinals, Washington and Cleveland, tied 1-1, met today at Cleveland, and Seattle and Phoenix, also deadlocked 1-1, play Sunday at Phoenix.

McGinnis, playing his first season in the NBA after starring in the American Basketball Association, averaged 26.6 points in seven games against Buffalo during the regular season but was held to 20 points in the Braves' 95-89 opening playoff victory Thursday night.

Buffalo forward John Shumate, who had checked McGinnis in the opening game, was unable to stop him Friday night.

Shumate went crashing to the floor when he took an elbow from Joe Bryant late in the game and suffered a concussion. He was taken to a hospital in a semi-conscious condition.

The 76ers took charge early, breaking a 14-14 tie with seven straight points in the first quarter. By halftime, they led 63-48.

The Braves' only serious challenge came at the end of the third period and the start of the fourth when they scored nine consecutive points, narrowing Philadelphia's lead to six points.

Then the 76ers scored eight successive points and were in charge the rest of the way.

Philadelphia Coach Gene Shue assigned Harvey Catchings to guard Buffalo center Bob McAdoo, the NBA's top scorer the last three seasons, and Catchings did a good job.

McAdoo was limited to seven points in the first half and finished the game with 21, more than 10 points below his season's average.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — "A couple of more days like that," said Bob Eastwood, halfway leader of the $80,000 Tallahassee Open as he contemplated what could be his first victory ever on the Professional Golfers' Association tour.

But the 30-year-old pro from Stockton, Calif., who has had trouble qualifying for many PGA events in the past, didn't exactly enter today's third round with a comfortable lead.

His three-under-par 69 Friday, coupled with an opening 66 for a 36-hole total of 135, nine under par, left him a mere shot ahead of Lynn Litt.

And Fuzzy Zoeller, who made the only decent charge Friday with a 66, stood at 139 along with Ed Sneed. Another shot back were John Mahaffey, Gary Koch and Bruce Lietzke.

Eastwood can credit his lead to the 506-yard, par-five 17th hole on Killbuck Golf and Country Club's 7,124-yard layout. He has scored a pair of eagles on the hole and has yet to attempt his first putt there.

Eastwood, who has never earned $10,000 in any of his seven seasons on the tour, sank a 15-yard chip shot Friday for an eagle three. He watched a 45-yard sand wedge shot trickle into the hole on Thursday.

Eastwood returned to the circuit a week ago after a two-week layoff to work on his golf swing. And he says his attitude is better for this Open than last year, when he tied for last to take home $61.

Zoeller, 24, a third-year tour player from New Albany, Ind., had a one-over 73 in the opening round.

A total of 81 players did make the cut into the final two rounds. Among them was one-time tour ruler Arnold Palmer, who had missed the cutoff in five of eight previous events.

Whalers Losing Goalies, Winning

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The New England Whalers keep losing goalies, but keep winning hockey games. It's an unusual prescription for victory, but nobody's complaining much except the Cleveland Crusaders and Indianapolis Racers.

The Whalers, coming off a three-game sweep of the Crusaders, will have 22-year-old Cap Raeder back in the nets tonight when they take a 1-0 lead against Indianapolis in the Eastern Division playoffs of the World Hockey Association.

Raeder, pressed into service Friday night when goalie Bruce London hurt his ankle late in the first period, blanked Indianapolis the rest of the way and the Whalers cruised to a 4-1 victory in the opening game of the best-of-seven series.

Two other WHA playoff games were played Friday night. The Winnipeg Jets, led by Bobby Hull's two goals, completed a 4-0 sweep over Edmonton, routing the Oilers 7-2, and the Quebec Nordiques, paced by two goals apiece by Paul Cloutier and Rejean Houle, beat Calgary 4-3, cutting the Cowboys' series lead to 3-1.

Gems Could Make Finals

From Associated Press

Dayton could lock up a berth in the International Hockey League's playoff finals with a victory tonight, while Saginaw could tie its series at two games apiece with a win over Port Huron.

Dayton won its third game of the best-of-seven series Friday, with a decisive 10-4 victory over Port Wayne. Steve Sel scored three goals.

The Gems lead their Turner Cup series 3-0. A victory tonight would pit Dayton against the winner of the Port Huron-Saginaw series in the finals.

Port Huron currently leads its series 2-1. Saginaw travels to Port Huron tonight in its attempt to tie it up.

Stardom For Ben Certain

From Associated Press

Once in a blue moon a figure will walk onto the golf stage and start setting off invisible sparks that mark him as a child of destiny.

There is an unmistakable flair about him. He is not one of the ordinary breed. The way he walks, the way he swings, the way he generates excitement in the crowd — all signs pointing to certain stardom.

The latest is Ben Crenshaw, 24, out of the Texas golfing incubator that produced Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson, Jimmy Demaret and Jack Burke. He wears the shiniest coat of all of the game's "Young Lions."

Thousands at Augusta and millions of others watching on TV last weekend saw him inject a few moments of drama into the otherwise drab windup of Raymond Floyd's runaway Masters.

Teen-agers screamed and giggled, and almost smothered him for autographs. Older women smiled approvingly.

For a few, fleeting moments, golf buffs recognized a faint repetition of history — the brash, flamboyant caddy, Walter Hagen, who came out of Rochester, N.Y., to dominate the pros; handsome Bobby Jones, the "Boy Wonder" of the 1920s; unshakable, sphinx-like Ben Hogan; charismatic Arnold Palmer and the Golden Bear, Jack Nicklaus.

There is a little bit of all of them in Crenshaw, a pleasant youngster who walks the fairways with a firm, confident gait, his copper-colored Prince Valiant hair style bouncing as he moves. As he works, his strong features are a vice of concentration. When pressure ends, he relaxes and bubbles with boyish enthusiasm.

"I don't like to brush off anybody who wants an autograph," he says. "It can be a handsome walk from the 18th green to the clubhouse."

Crenshaw joined the tour in 1973 with the highest credentials — three times national college champion, and the Western Amateur champion when he attracted record-setting crowds to Point O'Woods course.

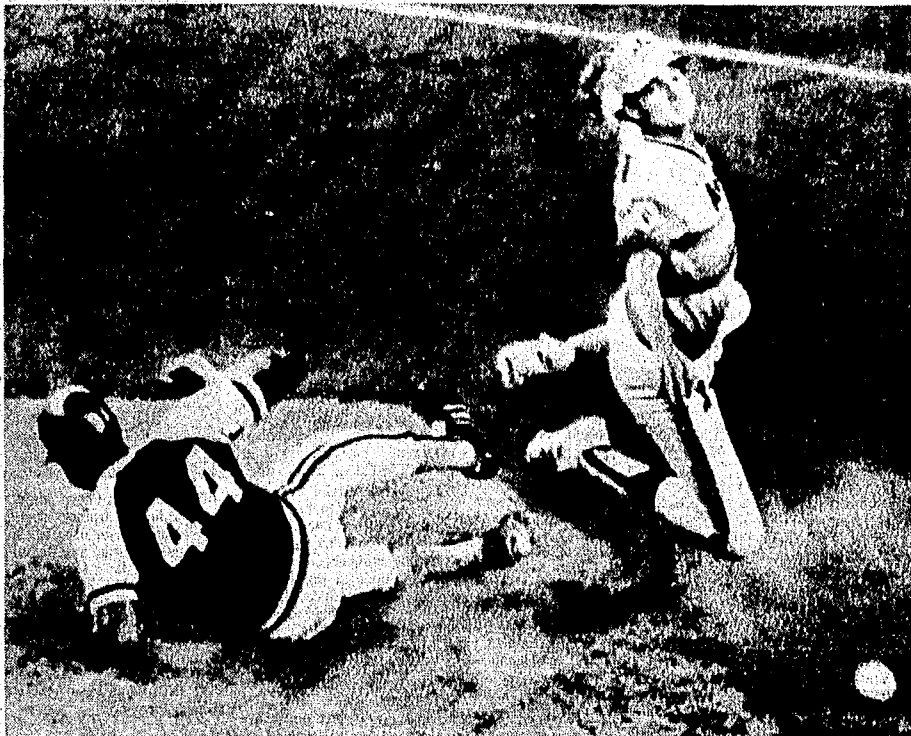

He won the first pro event he ever played in — the Texas Open. The next week he finished second in the rich World Championship. Two weeks, around $83,000. Then came a two-year slump.

Crenshaw took inventory of himself, decided he was pushing too hard, put aside the technical parts of his game and started working on attitude.

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Oakland University defeated Western Michigan 8-6 in the opener but was bombed 17-1 Friday in the second game of a non-conference college baseball doubleheader.

Third baseman Marty Murray scored four times and knocked in two runs to spark Western in the second game.

Shamrocks, Lakers Continue Hot Pace

The Shamrocks ran their league record to 3-0 by blasting Eau Claire 19-0, while LMC upset its slate to 2-0 by disposing of Bridgman 9-3. The two collide next Friday at Berrien Springs.

In other Red Arrow action Friday, Galien ripped Watervliet 16-6 and Hartford punished New Buffalo 11-1.

Berrien Springs played near-perfect baseball in bombing Eau Claire. The Shamrocks scored in every inning in sending the Beavers down to their second league defeat without a win.

Rick Sanders went all the way and picked up the win for Berrien. Sanders allowed just one hit, a first-inning single by Al Flowers.

Meanwhile, Berrien ripped four Eau Claire pitchers for 15

hits. Mike Shembarger and Dale Jasper headed the Shamrock assault, each belting a home run and a pair of singles. Shembarger drove in four runs and Jasper three. Tim Sunday knocked in three runs with a pair of singles, while Barry Adams slammed a pair of doubles and a single and Rick Thiele collected a double and a single.

Lake Michigan Catholic used two big innings to topple Bridgman. The Lakers tallied five times in the first frame and then after the Bees had scored three runs in the top of the fifth, LMC put the game away with four in its fifth frame.

Rick Smith worked the first six innings, striking out 12, and picked up the win for the Lakers. Dan Kamradt took the loss for Bridgman (1-2).

George Welch collected three hits and Mickey Ashbrook, Tom Driscoll and Smith had two apiece for the winners.

Galien (2-) erupted for 10 runs in the sixth inning to break open its game against Watervliet. Craig Schau belted a grand-slam homer and Dennis Williams added a two-run shot to pace the Gaels. Dave Gerold has three hits and Dale Luther and Matt and Mark Koziel (who apiece for the winners).

Jon Hinkelman and Rick Sawyer clouted home runs for Watervliet (1-2).

Jim Paskel hurled a brilliant two-hitter in Hartford's victory. Paskel fanned eight and walked just two in posting his second win in three league games.

Paskel was even better at the plate, slugging a home run, a double and a single and driving in four runs. Jeff Swisher, Steve Dyer and Gary Fennham also added round trippers for Hartford (2-1). The homers by Dyer and Fennham came back-to-back in the first inning.

Carl Underwood, the first of three New Buffalo pitchers, took the loss.

Michigan Splits Twin Bill, MSU Drops Pair To Iowa

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota and Michigan split their Big 10 opener Friday at Herman Field in Minneapolis.

Steve Comer fired a one-hitter and catcher George Dierberger singled in the game's only run to lead Minnesota to a 1-0 victory in the first game of a twin bill. Sorenson scattered 10 hits, picking up his fifth straight victory, to lead Michigan to a 2-0 triumph in the second game.

Meanwhile, Michigan State dropped both ends of a Big Ten doubleheader to Iowa Friday, 5-1 and 12-11.

Coach Danny Litwiler's

hurriers surrendered 25 hits and three homers. MSU is now 5-14-1 while Iowa is 14-7 overall.

The Wolverines scored both their runs in the fifth inning. A blop double to left field by Bob Wasilewski scored the first run. The second came in on an error by Minnesota third baseman Mike Bruss.

Bruss led Minnesota's 10-hit attack in the second game with two doubles and a single.

The Gopher loss was charged to Dan Morgan, who fell to 3-1 for the season.

Comer, a righthander, pitched his fifth victory in six decisions, allowing only a fourth inning double by Dick Waltherhouse.

The Gophers scored in the bottom of the fourth when Dierberger singled home Brian Demman.

Dierberger, Paul Mullitor and Jeff Neutzing each had two hits for the Gophers in the opener.

Mark Weber, now 1-3, was tagged for Michigan's loss in the opener.

Minnesota, which meets Michigan State in a twin bill today, is now 19-4 overall. Michigan, playing a doubleheader at Iowa today, is 9-9-1.

Wiese's Bat Keys Decatur Win

LAWTON — Kurt Wiese drove in five runs with a grand-slam homer and a single Friday to lead Decatur to a 10-5 win over Lawton in a SAC baseball game.

The win was Decatur's second without a loss, while Lawton fell to 0-2.

Al McAdams hurled the first five innings and picked up the win for Decatur. Jim Simola worked the last two frames. McAdams and Simola combined for 13 strikeouts.

Simola also belted a three-run homer for the winners. Terry Penning and Mike High each collected a double and a single. Dean Wearding had a double and two singles for three runs batted in for Lawton.

The 76ers took charge early, breaking a 14-14 tie with seven straight points in the first quarter. By halftime, they led 63-48.

The Braves' only serious challenge came at the end of the third period and the start of the fourth when they scored nine consecutive points, narrowing Philadelphia's lead to six points.

Then the 76ers scored eight successive points and were in charge the rest of the way.

Philadelphia Coach Gene Shue assigned Harvey Catchings to guard Buffalo center Bob McAdoo, the NBA's top scorer the last three seasons, and Catchings did a good job.

McAdoo was limited to seven points in the first half and finished the game with 21, more than 10 points below his season's average.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — "A couple of more days like that..." said Bob Eastwood, halfway leader of the $80,000 Tallahassee Open as he contemplated what could be his first victory ever on the Professional Golfers' Association tour.

But the 30-year-old pro from Stockton, Calif., who has had trouble qualifying for many PGA events in the past, didn't exactly enter today's third round with a comfortable lead.

His three-under-par 69 Friday, coupled with an opening 66 for a 36-hole total of 135, nine under par, left him a mere shot ahead of Lyn Lott.

And Fuzzy Zoeller, who made the only decent charge Friday with a 66, stood at 139 along with Ed Sneed. Another shot back were John Mahaffey, Gary Koch and Bruce Lietzke.

Eastwood can credit his lead to the 506-yard, par-five 17th hole on Killdeer Golf and Country Club's 7,124-yard layout. He has scored a pair of eagles on the hole and has yet to attempt his first putt there.

Eastwood, who has never earned $19,000 in any of his seven seasons on the tour, sank a 15-yard chip shot Friday for an eagle three. He watched a 45-yard sand wedge shot trickle into the hole on Thursday.

Eastwood returned to the circuit a week ago after a two-week layoff to work on his golf swing. And he says his attitude is better for this Open than last year, when he tied for last to take home $61.

Zoeller, 24, a third-year tour player from New Albany, Ind., had a one-over 73 in the opening round.

A total of 81 players did make the cut into the final two rounds. Among them was one-time tour ruler Arnold Palmer, who had missed the cutoff in five of eight previous events.

The Shamrocks ran their league record to 3-0 by blasting Eau Claire 19-0, while LMC upped its slate to 2-0 by disposing of Bridgman 9-3. The two collide next Friday at Berrien Springs.

In other Red Arrow action Friday, Galien ripped Watervliet 16-6 and Hartford punished New Buffalo 11-1.

Berrien Springs played near-perfect baseball in bombing Eau Claire. The Shamrocks scored in every inning in sending the Beavers down to their second league defeat without a win.

Rick Sanders went all the way and picked up the win for Berrien. Sanders allowed just one hit, a first-inning single by Al Flowers.

Meanwhile, Berrien ripped four Eau Claire pitchers for 15

hits. Mike Shembarger and Dale Jasper headed the Shamrock assault, each belting a home run and a pair of singles. Shembarger drove in four runs and Jasper three. Tim Sunday knocked in three runs with a pair of singles, while Barry Adams slammed a pair of doubles and a single and Rick Thiele collected a double and a single.

Lake Michigan Catholic used two big innings to topple Bridgman. The Lakers tallied five times in the first frame and then after the Bees had scored three runs in the top of the fifth, LMC put the game away with four in its fifth frame.

Rick Smith worked the first six innings, striking out 12, and picked up the win for the Lakers. Dan Kamradt took the loss for Bridgman (1-2).

George Welch collected three hits and Mickey Ashbrook, Tom Driscoll and Smith had two apiece for the winners.

Galien (2-) erupted for 10 runs in the sixth inning to break open its game against Watervliet. Craig Schau belted a grand-slam homer and Dennis Williams added a two-run shot to pace the Gaels. Dave Gerold has three hits and Dale Luther and Matt and Mark Koziel two apiece for the winners.

Jon Hinkelman and Rick Sawyer clouted home runs for Watervliet (1-2).

Jim Paskel hurled a brilliant two-hitter in Hartford's victory. Paskel fanned eight and walked just two in posting his second win in three league games.

Paskel was even better at the plate, slamming a home run, a double and a single and driving in four runs. Jeff Swisher, Steve Dyer and Gary Fernham also added round trippers for Hartford (2-1). The homers by Dyer and Fernham came back-to-back in the first inning.

Carl Underwood, the first of three New Buffalo pitchers, took the loss.

Whalers Losing Goalies, Winning

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The New England Whalers keep losing goalies, but keep winning hockey games. It's an unusual prescription for victory, but nobody's complaining much except the Cleveland Crusaders and Indianapolis Racers.

The Whalers, coming off a three-game sweep of the Crusaders, will have 22-year-old Cap Raeder back in the nets tonight when they take a 1-0 lead against Indianapolis in the Eastern Division playoffs of the World Hockey Association.

Raeder, pressed into service Friday night when goalie Bruce Landon hurt his ankle late in the first period, blanked Indianapolis the rest of the way and the Whalers cruised to a 4-1 victory in the opening game of the best-of-seven series.

Two other WHA playoff games were played Friday night. The Winnipeg Jets, led by Bobby Hull's two goals, completed a 4-0 sweep over Edmonton, routing the Oilers 7-2, and the Quebec Nordiques, paced by two goals apiece by Real Cloutier and Rejean Houle, beat Calgary 4-3, cutting the Cowboys' series lead to 3-1.

Gems Could Make Finals

From Associated Press
Dayton could lock up a berth in the International Hockey League's playoff finals with a victory tonight, while Saginaw could tie its series at two games a piece with a win over Port Huron.

Dayton won its third game of the best-of-seven series Friday, with a decisive 10-4 victory over Fort Wayne. Steve Self scored three goals.

The Gems lead their Turner Cup series 3-0. A victory tonight would pit Dayton against the winner of the Port Huron-Saginaw series in the finals.

Port Huron currently leads its series 2-1. Saginaw travels to Port Huron tonight in its attempt to tie it up.

Broncos Split With Oakland

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Oakland University defeated Western Michigan 8-6 in the opener but was bombed 17-1 Friday in the second game of a non-conference college baseball doubleheader.

Third baseman Marty Murray scored four times and knocked in two runs to spark Western in the second game.

Stardom For Ben Certain

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Once in a blue moon a figure will walk onto the golf stage and start setting off invisible sparks that mark him as a child of destiny.

There is an unmistakable flair about him. He is not one of the ordinary breed. The way he walks, the way he swings, the way he generates excitement in the crowd — all signs pointing to certain stardom.

The latest is Ben Crenshaw, 24, out of the Texas golfing incubator that produced Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson, Jimmy Demaret and Jack Burke. He wears the shiniest coat of all of the game's "Young Lions."

Thousands at Augusta and millions of others watching on TV last weekend saw him inject a few moments of drama into the otherwise drab windup of Raymond Floyd's runaway Masters.

Teen-agers screamed and giggled, and almost smothered him for autographs. Older women smiled approvingly.

For a few, fleeting moments, golf buffs recognized a faint repetition of history — the brash, flamboyant caddy, Walter Hagen, who came out of Rochester, N.Y. to dominate the pros; handsome Bobby Jones, the "Boy Wonder" of the 1920s; unshakable, sphinx-like Ben Hogan; charismatic Arnold Palmer and the Golden Bear, Jack Nicklaus.

There is a little bit of all of them in Crenshaw, a pleasant youngster who walks the fairways with a firm, confident gait, his copper-colored Prince Valiant hair style bouncing as he moves. As he works, his strong features are a vice of concentration. When pressure ends, he relaxes and bubbles with boyish enthusiasm.

"I don't like to brush off anybody who wants an autograph," he says. "It can be a lonesome walk from the 18th green to the club house."

Crenshaw joined the tour in 1973 with the loftiest credentials — three times national college champion, and the Western Amateur champion when he attracted record-setting crowds to Point O'Woods course.

He won the first pro event he ever played in — the Texas Open. The next week he finished second in the rich World Championship. Two weeks, around $83,000. Then came a two-year slump.

Crenshaw took inventory of himself, decided he was pushing too hard, put aside the technical parts of his game and started working on attitude.

Pentagon Resorts Costing 'Millions'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon is spending $12.8 million a year to subsidize overseas resorts for military personnel, assign soldiers to such jobs as ski lift operators, store clerks and hotel couriers, congressional auditors say.

The General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress, reported Friday that many guests at the Pentagon resorts in Germany, the Philippines and Hawaii were U.S. civilians and foreign nationals.

GAO recommended that certain recreational areas be consolidated or closed down, saying this would save $3.8 million a year in defense expenditures in Germany alone.

The report was made public by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis. He said he does not object to subsidized vacations for lower-ranking military families, "but the abuses, management inefficiencies, and just plain waste in these programs should be brought to an end immediately."

The GAO report covered Pentagon resorts at Garmisch, Germany, the John Hay Air Base Recreational Facility in the Philippines, the Kilauea Military Camp in Hawaii's Volcanoes National Park and the newly constructed 15-story Hale Koa Hotel in Honolulu.

Military personnel are not supposed to be assigned to purely recreational duties. But the GAO said it found that at Garmisch 193 soldiers were used as ski-lift operators, bowling alley pinsetters, ski patrolmen, golf course groundskeepers, tour guides, store clerks, sports instructors, hotel couriers, mail clerks, conference coordinators and public information assistants.

Proxmire said he was concerned that the practice of assigning military personnel to such jobs "has not only cut back the number of men for combat duties in Europe, but the GAO found that many of the military personnel assigned to Garmisch had critical specialties needed elsewhere in Europe."

The GAO said it found that military personnel also are used for recreational duties in Hawaii and the Philippines.

GAO said active U.S. military personnel have been turned away from the Garmisch resort because rooms were occupied by foreign military guests, U.S. military retirees and U.S. civilians.

The GAO said foreign military guests pay a small surcharge, but the fee does not cover the full cost of using the Pentagon facilities.

The report noted that at the Philippine facility 7,888 Philippine nationals have been issued guest membership cards as a good will gesture. The card enables them to use the recreational facility's guest lodges, movie theater, skating rink, massage clinic, bowling alley, golf course, tennis, badminton and volleyball courts.

"They also have the privilege of purchasing certain duty free goods or receiving bingo prizes," the GAO report said. It said the practices violate Air Force regulations and Philippine law, but are condoned by both sides on the basis of "good will" and "apparently because the area is frequented by many prominent Filipinos."

Hartke's World Junket Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Vance Hartke traveled to three continents along with two Senate committee aides on a trip he said was to discuss veterans benefits with African leaders. The cost to American taxpayers was $14,187.

Government records disclosed details of the recent claim by Hartke's May 4 primary Senate election opponent, Rep. Phil Hayes, that Hartke took a round-the-world trip at taxpayer's expense in 1974.

Hartke, D-Ind., told Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in a letter before the trip that the journey was to discuss with African leaders the creation of veterans benefits for members of their armed forces.

There was no explanation for the Asian leg of the trip, or for stops in New Zealand and Germany, all paid for from government expense funds.

Only the Ivory Coast, with a military force of about 4,500 men, is listed on the official expense voucher that Hartke and two Veterans' Affairs Committee aides filed with the Secretary of the Senate in 1975.

Hartke, a two-term senator who is chairman of the Senate Veterans' Affairs panel, could not be reached for comment.

Hughes' Money Is Magnet

By STELLA ZADEH
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Officials in California and Nevada — hungry for a chunk of Howard Hughes' vast fortune — are scrambling for control of his holdings and a slice of Hughes' estimated $2 billion estate.

Although Hughes' relatives were appointed temporary administrators here and in Texas earlier this week, county officials Friday moved to take charge of the estate.

Claiming that the reclusive billionaire left no will, Los Angeles County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn said Friday he will introduce a motion Tuesday to appoint Los Angeles County Public Administrator Bruce Altman to oversee Hughes' holdings here.

Hahn said that if Altman is named, legal fees to the county could run as high as $10 million.

Business associates of Hughes, who died April 3, claim that Hughes did in fact leave a will, although officials say it has not yet been found.

Hughes' relatives and a Nevada bank were appointed in accord with officials of his Summa Corp.

Richard C. Gano Jr. of Houston, a Hughes first cousin, was appointed Wednesday to administer Hughes' California holdings on an interim basis.

But Hahn, claiming that there are no Hughes heirs in the county, said Altman has a "clear priority" in the case.

Pentagon Resorts Costing 'Millions'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon is spending $12.6 million a year to subsidize overseas resorts for military personnel, assign soldiers to such jobs as ski lift operators, store clerks and hotel couriers, congressional auditors say.

The General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress, reported Friday that many guests at the Pentagon resorts in Germany, the Philippines and Hawaii were U.S. civilians and foreign nationals.

GAO recommended that certain recreational areas be consolidated or closed down, saying this would save $3.6 million a year in defense expenditures in Germany alone.

The report was made public by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis. He said he does not object to subsidized vacations for lower-ranking military families, "but the abuses, management inefficiencies, and just plain waste in these programs should be brought to an end immediately."

The GAO report covered Pentagon resorts at Garmisch, Germany, the John Hay Air Base Recreational Facility in The Philippines, the Kilauea Military Camp in Hawaii's Volcanoes National Park and the newly-constructed 15-story Hale Koa Hotel in Honolulu.

Military personnel are not supposed to be assigned to purely recreational duties. But the GAO said it found that at Garmisch 193 soldiers were used as ski-lift operators, bowling alley pinsetters, ski patrolmen, golf course groundskeepers, tour guides, store clerks, sports instructors, hotel couriers, mail clerks, conference coordinators and public information assistants.

Proxmire said he was concerned that the practice of assigning military personnel to such jobs "has not only cut back the number of men for combat duties in Europe, but the GAO found that many of the military personnel assigned to Garmisch had critical specialties needed elsewhere in Europe."

The GAO said it found that military personnel also are used for recreational duties in Hawaii and The Philippines. GAO said active U.S. military personnel have been turned away from the Garmisch resort because rooms were occupied by foreign military guests, U.S. military retirees and U.S. civilians.

The report noted that at the Philippine facility 7,989 Philippine nationals have been issued guest membership cards as a good will gesture. The card enables them to use the recreational facility's guest lodges, movie theater, skating rink, massage clinic, bowling alley, golf course, tennis, badminton and volleyball courts.

"They also have the privilege of purchasing certain duty free goods or receiving bingo prizes," the GAO report said. It said the practices violate Air Force regulations and Philippine law, but are condoned by both sides on the basis of "good will" and "apparently because the area is frequented by many prominent Filipinos."

Hughes' Money Is Magnet

By STELLA ZADEH
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Officials in California and Nevada — hungry for a chunk of Howard Hughes' vast fortune — are scrambling for control of his holdings and a slice of Hughes' estimated $2 billion estate.

Although Hughes' relatives were appointed temporary administrators here and in Texas earlier this week, county officials Friday moved to take charge of the estate.

Claiming that the reclusive billionaire left no will, Los Angeles County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn said Friday he will introduce a motion Tuesday to appoint Los Angeles County Public Administrator Bruce Altman to oversee Hughes' holdings here.

Hahn said that if Altman is named, legal fees to the county could run as high as $10 million.

Business associates of Hughes, who died April 5, claim that Hughes did in fact leave a will, although officials say it has not yet been found.

Hughes' relatives and a Nevada bank were appointed in accord with officials of his Summa Corp.

Richard C. Gano Jr. of Houston, a Hughes first cousin, was appointed Wednesday to administer Hughes' California holdings on an interim basis.

But Hahn, claiming that there are no Hughes' heirs in the county, said Altman has a "clear priority" in the case.

U-M Boosts Tuition Rate 10 Per Cent

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The University of Michigan boosted its tuition rates by 9 to 10 per cent Friday and said the increase would be effective for the fall term.

University regents approved the increase after President Robben Fleming backed it, adding expenditures would be reduced.

Fleming said it was hoped any reduction of personnel would be done by attrition or by eliminating vacant positions.

Fleming said the exact reductions which might be needed could not be estimated now, because final legislative funding for next year has not been determined.

About $10 million to $11 million more than allocated in 1975-76 will be needed to cover utility rates, student financial aid and wage and fringe benefit increases of 5 per cent, Fleming said.

He said tuition increases would bring in about $5 million. For in-state undergraduates, a semester's tuition will climb from $848 and $960 to $927 and $1,052, the school said. Graduate students from Michigan will pay $1,271 compared with $1,160.

Tuition at the Dearborn campus will be $696 compared with the current $596; at the Flint campus it will be $676 compared with $614.

Hartke's World Junket Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Vance Hartke traveled to three continents along with two Senate committee aides on a trip he said was to discuss veterans benefits with African leaders. The cost to American taxpayers was $14,197.

Government records disclosed details of the recent claim by Hartke's May 4 primary Senate election opponent, Rep. Phil Hayes, that Hartke took a round-the-world trip at taxpayer's expense in 1974.

Hartke, D-Ind., told Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in a letter before the trip that the journey was to discuss with African leaders the creation of veterans benefits for members of their armed forces.

There was no explanation for the Asian leg of the trip, or for stops in New Zealand and Germany, all paid for from government expense funds.

Only the Ivory Coast, with a military force of about 4,500 men, is listed on the official expense voucher that Hartke and two Veterans' Affairs Committee aides filed with the Secretary of the Senate in 1975.

Hartke, a two-term senator who is chairman of the Senate Veterans' Affairs panel, could not be reached for comment.

Lutheran Synod Conflict May Hit Court

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A leader of dissident members of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod said Friday that the church's internal conflicts may end up in court, possibly as soon as this summer.

INDUCTED: Patricia Bahm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Bahm, 7290 East Napier avenue, Fairplain, was inducted Sigma Phi Alpha, honorary dental hygiene society, during capping ceremonies at Ferris State college, where she will be graduated in May. Miss Bahm is a graduate of Watervliet high school and Lake Michigan college. She formerly was employed by Dr. John L. Porritt, oral surgeon, St. Joseph.

The Rev. Dr. John Tietjen, president of the synod's Seminary in Exile, St. Louis, said the Rev. Dr. J.A.O. Preus, synod president, "has made it clear that he has all his legal resources lined up. And any action he takes to enforce the ouster of the district presidents will precipitate the division of the synod."

Dr. Preus recently removed from office four district presidents who refused to comply with his orders that they stop ordaining graduates of Dr. Tietjen's seminary.

Battling over the presidencies "will be a disaster for the synod," said Dr. Tietjen. "It'll mean the split of the synod. The only question at issue is how big a split there will be."

He estimated that 15 per cent of the Missouri Synod congregations in the nation will break away to form a new, less-conservative group, by summer. In another year or two, he said, the dissident congregations will grow to 25 to 40 per cent.

The dispute came to a head early in 1974 when Dr. Tietjen was suspended as president of Concordia, the synod's main seminary in St. Louis, after he was charged by conservative leaders with teaching false doctrine. Much of the faculty and most of the students left in support of Dr. Tietjen and formed the Seminary in Exile.

New Wage-Setting System Proposed For State Jobs

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Pay rates for state employees may be decided in a new manner if a wage-setting technique being pushed by Civil Service is approved.

The new method, backers say, would be "an effective substitute for collective bargaining."

"This (new) pay-setting procedure is really quite totally different," said Otis Hardy, employee relations director.

"It is a fact-finding and adjudicating procedure, more like a wage court."

"I think it will achieve a high level of acceptance from employee organizations," he said.

The proposal was approved in concept Friday by the Civil Service Commission.

North Central Won't Quit 6 State Towns

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
North Central Airlines says it has no intention of discontinuing service to half a dozen Michigan cities mentioned in a U.S. Department of Transportation report.

The report says six Michigan cities could lose regularly scheduled airline flights under President Ford's plan to lessen regulation of the airlines. The cities mentioned in the report are Jackson, Alpena, Ironwood, Marquette, Menominee and Sault Ste. Marie.

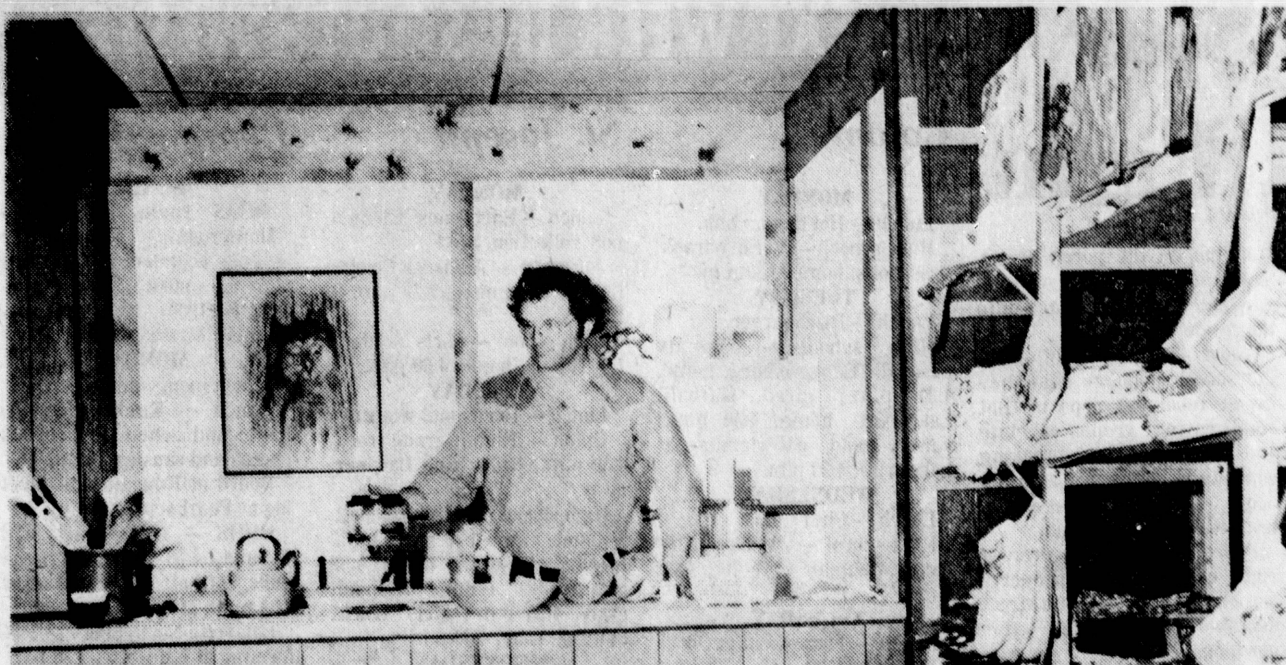

But a North Central spokesman in Minneapolis said Friday the airline intends to serve those communities as long as federal subsidies are available. Federal subsidies, also called "public service revenues," are available to airlines for routes that are unprofitable.

"We've made public statements to those cities that we would continue to serve them because that was the reason for our getting into the airline business — to serve small cities," said Del Drumm, a North Central spokesman. "We have received funds to provide that service where markets are not strong enough to support themselves."

Filling Of Florida Swamp For Homesites Is Blocked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Striking a blow to real estate developers who hoped to dredge and fill Florida wetlands to support homesites, the Army Corps of Engineers has blocked the development of 2,039 acres of mangrove swamp land in a decision that could have broad application.

The corps, which has been criticized in the past by environmentalists for insensitivity, moved Friday to stop unnecessary destruction of the nation's wetlands by private developers.

In denying permits for the development of two tracts of the mangrove swamp on Marco Island, the corps left a significant precedent by which to judge pending applications to dredge and fill another 14,000 acres.

It was the largest project ever rejected by the Corps of Engineers.

The corps approved work on one Marco Island tract, Collier Bay, because dredge-and-fill operations destroyed wetland acreage there before the corps halted development at that site in 1971.

An executive for the firm which is developing Marco Island said he was "outraged."

The corps' chief of engineers, William C. Gribble Jr., said the agency will consider each future application for wetlands development on its own merits, and added: "I would expect developers to study this case carefully and to draw analogies between their own plans and Marco Island."

Deltona Corp., which is developing Marco Island, has already sold 4,000 lots in Barfield Bay and Big Key, the two tracts for which the corps rejected dredging and filling permits. The proposed development was part of a $500-million, 8,000-acre complex on Marco Island, off the Gulf Coast near Naples, Fla.

Frank E. Mackle Jr., president of Deltona Corp., said he was "shocked and outraged" by the decision and would seek "immediate administrative and judicial review."

Deltona reportedly has hired former Republican National Chairman Dean Burch to present its case in Washington.

The Interior Department, the Environmental Protection Agency and the National Marine Fisheries Service had strongly opposed granting the permits.

The corps noted "the serious effects on Deltona and the individuals who have invested money in these lots ... and in future areas the firm may have planned for development," but said the matter "would have to be settled between Deltona and the individual buyers."

In its brief filed with the corps, the Environmental Defense Fund charged that the silt stirred up by dredging and filling operations would seriously damage water quality. Ground water runoff carrying man-made waste soil and fertilizer along with septic system leakage also would affect the water, the fund said.

For years land developers have dredged and filled cheap Florida swamp land along the state's coastal and river waters to develop and sell homesites, especially to retirees from the north.

Environmentalists began to challenge such wetland destruction in the mid-1960s.

BH Teachers Will Study Child Abuse

The problem of child abuse will come under study as Benton Harbor area schools elementary teachers, paraprofessionals and administrators gather in two sessions, April 27 and May 4, to view a child abuse film and discuss new responsibilities in reporting suspected child abuse cases.

Acting Assistant Superintendent Harry S. Stephens said the child abuse seminar is part of a continuing effort to to acquaint school personnel with recent changes in state law which place a greater responsibility on school people to report suspected cases of child abuse. Non-compliance with the new law could result in fines or jail, he said.

Van Buren Bridge Bid-Taking Slated

LANSING — Construction of a bridge over the Dowagiac river in Van Buren county will be among the 36 projects on which the state highways department will take bids Wednesday.

The bridge, to cost an estimated $80,000, will replace the present bridge that now carries CR-215 traffic across the waterway.

announcement from the highway department.

The only other southwestern Michigan project on which bids will be taken Wednesday is the improvement of illuminated traffic signals in South Haven, the spokesman said.

This month you can help us realize a 200 year old dream: For all qualified blacks to get a college education. The United Negro College Fund and its 41 colleges are helping make this dream a reality. All it takes is money. And what's money compared to a 200 year old dream? Once it was against the law in some states to teach a black child to read or write. But the law didn't stop blacks from learning. And it didn't stop whites from helping. Despite the danger to their lives and liberty. Supporting black education won't cost you your freedom anymore. Today, it just costs money. You can help make this dream a reality by giving as much as you can afford to the United Negro College Fund. Our future is on the line. Ex-Niles Cage Star Shot In Racial Fight

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau
NILES — A former Niles high school basketball standout received minor injuries early

MISSING: Laura Crumley, 15, is reported missing by state police from Benton Harbor post after last being seen Tuesday night by parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Crumley, 3084 East Empire avenue, Benton township. Mrs. Crumley said daughter was to have spent night at friend's house in Benton township but has not been seen since. Girl is described as 5 foot 3 inches, 105 pounds, brown hair with streaks of blonde, and brown eyes. She was last reported wearing blue jeans, red tennis shoes, and light blue denim jacket, and may be carrying guitar. Anyone with information on girl should telephone state police, officers requested.

this morning in a shooting that police here said was racially motivated.

Police said they are investigating a possible connection with the shooting and a vandalism spree that followed shortly afterwards.

Treated for four shotgun pellet wounds to the back and later released from Pawating hospital, Niles, was former basketball star John Harrington, 18, of 1218 North Fifth street, Niles. Harrington is black.

Police said the shooting followed a fight between a group of young blacks and young whites in front of a house at 509 North Seventh street, on the city's north side.

No arrests have been made in connection with either the shooting or the vandalism to cars and homes, but police said they have a suspect in the shooting.

Police said the trouble broke out shortly before 1 a.m. today when a group of black teens left a party at the Seventh street residence and began walking in the neighborhood. Members of the group told police they passed a house some two blocks away at 321 North Fifth street where another party was in progress, and three young white men followed them back to the Seventh street house.

A fight broke out between the two groups as they stood in front of the Seventh street house, the whites left and returned moments later with a gun, police said they were told.

Police said Harrington was shot when he and several others standing on the porch of the Seventh street house saw the gun and scrambled back into the residence.

About 45 minutes following the shooting, police said they began receiving reports that small roving groups of white and black teens were breaking windows in homes and autos on South Fifth street, about a mile from the shooting scene.

Police said they had received eight complaints of property damage in the South Fifth street neighborhood by late this morning.

Harrington, who played basketball last season at Grand Valley State college in Allendale, was an all-league player in both his junior and senior years at Niles high school.

The 6-foot-4 forward during his senior year in 1975 led the league in scoring with an average of 19.7 points per game and was Niles' top rebounder. He was the top selection for the all-league team in 1975 and was named the team's honorary captain by league coaches.

Claims Troopers' Pay Hikes Killed

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State Police troopers could get an extra $1,000 and other state employees would be in line for a new 2 per cent raise if the legislature approves a recommendation from the state Civil Service Commission.

Under the two-part package, pay levels would go up for 1,800 state troopers and would, supporters say, bring the troopers' pay in line with salaries paid to other local police forces.

The 2 per cent raise for 58,000 other state employees would cost the state about $14 million.

That expense could be the death of the whole package, said the head of the State Police Troopers Association.

"They (the legislature) won't buy it," said Don Brown, after arguing at the meeting for the $1,000 increase. "It will be too much money."

The commission "effectively killed the $1,000 proposal by putting the 2 per cent with it," he charged.

If approved, the increases would top a 6 to 8 per cent raise approved earlier for the troopers, and an average 5 per cent raise approved for other employees. The raises will take effect in either July or October, whenever the new fiscal year is set by lawmakers.

Troopers say they currently rank 75th in pay among the state's police forces, and claim the $1,000 raise would place them second. The raise is part of a plan developed as an alternative to granting the troopers collective bargaining rights.

The 2 per cent proposal was tacked onto the State Police decision as a rider after commissioners doubted if they could justifiably raise trooper pay without raising salaries for the rest of the Civil Service System.

"It's almost a matter of conscience," said Commissioner Otis Smith.

Gov. William Milliken is pleased with the State Police pay adjustment, a Milliken spokesman said. However, the recommended raise for the rest of the state employees was "not anticipated" and will have to be reviewed for its budget implications before Milliken takes a stand, the spokesman said.

The commission said a $1,000 raise for State Police officers was "justified," but that wage surveys also showed pay of other state employees had "fallen behind that of public and private jurisdictions."

"This commission believes that the pay relationship between State Police officers and other state employees must be considered," the commission said in explaining its decision to recommend the hikes for other state workers.

The Michigan State Police Command Officers' Association promised after the commission vote it will not stop trying to push a bill through the legislature that would grant collective bargaining rights to troopers.

Several weeks ago the troopers' association charged the $1,000 pay proposal, made by the Compensation Advisory Board that advises the commission, was merely a ploy by Milliken. He intended, they said, to weaken support for a constitutional amendment to allow collective bargaining.

That amendment has failed twice so far in the House, but will be reconsidered in a few weeks.

Despite that charge, Brown had argued Friday before the commission that the value of the $1,000 pay raise "may not be much money, but the psychological impact is quite important."

Brown said the pay raise would mean an increase of only $881 for new troopers. Others would get slightly more than $1,000, with one grade of lieutenant enjoying a $2,171 pay raise.

Before the decision, Commissioner Steven Bransford wondered, "Why are the state troopers at this time entitled to this kind of extraordinary consideration?"

"We believe they're the best," replied James Farnsworth of the Department of Management and Budget.

business loops into St. Joseph and I believe that these existing loops are sufficient. The property values in the township would most certainly decline as a result of the penetrator, and further, the penetrator will physically divide St. Joseph township, while in no way will it serve the needs of these same people.

I am also opposed to the destruction of the Hickory Creek ravine, which will occur as a result of the penetrator. We should preserve this last area for whatever wildlife which has thus far been able to survive, and for use by the public as a potential hiking-bike path. Too often, a misguided project, such as the penetrator, has forever destroyed a natural area with a resultant sterilization of the landscape.

I believe that the residents of the community should be heard in this matter, and because of the major impact of this project on all of us, I would suggest recall petitions or any other means which would let our wishes be known and acted upon.

As taxpayers, I believe that we could most certainly appreciate $1 million spent in a truly productive manner instead of an additional entry into a town which already has more business loops into town than any other town or city (on a per capita basis) along I-94.

Clark 'Gratified' By Minority View

BUCHANAN — A spokesman for Clark Equipment Co., said the company is "extremely gratified" by the "expressed" desire of many employees not to strike and voiced optimism in solving problems between the union and company.

Howard Jackson, personnel manager for the Clark axle division plant, Buchanan, said in a statement released this morning, "We are extremely gratified that many of our employees have expressed their desire not to strike, however, our main concern now is to deal effectively with those problems that all employees have real concerns about."

Members of the Local 488, United Auto Workers (UAW), Clark Equipment, voted approval of authorization for a strike Thursday by a nearly two-to-one margin. Lemuel Barker, president of Local 488, said the strike vote will need approval from the International UAW before an official strike can be called.

Jackson said, "The company has not been officially notified by the union concerning the results of the strike vote."

He added, "We have heard varying unofficial reports that the vote to authorize the executive board of the local union strike did carry. However, the figures from these reports might indicate that a two-thirds majority required for international approval may not have been achieved."

Barker said this morning that a two-thirds majority is not needed necessarily for international approval and it depends on other "varying circumstances."

Jackson said, "We will continue to work with the union to resolve the differences regardless of the vote."

Ex-Niles Cage Star Shot In Racial Fight

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau

NILES — A former Niles high school basketball standout received minor injuries early

MISSING: Laura Crumley, 15, is reported missing by state police from Benton Harbor post after last being seen Tuesday night by parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Crumley, 3084 East Empire avenue, Benton township. Mrs. Crumley said daughter was to have spent night at friend's house in Benton township but has not been seen since. Girl is described as 5 foot 3 inches, 105 pounds, brown hair with streaks of blonde, and brown eyes. She was last reported wearing blue jeans, red tennis shoes, and light blue denim jacket, and may be carrying guitar. Anyone with information on girl should telephone state police, officers requested.

this morning in a shooting that police here said was racially motivated.

Police said they are investigating a possible connection with the shooting and a vandalism spree that followed shortly afterwards.

Treated for four shotgun pellet wounds to the back and later released from Pawating hospital, Niles, was former basketball star John Harrington, 18, of 1218 North Fifth street, Niles. Harrington is black.

Police said the shooting followed a fight between a group of young blacks and young whites in front of a house at 509 North Seventh street, on the city's north side.

No arrests have been made in connection with either the shooting or the vandalism to cars and homes, but police said they have a suspect in the shooting.

Police said the trouble broke out shortly before 1 a.m. today when a group of black teens left a party at the Seventh street residence and began walking in the neighborhood. Members of the group told police they passed a house some two blocks away at 521 North Fifth street where another party was in progress, and three young white men followed them back to the Seventh street house.

A fight broke out between the two groups as they stood in front of the Seventh street house, the whites left and returned moments later with a gun, police said they were told.

Police said Harrington was shot when he and several others

standing on the porch of the Seventh street house saw the gun and scrambled back into the residence.

About 45 minutes following the shooting, police said they began receiving reports that small roving groups of white and black teens were breaking windows in homes and autos on South Fifth street, about a mile from the shooting scene.

Police said they had received eight complaints of property damage in the South Fifth street neighborhood by late this morning.

Harrington, who played basketball last season at Grand Valley State college in Allendale, was an all-league player in both his junior and senior years at Niles high school.

The 6-foot-4 forward during his senior year in 1975 led the league in scoring with an average of 19.7 points per game and was Niles' top rebounder. He was the top selection for the all-league team in 1975 and was named the team's honorary captain by league coaches.

Natural Gas Price Boost Said Needed

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Unless price controls are removed from natural gas, the nation may have to switch from gas furnaces to those using oil and coal, warns a University of Michigan professor.

Business economist Ross Wilhelm said gas reserves are declining and exploration has been curtailed, meaning the nation could eventually run out of the clean-burning fuel.

He likened the problem to a bathtub with the drain open.

"If the amount of water that goes down the drain exceeds the amount coming in through the faucet, the level of water falls, and the tub eventually runs dry," he said.

"The only way to solve this problem," Wilhelm said, "is to get the federal government out of the business of regulating natural gas prices."

He said low prices, in force since the 1950s, have discouraged wildcat exploration "and our discovery of new gas deposits has declined."

Wilhelm also said higher prices are needed to build pipelines, needed to ship natural gas from remote areas to market. Other deposits require costly drilling and gas from some deposits must be specially refined, again adding costs, Wilhelm said.

"There is enough gas around to keep heating our homes, but it isn't worthwhile looking for it at the present prices," he said.

Paying higher prices now, Wilhelm said, might result in an eventual savings, especially if furnace conversion becomes necessary due to a lack of the fuel.

"If this nation does move to burning oil and coal to heat our homes it will vastly increase our levels of air pollution," he said.

Chains Asked To Keep Old Beef Grading

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six major consumer organizations urged the nation's largest food chains on Friday to ignore new Department of Agriculture standards for grading beef.

In a joint letter to 20 food chains, the coalition praised the Kruger Co. for announcing it would refuse any beef grade choice which would not have qualified as choice under old standards.

Consumer groups opposed the new standards at hearings and in the courts on the ground that they would force consumers to pay choice prices for what was formerly graded as good beef.

Groups signing the letter were the Consumer Federation of America, Ralph Nader's Congress Watch, Consumers Union, National Consumers

Big Bird On Capitol Display Ripped Off

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan has suffered a Bicentennial burglary. A Bicentennial bird display, at that.

The revolutionary ripoff occurred recently outside the state Capitol offices of Lt. Gov. James Dammann, Michigan's Bicentennial Commission chairman.

Some unapologetic bandit yanked the large, plastic, gold-colored eagle from atop of a state Labor Department historical display depicting progress Michigan laborers have made in the past century.

The bulky bird may have been borne away in the night, since its 3 1/2-foot wingspan precluded easily sticking it in a pocket or under a coat, theorize sources close to the investigation.

The crook must have been a muscular menace, too.

"That eagle was put on with glue that is supposed to hold elephants," said Edna Lodge, labor department publicist who helped put the display together.

Because of budget cuts, labor department personnel rounded up display items themselves rather than charge the state for them, she said.

"We'll go out and buy another bird out of our own pockets if we have to," she said.

The new right-turn-on-red law has confounded at least one Lansing motorist.

As reported by Rachel Hebrer, an elementary school secretary, a woman about 30 drove up to the traffic light and, although it was green, stopped.

Instead of having the message on one side and his campaign headquarters' return address on the other as planned, both sides bear the return address.

No message at all.

"That's crazy," the Grand Rapids Democrat said when informed of his two-faced card.

"Must be a printing fluke. It's all part of campaigning I suppose."

He said he is sure most of the other 20,000 cards he sent out were correct and the oddball one was a freak.

The message, incidentally, asked volunteers if they wanted to distribute literature, plant yard signs, affix bumper stickers, make phone calls or donate money to Otterbacher's admittedly longshot election effort.

VW Still Mum On U.S. Plant

DETROIT (AP) — A Chicago consulting firm hired by Volkswagen A.G. says the West German auto maker will not announce a site for its planned U.S. car assembly plant site for at least several months. Volkswagen said earlier it would make an announcement about its U.S. assembly plans on April 23. Otterbacher here have expected the company to disclose the location for its plant at that time. However, an official at Funtus Co., which evaluated three industrial locations for the auto company, said VW only will say whether its plans for a U.S. facility are still viable. He said locations evaluated for VW by his firm include an empty plant that was built but never opened by Chrysler Corp. in New Stanton, Pa.; a former tank assembly plant in Brook Park, Ohio, near Cleveland, and a site, he would not disclose.

Company Earnings Confirm Forecasts

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — First-quarter earnings statements issued this past week confirmed forecasts that they would be much higher than the depressed first-quarter earnings of 1975.

Company executives announcing first-quarter earnings were quick to list general economic improvement among the reasons for increased profits.

RCA Corp.'s first-quarter earnings more than doubled from a year earlier, rising to $34.3 million or 44 cents a common share from $17 million and 21 cents a share in last year's first quarter.

The company began to show profit improvement in the third quarter of 1975, after several consecutive quarterly decreases.

Arthur L. Conrad, president, said that he expects that pattern to continue through 1978 but he thinks some economic forecasts have been too optimistic. "This will be a good year, but not a great year," Conrad said. "It will be a vast improvement over 1975 but it won't be a boom year."

Chrysler Corp. this week reported its first-quarter income of $72 million or $1.20 a share, compared with a net loss of $84.1 million a year earlier — the worst quarterly loss ever for the auto maker.

Chrysler's operating income for the first quarter was $97 million or 95 cents a share, less than some Wall Street analysts' predictions of better than $1. But analysts had expected a relatively strong performance with Chrysler and the other two big automakers.

Westinghouse Electric Corp. reported a 43 per cent jump in first-quarter net income, to $42.2 million or 54 cents a share from last year's first-quarter $33 million or 38 cents a share. The earnings increase came "almost entirely" from sales and earnings of transmission and distribution equipment within Power Systems Corp., one of Westinghouse's three principal units.

International Business Machines Corp.'s net income in the first quarter jumped 25 per cent from the quarter a year earlier. In 1975, IBM's quarterly sales rose steadily from quarter to quarter. In 1976's first quarter, outright sales were $1.28 billion, down from 1975's fourth quarter $1.52 billion and up 44 per cent from the first quarter of 1975.

DuPont Co. said at its annual meeting that it expects to report first-quarter earnings surging to about $2.80 a share from 38 cents a share for the first quarter a year earlier.

One statement which announced lower earnings was J.P. Morgan & Co., whose chief subsidiary is Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York. First-quarter earnings were down 8 per cent from a year earlier.

Bond Prices Continue To Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — Bond prices continued to gain ground this past holiday-shortened week, the investment banking firm of Salomon Brothers reported.

Markets closed Friday for the long Easter weekend.

Corporate bond prices were mostly higher during the week with a modest state of new issues meeting with good reception. In the secondary market, price gains were about 1/4-point, extending the rally since early March to about three points.

The corporate calendar next week totals a very heavy $1.1 billion including a $450 million issue from Southern Bell Telephone Co. The total April borrowing schedule has built to a sizable $2.2 billion and the May calendar thus far is $900 million.

Municipal bonds continue their upward swing, highlighted by an excellent reception to new issues Tuesday. The municipal note calendar next week stands at $800 million and bonds will total $424 million. For all of April, the bond slate stands at $1.7 billion.

U.S. government issues scored large price gains, posting 1/4-point advances on balance.

In the private money markets, prime certificates of deposit and banker's acceptances were five to 20 points lower in yield, while commercial paper was unchanged. Treasury bill rates declined 10 to 12 basis points, and three month rates closed around 4.77 per cent, the lowest since February. Federal funds remained in the 4 1/2-4 3/4 per cent range during the week.

Early Black Labor Leader Is Honored

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan's political and labor leaders joined together Thursday in an 87th birthday tribute to black labor leader A. Philip Randolph, who once was called the most dangerous Negro in America.

The title was pinned on him by the Justice Department during the administration of President Woodrow Wilson when Randolph was trying to organize a union of railroad sleeping car porters — which he eventually accomplished.

Gov. William Milliken and the Michigan Legislature declared Thursday "A. Philip Randolph Day" in Michigan, as did Detroit Mayor Coleman Young.

Young was among the 1,500 at a Randolph testimonial dinner at Cobo Hall Thursday night, as were UAW President Leonard Woodcock, Michigan AFL-CIO

Woodcock, who called Randolph "one of the greatest Americans of this century," recounted some of Randolph's accomplishments during his 70 years as a leader of the labor and civil rights movements.

Randolph in his speech stressed the ties that bind labor and blacks together.

"Today, the black struggle, like the labor movement, is political," he said. "The alliance of the labor movement is neither accidental nor temporary."

"Neither the civil rights movement nor the labor movement can accomplish its goals without the other," Randolph said.

Randolph now lives in New York City.

Chains Asked To Keep Old Beef Grading

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six major consumer organizations urged the nation's largest food chains on Friday to ignore new Department of Agriculture standards for grading beef.

In a joint letter to 20 food chains, the coalition praised the Kroger Co. for announcing it would refuse any beef grade choice which would not have qualified as choice under old standards.

Consumer groups opposed the new standards at hearings and in the courts on the ground that they would force consumers to pay choice prices for what was formerly graded as good beef.

Groups signing the letter were the Consumer Federation of America, Ralph Nader's Congress Watch, Consumers Union, National Consumers

Big Bird On Capitol Display Ripped Off

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan has suffered a Bicentennial burglary. A Bicentennial bird burglary, at that.

The revolutionary ripoff occurred recently outside the state Capitol offices of Lt. Gov. James Damman, Michigan's Bicentennial Commission chairman.

Some unpatriotic bandit yanked the large, plastic, gold-colored eagle from atop of a state Labor Department historical display depicting progress Michigan laborers have made in the past century.

The bulky bird may have been borne away in the night, since its 2 1/2-foot wingspan precluded easily sticking it in a pocket or under a coat, theorize sources close to the investigation.

The crook must have been a muscular menace, too.

"That eagle was put on with glue that is supposed to hold elephants," said Rhea Lodge, labor department publicist who helped put the display together.

Because of budget cuts, labor department personnel rounded up display items themselves rather than charge the state for them, she said.

"We'll go out and buy another bird out of our own pockets if we have to," she said.

The new right-turn-on-red law has confounded at least one Lansing motorist.

As reported by Rachel Hebler, an elementary school secretary, a woman about 50 drove up to the traffic light and, although it was green, stopped in the right-hand lane. Drivers behind her skidded to a stop and sat while she waited until the light finally turned red — at which time she promptly turned right, amid more squealing brakes of cars which had the right of way.

William Savage, state Traffic Coordination Unit supervising engineer, said he has not heard of similar incidents since the law took effect March 31. But he's noticed some drivers are reluctant to turn right on red.

"They forget they can do it and there will be a certain amount of people you just can't make do it," Savage said.

State Sen. John Otterbacher won't get his message across on a postcard he distributed for his U.S. Senate race.

Instead of having the message on one side and his campaign headquarters' return address on the other as planned, both sides bear the return address.

"No message at all."

"That's crazy," the Grand Rapids Democrat said when informed of his two-faced card.

"Must be a printing fluke. It's all part of campaigning I suppose."

He said he is sure most of the other 20,000 cards he sent out were correct and the oddball one was a freak.

The message, incidentally, asked volunteers if they wanted to distribute literature, plant yard signs, affix bumper stickers, make phone calls or donate money to Otterbacher's admittedly longshot election effort.

VW Still Mum On U.S. Plant

DETROIT (AP) — A Chicago consulting firm hired by Volkswagenwerk A.G. says the West German auto maker will not announce a site for its planned U.S. car assembly plant site for at least several months. Volkswagen said earlier it would make an announcement about its U.S. assembly plans on April 23. Observers here have expected the company to disclose the location for its plant at that time. However, an official at Fantus Co., which evaluated three industrial locations for the auto company, said VW only will say whether its plans for a U.S. facility are still viable. He said locations evaluated for VW by his firm include an empty plant that was built but never opened by Chrysler Corp. in New Stanton, Pa.; a former tank assembly plant in Brook Park, Ohio, near Cleveland, and a site, hw would not disclose.

Swedish King To Visit In Illinois

BISHOP HILL, Ill. (AP) — King Carl XVI Gustaf of Sweden will be the first king ever to visit western Illinois when he makes a one-day swing through the area on next Tuesday. In the Quad-Cities, first stop on the tour, special ceremonies are planned by Augustana College in Rock Island, oldest and largest of the colleges founded by Swedish immigrants in America.

The king is scheduled to arrive at 10:15 a.m. at Quad-Cities Airport, where he will be greeted by dignitaries from Rock Island, Moline, East Moline, Davenport and Bettendorf.

After stopping at Augustana, he and a party which includes about 20 foreign journalists will tour a Mercer County farm where they will be served a picnic lunch before leaving for Bishop Hill.

The tiny Henry County community was one of the first major Swedish settlements in the United States. Now a state park, it was founded in 1846 by the Janssons, a fundamentalist group fleeing religious oppression by the state-supported Lutheran church.

The settlers spent their first Illinois winter in two log cabins, four large tents and a canvas-walled church. They stayed to build and form a religious commune that grew to a population of 1,300 and owned about 12,000 acres of land before declining into a small town linked to the outside world by county blacktop.

The king's party will depart Bishop Hill at 5 p.m. for Detroit, next stop in the king's month-long tour of the United States.

35TH CEASEFIRE

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Another ceasefire, the 35th in a year of civil war, appeared to be taking hold in Lebanon today under the sponsorship of Syria and the Palestinian guerrillas. Police said the vicious fighting which had exploded in the past few days between Moslem and Christian forces died down this morning to scattered shooting and an occasional mortar blast.

Dowagiac Man Awaits Hearing

PAW PAW — A rural Dowagiac man was ordered held on $500 bond Friday following his arraignment in Van Buren Seventh District court on a charge of breaking and entering.

William Hennefelt, 25, demanded a preliminary examination on the charge. The hearing was set for April 27.

Van Buren sheriff's deputies said the charge grew out of a break-in Wednesday at the Lake Lodge tavern on Round lake, Keeler township, in which an undetermined amount of change was taken from three coin-operated machines.

In another case, James D. Johnson, 37, Wheeling, Ill., demanded a preliminary examination on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, a .38 caliber revolver.

Bond was set at $500 pending an April 27 preliminary examination.

Johnson was arrested after state police stopped a car on I-94 near Lawrence for speeding, Thursday.

Don't stop now, join the Army.

Congratulations. Graduating from high school is a real achievement. You've got a lot going for you now. And that's the best reason for moving ahead right away. Whether that means starting college, looking for a job, or joining the Army.

A good start. The best thing the Army will do for you is put all that fresh talent, education, and energy to work. There are plenty of good job-training courses in the Army. And Army pay is better than ever. $361.20 a month to start, with a raise in just four months to $402.60.

Soldier in Europe. Maybe what you want to do now is travel. With the Army's European Option, you can sign up for Europe when you enlist. You'll work hard, but you'll be learning a lot. Changing a lot, too.

Continue your education. You don't have to wait to start college or vocational-technical school. The Army has several educational programs, offered through accredited colleges and universities. Most of the classes are held right on post. And the Army pays up to 75% of your tuition. With one of the programs, Project Ahead (Army Help for Education And Development), you can enlist in the Army and start working on your college degree at the same time.

Join now, go later. One thing the Army offers a new graduate is a chance to recover from a head-bending senior year. With the Army's Delayed Entry Program, you can sign up in June, then take up to nine months to report.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR RONALD REAGAN

Do you think your divorce and age will affect your chances of ever becoming President?—Roger Detrick, Lima, Ohio

● No. It would be difficult for the Democrats to make an issue out of divorce, since they twice ran Adlai Stevenson. I don't believe the American people are as swayed by such things as they once were. As for age, I've just hit the mid-60's. William Gladstone, England's greatest statesman in my opinion, served up until the age of 85.

FOR VIKKI CARR

I love the way your hair looks. What do you do to keep it that way?—G.B., Decatur, Ill.

● You won't believe this, but it's sleeping without a pillow. I'm not saying it'll work for everyone, but for me, sleeping flat, not on an incline, keeps my hairdo intact (and it's also marvelous for posture).

FOR ELTON JOHN

Tell me about your glasses, such as how many pairs do you have?—S.J., Bangor, Me.

● I have about 200, altogether worth around $40,000. I guess the most unusual ones are lenses shaped like clouds and attached to a platinum and gold frame (studded with 100 diamonds) by gold hooks. Other favorites: a pair with 57 bulbs that light up with the name "Elton," three mink-lined pairs and one designed like musical notes.

FOR REP. THOMAS P. O'NEILL Jr. (D.-Mass.)

Why did you, a longtime friend of the Kennedy family, endorse Morris Udall instead of Kennedy in-law Sargent Shriver?—John Tobin, Durham, N.C.

● I've known Mo Udall since he came to the House of Representatives more than 14 years ago. I admire him, and I value his friendship. More important, I think he has the talent to make the hard decisions that our next President will have to make.

FOR NANCY WALKER, star of "Rhoda"

What's your favorite hobby?—M.W., Hartford, Conn.

● Gardening. I discovered my green thumb 14 years ago when we moved into our Virgin Islands home. I planted a garden just for fun. Everything grew lushly and quickly, and I was hooked. When we got back to California, I started a garden there, too (I've got lemon, peach, plum and apricot trees; azaleas, roses, begonias, oleanders and rhododendrons). Did you know Rock Hudson has two green thumbs? He lives near me, and he and I give each other daily garden reports and swap trees, flowers and shrubs.

FOR PETE ROZELLE, commissioner of the NFL

Should an instant-replay camera be used to make decisions on controversial plays?—Bill Spivey, Inverness, Fla.

● I'm not opposed to the use of instant replay on controversial plays if we could make it practical. If we could get enough camera angles (it would take a lot of them) and work out a system that would not give us a four-hour game, it could be helpful.

FOR GRAHAM KERR, "Galloping Gourmet"

Have you ever been stumped by a recipe?—Mrs. M. J. Jago, Fords, N.J.

● Yes. It was Salzburger Nockerl, a frothy soufflé. No matter how hard I tried, no matter how many eggs I used, it never, never came out the way it did when I first ate it at the Vienna Intercontinental Hotel. And it was their recipe I used. Does it bug me? And how!

FOR DAVID BRENNER, comedian

What made you decide to become a comic?—G.S., Los Angeles, Calif.

● School. Funny guys were more popular with the girls than the serious ones. I was bright but bored, and I used to clown around to relieve the monotony. It seems I got kicked out of the classroom almost as often as I went into it. The irony is that today I'm making a living by doing the same thing that got me into hot water at school—clowning around. Also, laughing kept me from crying. I learned that from my dad, who always joked about being poor.

FOR MAUD ADAMS, star of "Killer Force"

Is it true that, being Swedish, you call yourself another Garbo?—R.P., Cocoa, Fla.

● No. There's only one Garbo (and one Ingrid Bergman too, for that matter). I've got a long way to go before I can even hope to be compared to them. I didn't become an overnight success the way they did. I got into movies by being asked, "How would you like to be in movies?" Director James Frawley had just seen me in a commercial. I never dreamed he was serious.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

What is the extent of Rosemary Kennedy's retardation?—Cricket Hightower, Montgomery, Ala.

● At 55, she behaves like a child—one who wanders away from a parent in the street, has outbursts of temper, short interest spans, likes to play-act and dress up. She lives in Jefferson, Wis., at St. Coletta's School and has been there for 35 years. It didn't take long for Rose and Joseph Kennedy to realize that there was something wrong with their third child. She was slow in everything—sitting up, teething, crawling. At that time, medical "experts" gave false, optimistic reports that she would "outgrow" these problems. At St. Coletta's, Rosemary doesn't live with the other patients, but has her own house and attendants. She's plump and pretty, black-haired and tall and reportedly happy. Her mother visits her every couple of months, and the rest of the Kennedys see her at least twice a year.

Tomorrow's Best Pitchers

By Yesterday's Best Pitchers

With Larry Bortstein

FAMILY WEEKLY Contributing Editor

Who are the best young pitchers in major-league baseball? FAMILY WEEKLY sought the answer by polling a select panel of nine former mound stars. Five are members of the Baseball Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y.: Bob Feller, Bob Lemon, Robin Roberts, Warren Spahn and Early Wynn. The other four—Jim Brosnan, Don Drysdale, Carl Erskine, and Johnny Sain—also had distinguished careers in the big leagues.

The panelists agreed overall that, while the pitching art has changed in recent years, the state of the art is in good hands—or, rather, in good young right and left arms. (Incidentally, for purposes of our study, it was decided to consider only pitchers who have entered the major leagues in the past two years. This requirement eliminates several young "veterans" who are already well-established—for example, Don Gullett, Cincinnati's 25-year-old left-hander, who has seen regular major-league service since 1970.)

Two physical changes in the shape of baseball have played major roles in reshaping pitching itself. "The ball parks that were built in the past few years are much bigger than the old ball parks," says Jim Brosnan. "Also, the artificial infields are much faster and create more problems for fielders. Home runs are down, but the running game is back. So pitchers are concerned about different things than they were a few years ago."

Still, outstanding pitching by any other name is outstanding pitching. The choices of the panel are: in the National League, John Montefusco, the hard-throwing right-hander of the San Francisco Giants; and in the American League, fireballing left-hander Frank Tanana of the California Angels.

"Montefusco has a lot of poise for a man with so little experience," says Roberts, the former Philadelphia Philly who now sells stocks and does some radio work. "He's not afraid of the batters. He goes after them with his best stuff, challenges them. That's the mark of an aggressive pitcher."

"He's got a great arm and a great attitude," is the way Brosnan sums up Montefusco's assets. (Brosnan, by the way, is now a freelance writer.)

As for Tanana, last year's strikeout leader in the American League, Drysdale has this to say: "He has a great fast ball, which he throws with changing speeds. But the amazing thing about Frank is his curve. He has a fast curve and a slow curve and a dozen variations in between. The curve balls he throws make his fast balls seem faster than they really are. For his age, he's more advanced than my old Dodger teammate, Sandy Koufax, who couldn't find home plate until he was in his late twenties. Frank has all the tools and great control."

Drysdale has an excellent opportunity to see Tanana in action often because he is one of the broadcasters of California Angel games.

A former major-league great, who hasn't seen much of young Frank but likes what he has seen, is "Rapid Robert" Feller, the one-time strikeout king of baseball. Says Feller, director of sports sales for a worldwide hotel chain, "He sure can throw hard, and he seems to know something of what pitching is all about. Not all the young pitchers are like that. There's not much in the way of preparation today, so a guy has to be really dedicated to learning what he's doing once he's in the majors. Tanana looks like he's paying attention. And, oh, that control! I used to walk all the guys I wasn't striking out, but this kid gets all Meet John Montefusco . . .

When it appeared that the Giants would be moved to Toronto, Montefusco expressed unhappiness. But now he's happy, and the Giants should be happy, too. After all, in 1975, his first full season in the majors, Montefusco posted a 15-9 record, a 2.88 earned-run average that was the National League's seventh best, and 215 strikeouts—second in the National League only to Tom Seaver.

For these efforts, John was voted Rookie of the Year. And he has the kind of confidence, bordering on cockiness, to move on from there.

"I felt I had the kind of season I should have had," says the 25-year-old native of Long Branch, N.J. "All along I've felt I could be a big winner in the majors. I feel that 1975 was just the beginning for me and for our ball club. I feel I can be the best within two years, maybe sooner."

The 6-foot-1, 190-pound Montefusco joined the Giants late in 1974, posting a 3-2 mark in seven appearances after setting the minor leagues ablaze for two years.

. . . And Frank Tanana

In 1975, his second season in the majors, Frank Tanana topped all of big-league baseball with 269 strikeouts. He finished fourth in American League earned-run averages (2.63), posted a 16-9 record for a last-place California Angels' team, and—indicative of his outstanding control—walked only 73 batters in 257 innings. Last June 21, he struck out 17 Texas Rangers in one game, tying a league mark for left-handers.

At age 22, Frank, a 6-foot-3, 190-pounder, appears to be on the verge of a brilliant career. Yet, not long ago, Tanana's hopes for a professional baseball career seemed doomed.

Frank signed a contract with the Angels out of high school in 1970, and things went sour almost immediately. "I was sent to Idaho Falls," he remembers. "The first thing I did was hurt my shoulder. The rest of the summer was a complete waste. All I did was pinch-run once. There I was, 17 years old, figuring I was washed up."

"But," he smiles, "things began to work out." That they have. After a couple of years of seasoning, Tanana was ushered up to the Angels late in 1973; he got into four games and posted a 2-2 record with 22 strikeouts in 26 innings. In 1974, still officially a rookie, he was the best freshman hurler in the junior circuit, notching a 14-19 record for a weak team, with 180 strikeouts and a 3.12 earned-run average. Then came 1975 and stardom.

Spahn and Sain, one-time teammates on a pennant-winning Boston Braves team, both bemoan the fact that minor-league preparation of players has become a thing of the past. "I didn't win a game in the big-leagues until I was 25," says Spahn, who went on to post more victories than any other left-hander in history (363), and now operates a cattle ranch in Hartshorne, Okla. "Today, if a guy isn't making it by age 25, the tendency is to forget him. Teams can't afford to wait on a guy."

Sain, who was pitching coach of the Chicago White Sox the past five years, is now working on a book on pitching, a subject on which many people consider him to be the ranking expert. "Pitchers are a major part of the game," he

Let Plants Do Your Decorating!

How greenery, strategically placed, can create "found space"—or turn one room into two.

By Rosalyn Abrevaya
Senior Editor

A renovation anyone can do—plants divide a basement for dual family entertaining.

Two Rooms in One (Above)

Plants add warmth to a basement and provide privacy for separate family activities. The planters—under "growth" lights—are easily rolled away when more space is desired. The walls are faced in U.S. Plywood's Weldwood Craftsman paneling. James David's elegant tweed seating, in durable Herculon, is modestly priced, pre-assembled furniture. Room by Peg Walker. Graphics by Greg Copeland. Stereo and TV from Magnavox.

"Plant" a Room (Right)

Use plants to help convert a passageway into a sunny dining area.

If remodeling is on your priority list but you don't know where to start, consider plants as a remedy. Remodel with plants? You bet—using large plants and small and, in particular, potted trees.

The basic idea is to stop thinking of plants as accents. Instead, consider them as a means for creating major interior changes.

Plants as Décor Changers

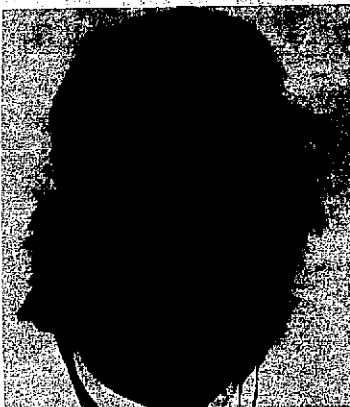

Indoor trees, for example, alone or in combination with smaller plants, can "invent" a cozy room where none existed before, can become an instant divider, decorate a window or turn a large wall or bare corner into a natural habitat. And with the advent of artificial "grow" lighting, plants now can be displayed nearly everywhere in the home.

How about a mini-library on a wide stair landing, punctuated by a leafy palm and potted flowers? (African violets, for example, grow even in a dark room if there's steady

Who are the best young pitchers in major-league baseball? FAMILY WEEKLY sought the answer by polling a select panel of nine former mound stars. Meet John Montefusco . . .

When it appeared that the Giants would be moved to Toronto, Montefusco expressed unhappiness. But now he's happy, and the Giants should be happy, too. After all, in 1975, his first full season in the majors, Montefusco posted a 15-9 record, a 2.88 earned-run average that was the National League's seventh best, and 215 strikeouts—second in the National League only to Tom Seaver.

For these efforts, John was voted Rookie of the Year. And he has the kind of confidence, bordering on cockiness, to move on from there. "I felt I had the kind of season I should have had," says the 26-year-old native of Long Branch, N.J. "All along I've felt I could be a big winner in the majors. I feel that 1975 was just the beginning for me and for our ball club. I feel I can be the best within two years, maybe sooner."

The 6-foot-1, 190-pound Montefusco joined the Giants late in 1974, posting a 3-2 mark in seven appearances after setting the minor leagues ablaze for two years.

... And Frank Tanana

In 1975, his second season in the majors, Frank Tanana topped all of big-league baseball with 269 strikeouts. He finished fourth in American League earned-run averages (2.83), posted a 16-9 record for a last-place California Angels' team, and—indicative of his outstanding control—walked only 73 batters in 287 innings. Last June 21, he struck out 17 Texas Rangers in one game, tying a league mark for left-handers.

At age 22, Frank, a 5-foot-3, 190-pounder, appears to be on the verge of a brilliant career. Yet, not long ago, Tanana's hopes for a professional baseball career seemed doomed.

Frank signed a contract with the Angels out of high school in 1970, and things went sour almost immediately. "I was sent to Idaho Falls," he remembers. "The first thing I did was hurt my shoulder. The rest of the summer was a complete waste. All I did was pinch-run once. There I was, 17 years old, figuring I was washed up."

"But," he smiles, "things began to work out." That they have. After a couple of years of seasoning, Tanana was ushered up to the Angels late in 1973; he got into four games and posted a 2-2 record with 22 strikeouts in 28 innings. In 1974, still officially a rookie, he was the best freshman hurler in the junior circuit, notching a 14-19 record for a weak team, with 180 strikeouts and a 3.12 earned-run average. Then came 1975 and stardom.

Spahn and Sain, one-time teammates on a pennant-winning Boston Braves team, both bemoan the fact that minor-league preparation of players has become a thing of the past. "I didn't win a game in the big leagues until I was 25," says Spahn, who went on to post more victories than any other left-hander in history (363), and now operates a cattle ranch in Hartshorne, Okla. "Today, if a guy isn't making it by age 25, the tendency is to forget him. Teams can't afford to wait on a guy."

Sain, who was pitching coach of the Chicago White Sox the past five years, is now working on a book on pitching, a subject on which many people consider him to be the ranking expert. "Pitchers are a major part of the game," he

(Add only a shade or blinds for privacy.) Another idea: fill in the space between a

How to "Marry" Plants

Are you getting ready for a plunge into the plant world? If you are, you might want to first find out what looks best where. Generally, you should pay attention to the shape, scale and coloration of plants. When making a selection, visualize how they'll look together.

Large plants can be grouped to fill out a corner or balance another part of the room where you might have had furniture. As a rule, to create a symmetrical arrangement, intermingle plants of various heights. Begin with the largest plant and build around it—whether you place it in the center of the room or at one end. For a colorful finishing touch, place clay-potted flowering plants at floor level.

The rich variety of plants sets a style throughout the house. In the living room, the composition of a glossy spreading philodendron can make a too-high ceiling look lower, while the small-leaf, variegated foliage of other species can relieve the starkness of plain curtains and furnishings. Tall bamboos are good plants for smaller living rooms because they don't branch or take up much space. But they're striking and lend a vertical thrust to the room. A living-room fireplace often looks abandoned in summer, so why not "dress" it up with an array of greenery?

Some plants harmonize best with contemporary living-room décor; others suit more traditional rooms. For example, the treelike plants: Dracaena marginata, with its long, narrow reed-like foliage, is handsome in a sleekly furnished room. Ficus benjamina, or weeping fig, is recommended for traditional interiors; it's a denser small-leaf plant with a textured pattern. (Ask to see these varieties the next time you're browsing at a local nursery or plant store.)

If you like the idea of waking up to a hint of the outdoors and if you have space in your bedroom, mass potted plants on a teacart. There's a practical bonus in this idea. At watering or grooming time, avoid any mess by simply wheeling the teacart into the kitchen! Complement the color scheme with elegant glazed containers or group plants in see-through colored plastic pots, available at five-and-ten or variety stores. A dramatic green arrangement can also help camouflage architectural defects in the room.

The trend to larger kitchens, where the family spends a great deal of time, provides a new showcase for more stately plants, such as a palm or a citrus. A kitchen offers optimum conditions for plant growth—ample humidity and warmth during the day, lower temperatures and less humidity at night.

The bathroom, too, is a natural place for plants because of its humidity level. Attractive low-level, light-demanding plants, such as Aspidistra, grape ivy, dieffenbachia, dracaena and the hardy rubber plant are good candidates for the bathroom. But now you can grow such exotic species as orchids if you convert your existing light fixture into a plant light. This is often a simple procedure. Check with your hardware store or an electrician.

Let Plants Do Your Decorating!

How greenery, strategically placed, can create "found space"—or turn one room into two.

Two Rooms in One (Above)

Plants add warmth to a basement and provide privacy for separate family activities. The planters—under "growth" lights—are easily rolled away when more space is desired. The walls are faced in U.S. Plywood's Weldwood Craftsman paneling. James David's elegant tweed seating, in durable Herculan, is modestly priced, pre-assembled furniture. Room by Peg Walker. "Plant" a Room (Right)

An indoor greenhouse, created by "curtaining" French doors with plant-laden étagères (bric-a-brac shelves), results in a fresh, springlike dining area. The chrome-framed étagères make elegant plant stands, are easy to disassemble and store in warm weather when the patio door is open. Sleekly designed table and chairs give the room an airy look. Furniture from James David.

Use plants to help convert a passageway into a sunny dining area.

If remodeling is on your priority list but you don't know where to start, consider plants as a remedy. Remodel with plants? You bet—using large plants and small and, in particular, potted trees.

The basic idea is to stop thinking of plants as accents. Instead, consider them as a means for creating major interior changes.

Plants as Décor Changers

Indoor trees, for example, alone or in combination with smaller plants, can "invent" a cozy room where none existed before, can become an instant divider, decorate a window or turn a large wall or bare corner into a natural habitat. And with the advent of artificial "grow" lighting, plants now can be displayed nearly everywhere in the home.

How about a mini-library on a wide stair landing, punctuated by a leafy palm and potted flowers? (African violets, for example, grow even in a dark room if there's steady

Jerry Baker, author of the best seller, "Plants Are Like People," has written 26 books on gardening.

By Jerry Baker

It's that time of year when seed and nursery catalogue houses begin to tease our taste buds with mouth-watering displays of garden art. We're confronted with seed packets promising plump, juicy tomatoes, rich red berries and crisp lettuce. But how do you know how many seeds or plants to buy? And, perhaps more to the point, how can you be sure of success, particularly if you're a beginner?

For those of you who have never made a vegetable garden before, let's go over the formula for figuring the best size for your garden. Add the heights of the members of your family, then square the total. If Dad is six feet, Mom is five feet, and your three kids are four feet, four feet and three feet, the total of your heights is 22 feet. Twenty-two feet times 22 feet equals 484 square feet. That's how big your garden should be.

Next, spread 50 pounds of agricultural gypsum and 10 to 15 pounds of lawn food (none containing weed killers) over the area designated for your garden. Use fireplace ashes as a fertilizer when available. Then hope it rains. This will turn the concoction into what we call barnyard tea. For those of you who have had a garden in the past, you cover your garden the same way with the same list of nutritional supplements.

Next, plan your plot. Using a large grocery bag, split open, take your children's crayons and draw your garden as you would want it to look. But don't just stop at your garden. Draw the whole yard, including your house, garage, existing trees, walks, etc. The idea is to produce as much food on your land as possible.

For the general garden practitioner with a good-sized family, I suggest planting the following:

One package each of Improved Long Green Cucumbers; Improved Chateau Carrots, Coreless Nantes Carrots, Improved Detroit Dark Red Beets, Black-Seeded Simpson Lettuce, Hollow Crown Parsnips, New Crimson Giant Radishes, Rutgers Tomatoes, Gold Cross Bantam Sweet Corn, Little Marvel Peas, Burpee's Stringless Green Bush Beans, White Icicle Radishes; and one pound each of Yellow Onion sets and White Onion sets.

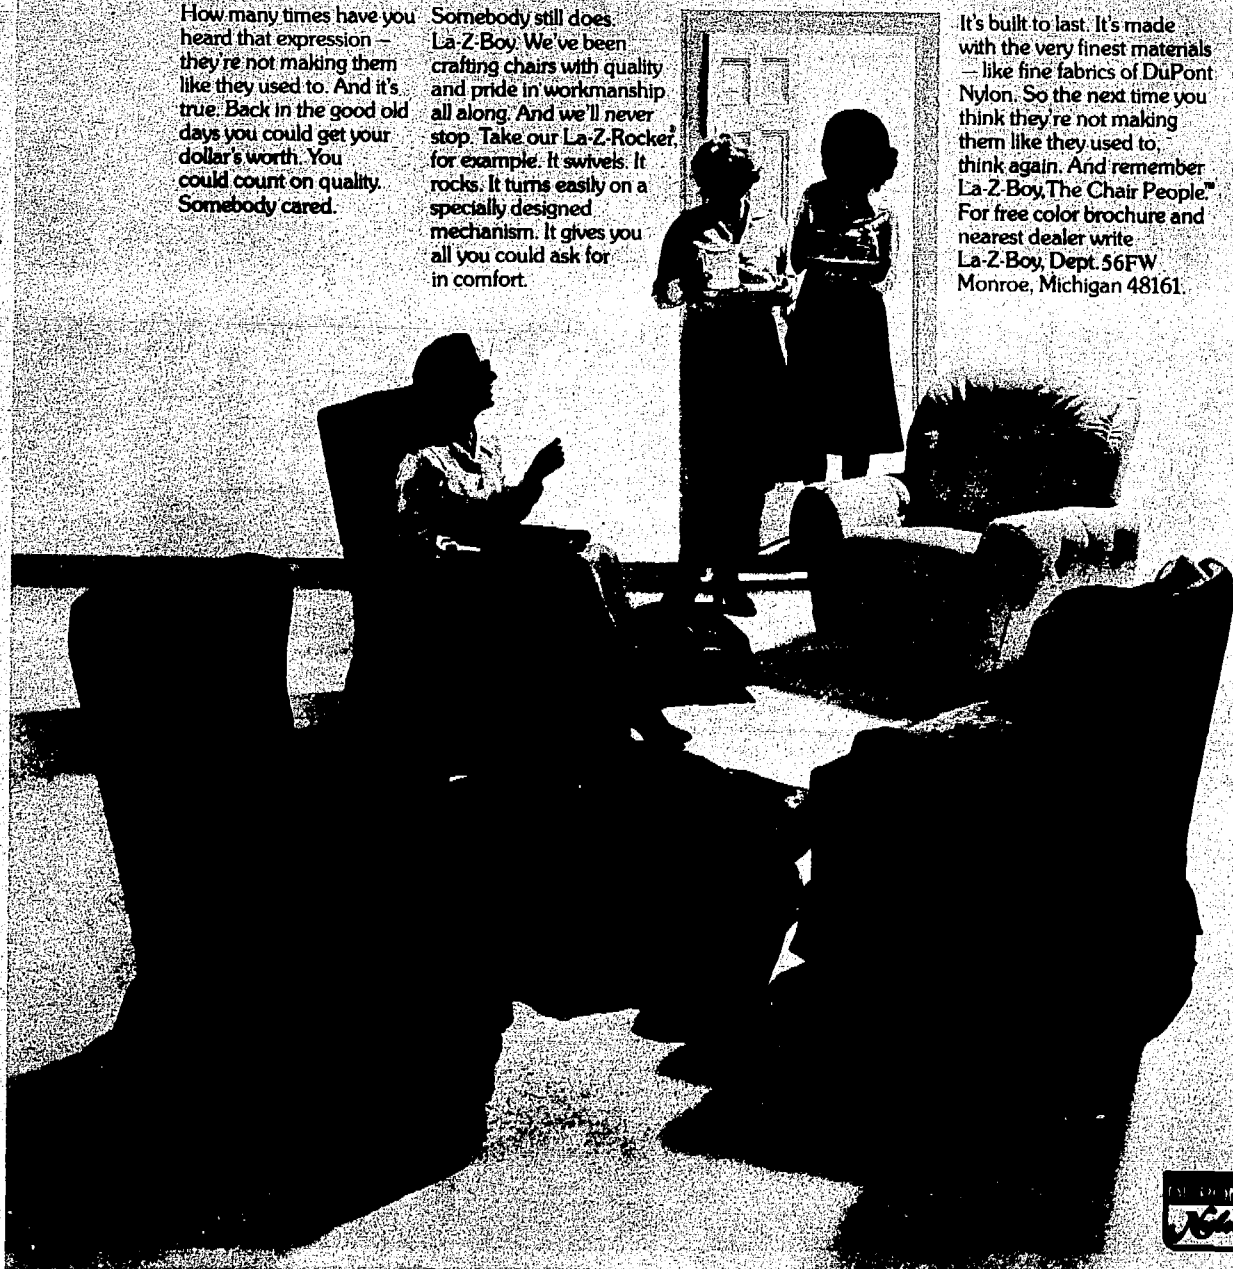

To please family members with a sweet tooth, plant strawberry patches on three sides of your garden. Plant 25 strawberry plants of the early variety of Fairfax; 25 plants of Sure Crop, midseason, and 25 plants of Sparkle, the late berry.

If you have a slightly damp but not soggy spot, then you can plant 10 raspberries in a square, leaving four feet between plants. The best variety is a new one called Sentry.

While you're planning your spring garden, let's think about an orchard. No, I'm not referring to a large orchard. I'm only suggesting that you might want to raise plums, peaches, cherries, apricots and nectarines. That sounds like a pretty good-sized orchard, doesn't it? But here's the surprise. You can get all of these fruits to grow on one tree! It's called a Fruit Cocktail Tree, and it grows only 10 feet high. I have seen the trees and tasted the fruit. The fruit is delicious!

If you have a fence, why not train grapes along it? They will serve two purposes—increased privacy and food. Here are five suitable varieties:

Concord-Blue, Niagara-White, Coco-Red, Fredonia-Black and Interlaken, which is seedless. Grapes will grow in most well-drained soils that have produced a garden crop, flowers or vegetables.

While you still have the crayon in your hand, let's look to see if you can use a couple of flowering shrubs that do more than just look pretty. I'm talking about blueberries. If you have a damp spot or two, fill them with blueberries. Blue-Crop and Berkeley will do nicely and will satisfy the "muffin" crowd.

"How much is all this going to cost?" you ask. If you were to purchase all of "Master Gardener" Jerry Baker frequently gives gardening tips on NBC-TV's "Dinah's Place." This spring Grosset & Dunlap will be coming out with two new books by him: one for children, "Plants Are Like Kids" ($2.95); and the other for adults, "Jerry Baker's Fabulous Everything, Everywhere, Indoor, Outdoor Garden Answer Book" ($9.95).

your seed, fertilizers, equipment and insect controls, it would cost you approximately $11 per adult and $5 per child with a dollar return of $134 to $150 per adult and $60 to $75 per child. If you use table scraps, straw, wood ashes and other natural materials, you can probably reduce your cost by at least half.

Here are some additional tips:

- Don't turn over the soil for your garden until it feels crumbly in your hand.

- Till or spade to a depth of 8 to 10 inches, making sure that you break up all large chunks. When you're finished, your garden should look as though you could walk barefoot on it without an ouch!

- As soon as the seeds sprout or the seedlings are placed in the ground, feed them with a plant "baby food." It's a combination of mild food and a hormone that gets the plants off to a good start. One I recommend is Upstart.

- Weeds need not be a problem. Use a good heavy layer of hay over your garden, pulling it aside just enough to let the plants see daylight. That will keep the weeds out.

- Birds won't eat your corn seed if they can't find it. I put four-inch sections of paper-towel tubes or toilet-paper tubes over my corn seeds. The plants grow right up through them.

- While you're at it, split small pieces of plastic straws and place them around the stems of tomatoes and peppers to discourage cutworms.

- The fertilizer shortage need not bother you if you put your table scraps (not meat) in a blender, add a pinch of yeast, fill with water and liquefy. Pour this concoction on your garden, and you have instant compost.

Feed your plants for up to 6 months in 12 seconds.

New ORTHO® Timed Release Plant Food formulas make feeding and growing healthy plants easier than ever. You just spoon on the clean, odorless granules and mix into the soil.

It takes only seconds to start plants on a steady, uniform diet that lasts from three to six months, depending on plant variety.

Each granule of these scientifically formulated fertilizers provides the balanced combination of nutrients needed by specific plants. The slow release of these nutrients lets you feed whatever you grow indoors or outdoors, from seedlings to mature plants, without the danger of overfeeding or burning.

Look for the family of ORTHO Timed Release Plant Foods at your Ortho dealers: African Violet Food 6-9-5, feeds 4 to 6 months; Pot and Planter Food 5-10-5, feeds 4 to 6 months; General Purpose Plant Food 12-6-6, feeds 3 to 4 months; Tomato and Vegetable Food 10-20-5, feeds 3 to 4 months.

On the Eve of "Rex": "Work Is a Matter of Survival"

The man is in his seventies, and he has been stage-struck since he was 7. His body is showing signs of wear and tear; the last big thing was a laryngectomy he underwent in 1974, and he has learned what is known as esophageal speech. Still, you wouldn't think of Richard Rodgers as an old man or as being any particular age at all. He is, up close, a genteel man, a modest-sized, ordinary-looking man whose ego doesn't taint his manners. Inside him, though, there is, there must be, an all-out, damn-the-torpedoes commitment to the theater and to his specific job in it—making melodies.

"For 'The King and I,' I had to write 'Siamese music.' What did I know about Siamese music?"

Stage struck? Two decades ago when he was working with Oscar Hammerstein II on "Pipe Dream," Richard Rodgers was told on a Friday that a cancerous growth would have to be removed along with part of his jawbone. He was scheduled to enter the hospital the following Tuesday for surgery on Wednesday. What he did over the weekend was he worked: He wrote a new song and finished three piano manuscripts. On Tuesday morning, before checking into the hospital, he stopped by the rehearsals.

"Had this episode been made into a movie," Rodgers wrote in his autobiography, the recently published "Musical Stages," "the scenario would have ended with the composer recovering just in time to attend the opening-night performance of his latest work, and with tears in his eyes he would acknowledge the thunderous ovation signaling his crowning achievement. Well, if there were any tears in my eyes, it was because "Pipe Dream" was universally accepted as the weakest musical that Oscar and I had ever done together."

The most popular of those was "Oklahoma!," and now Rodgers has collaborated with Sheldon Harnick, who wrote the lyrics for "Fiddler on the Roof," the show that finally broke "Oklahoma's!" longest-run-on-Broadway record. The Rodgers-Harnick score (to a book by Sherman Yellen) is for "Rex," a musical about the romance and intrigue surrounding Henry VIII (opening on Broadway April 20) Richard and Dorothy Feiner Rodgers, his wife since 1930 and his best girl since some time before that, were staying close to the theater district for the testing of this new enterprise. They have a New York apartment fronting on Central Park and a house in Connecticut.

The actual writing of a tune has always come quickly for Rodgers, but he seldom invents one when he doesn't have an assignment. The play, almost always, is the thing.

You Can Turn Your Whole Yard Into a $-Saving Mini-Farm

There's no reason an attractive yard cannot yield food for your dinner table. Here, "America's Master Gardener" tells you how it's done.

FROM ME!"

"Hi, I'm your Georgia-Pacific Registered Dealer. And I've got plans for your summer. All kinds of plans for all kinds of do-it-yourself projects. They're in a 32-page, fully illustrated book that's absolutely free. The plans are easy to follow. And the projects are simple to build—especially when you use Georgia-Pacific quality building materials."

Here's a typical project

"This outdoor planter is a beauty. You can put it on the patio. On that patch of lawn that doesn't want to grow grass. Or anywhere you want a burst of flowers. To build it, all you need is a piece of plywood, a couple of 2"x2"s, nails, hammer, saw, and a little elbow grease!"

Paneling adds value to your home

"Of course, there's a section on paneling projects. Because putting up paneling is one of the easiest and most worthwhile things you can do. In just a few hours, you can turn a drab room into a dream room. And Georgia-Pacific has so many different kinds of paneling, you can get any look you want!"

Everything you need is here

"So, come on in. Get your free PLAN AHEAD booklet. And all the Georgia-Pacific building materials you'll need: paneling, lumber, plywood, wallboard, roofing, insulation—everything. And I've even got tools. If you need 'em."

"I've also got some good advice: get started today! I'll be seeing you!"

Jerry Baker, author of the best seller, "Plants Are Like People," has written 26 books on gardening.

By Jerry Baker

It's that time of year when seed and nursery catalogue houses begin to tease our taste buds with mouth-watering displays of garden art. We're confronted with seed packets promising plump, juicy tomatoes, rich red berries and crisp lettuce. But how do you know how many seeds or plants to buy? And, perhaps more to the point, how can you be sure of success, particularly if you're a beginner?

For those of you who have never made a vegetable garden before, let's go over the formula for figuring the best size for your garden. Add the heights of the members of your family, then square the total. If Dad is six feet, Mom is five feet, and your three kids are four feet, four feet and three feet, the total of your heights is 22 feet. Twenty-two feet times 22 feet equals 484 square feet. That's how big your garden should be.

Next, spread 50 pounds of agricultural gypsum and 10 to 15 pounds of lawn food (none containing weed killers) over the area designated for your garden. Use fireplace ashes as a fertilizer when available. Then hope it rains. This will turn the concoction into what we call barnyard tea. For those of you who have had a garden in the past, you cover your garden the same way with the same list of nutritional supplements.

Next, plan your plot. Using a large grocery bag, split open, take your children's crayons and draw your garden as you would want it to look. But don't just stop at your garden. Draw the whole yard, including your house, garage, existing trees, walks, etc. The idea is to produce as much food on your land as possible.

For the general garden practitioner with a good-sized family, I suggest planting the following:

One package each of Improved Long Green Cucumbers; Improved Chateaux Carrots, Coreless Nantes Carrots, Improved Detroit Dark Red Beets, Black-Seeded Simpson Lettuce, Hollow Crown Parsnips, New Crimson Giant Radishes, Rutgers Tomatoes, Gold Cross Bantam Sweet Corn, Little Marvel Peas, Burpee's Stringless Green Bush Beans, White Icicle Radishes; and one pound each of Yellow Onion sets and White Onion sets.

To please family members with a sweet tooth, plant strawberry patches on three sides of your garden. Plant 25 strawberry plants of

"With me," he says, "it isn't a question of needing a deadline but a question of subject matter, having a theme, and that can come from a story line, the characters, the situation in which you find them—which you use as a springboard. That's what theater music is: describing the characters in a situation. The song "Where or When" was written for a particular situation in which a boy and girl meet. You can take the song out of the play and it can get by, but it was particularly effective in the situation in the play."

cation, and bear the mark of the American song."

"When we started work on 'Oklahoma!'," Rodgers says, "Oscar sent me a book. I forget the name of it, but it was a book of music from the Southwest. I opened it up, looked at one song, closed it and never opened it again. For 'The King and I,' I had to write 'Siamese music.' What did I know about Siamese music?"

One critic said that for "Rex," Rodgers wrote a score "based on music of the 16th century." But one suspects that in time it will prove to contain a lot more of Richard Rodgers than anything else. "Rex" is a play rich in costume and elaborate in staging, but it also puts considerable energy into the plot, the story line; and Rodgers's score seems designed not to produce possible hit songs but to color in the mood of the story. Before it opened in New York, out-of-town critics singled out for particular praise his melodies and the acting and singing of Nicol Williamson. Penny Fuller is the female lead. Directed by Edwin Sherin, "Rex" is an expensive production—not the least of the reasons why its backers are glad to have a score by Rodgers.

There was never anything else he wanted to be, Rodgers says, "and there was nothing that took me away from music."

Rodgers's courtly manners suggest he would not be an intense, nervous person when he is working, and Dorothy confirms that he has been relatively easy-going about it. "In the years when Dick was doing most of his writing at home," she says, "when the children [Mary and Linda] were little, they would run in and out of the room. He worked in the living room, and they had to pass through to go outside. He didn't like them stopping and sitting down to talk, but it never bothered him."

"That," he says, "may be because I started writing when I was so young. I wasn't old enough to have developed habits. I was too young to be temperamental."

It may be, further, that his earliest associations with music were in the living room, where he was the child and it was his mother playing the piano. Or it may be something in the amiable calmness that dominates what an outsider can see of Rodgers's personality. He says he works best in a friendly atmosphere (which he enjoyed, by and large, with his long-term collaborators, Lorenz Hart and Oscar Hammerstein), and he says the value of his lifelong friendship with Dorothy has been "inestimable."

In any case, the man does find friendly atmospheres, and he is a worker. As he says in his autobiography, where he tells how he felt following Oscar's death: "After the shock and grief of the loss of a dear friend and partner, it's easy to consider chucking everything and spending the rest of your life puttering around a garden or traveling around the world. Had I succumbed to that feeling, I'd be dead—not physically, perhaps, but mentally and emotionally dead. For me, work is simply a matter of survival."

Bolens tractors
have more going for them.

More value.

We think we offer you the most tractor for your money. And the most value.

Here's why.

Every Bolens tractor is extremely well built. If anything, our tractors are over-built. You can see it in the frame. Brakes, Bearings and gears. They're tougher than they have to be.

They're built to last longer, take more abuse and tackle bigger jobs.

That's value.

And that holds true for the eight models we make, from the hefty 19.5 hp right down to the 8 hp.

For example, the 19.5 hp tractor has a massive rear axle, differential and heavy duty front axle, all custom-designed and built to match the tractor's work power.

The 8 hp tractor has a unique body design, with wrap-around fenders and frame shaped out of a single piece of formed steel.

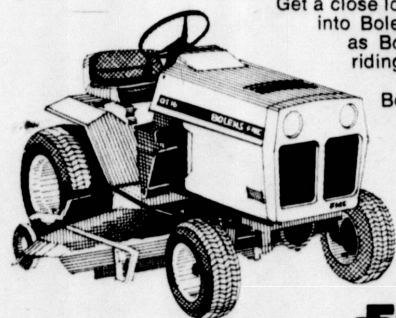

And every Bolens tractor has as much brain as brawn. We've made changing jobs easy by making the changing of attachments easy. You can switch from the center-mounted mower to dozens of attachments in just minutes.

Attachments like the Bolens rear-mounted rotary tiller. Blades to move top soil and snow. Lawn sweepers to groom your lawn. Snowthrowers to blast through the worst of winter. And dozens more.

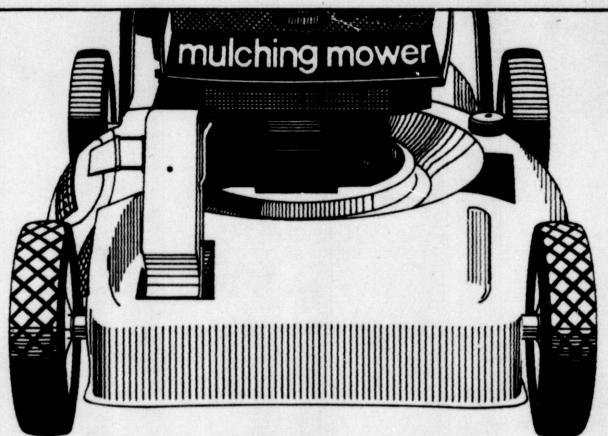

You also have your choice of one-pedal automatic or manual shift. Hydraulic or manual attachment lift control. And accessories that include everything from vinyl cabs to wheel weights.

Get a close look at the value built into Bolens tractors, as well as Bolens garden tillers, riding mowers and snowthrowers, at your Bolens dealer. For his name and address, call 800-447-4700 toll-free anytime (in Illinois call 800-322-4400).

Bolens® Mulching Mowers
have less going for them.

Less work.

Because this is the mower that eliminates the grass clippings as it mows.

That phenomenon is accomplished in the unique fully-enclosed mower housing. It sets up the grass with suction. Then, the exclusive multi-pitch blade cuts and recuts the clippings into a fine mulch that's blown down into your lawn.

So you end up with less.

Less work, because you never have to bag, rake or haul grass clippings.

Less expense, because you'll save on fertilizer costs. The tiny mulch particles decompose quickly, returning nitrogen to the soil.

Less thatch, because the particles decompose instead of contributing to thatch build-up.

Less awkward mowing, because there's no discharge chute. So you can trim along borders and around obstacles with both sides of the mower.

Other features include sure-footed front wheel drive. Grip 'n Go™ safety drive control. Squeeze it and you're going. Release it, you stop.

Bolens Mulching Mowers come in your choice of manual or electric start, 22" and 18" cutting widths, and in self-propelled and hand-propelled models.

The Bolens Mulching Mower. It's one of a kind. So unique, it's patented. And it's only found at your Bolens dealer's.

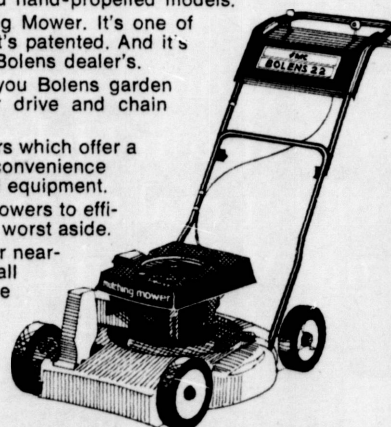

He can also show you Bolens garden tillers in both gear drive and chain drive models.

Bolens riding mowers which offer a host of safety and convenience features as standard equipment.

And Bolens snowthrowers to efficiently toss winter's worst aside.

the early variety of Fairfax; 25 plants of Sure Crop; midseason, and 25 plants of Sparkle, the late berry.

If you have a slightly damp but not soggy spot, then you can plant 10 raspberries in a square, leaving four feet between plants. The best variety is a new one called SENTRY.

While you're planning your spring garden, let's think about an orchard. No, I'm not referring to a large orchard. I'm only suggesting that you might want to raise plums, peaches, cherries, apricots and nectarines. That sounds like a pretty good-sized orchard, doesn't it? But here's the surprise. You can get all of these fruits to grow on one tree! It's called a Fruit Cocktail Tree, and it grows only 10 feet high. I have seen the trees and tasted the fruit. The fruit is delicious!

If you have a fence, why not train grapes along it? They will serve two purposes—increased privacy and food. Here are five suitable varieties:

Concord-Blue, Niagara-White, Coco-Red, Fredonia-Black and Interlaken, which is seedless. Grapes will grow in most well-drained soils that have produced a garden crop, flowers or vegetables.

While you still have the crayon in your hand, let's look to see if you can use a couple of flowering shrubs that do more than just look pretty. I'm talking about blueberries. If you have a damp spot or two, fill them with blueberries. Blue-Crop and Berkeley will do nicely and will satisfy the "muffin" crowd.

"How much is all this going to cost?" you ask. If you were to purchase all of your seed, fertilizers, equipment and insect controls, it would cost you approximately $11 per adult and $5 per child with a dollar return of $134 to $150 per adult and $60 to $75 per child. If you use table scraps, straw, wood ashes and other natural materials, you can probably reduce your cost by at least half.

Here are some additional tips:

- Don't turn over the soil for your garden until it feels crumbly in your hand.

- Till or spade to a depth of 8 to 10 inches, making sure that you break up all large chunks. When you're finished, your garden should look as though you could walk barefoot on it without an ouch!

- As soon as the seeds sprout or the seedlings are placed in the ground, feed them with a plant "baby food." It's a combination of mild food and a hormone that gets the plants off to a good start. One I recommend is Upstart.

- Weeds need not be a problem. Use a good heavy layer of hay over your garden, pulling it aside just enough to let the plants see daylight. That will keep the weeds out.

- Birds won't eat your corn seed if they can't find it. I put four-inch sections of paper-towel tubes or toilet-paper tubes over my corn seeds. The plants grow right up through them.

- While you're at it, split small pieces of plastic straws and place them around the stems of tomatoes and peppers to discourage cutworms.

- The fertilizer shortage need not bother you if you put your table scraps (not meat) in a blender, add a pinch of yeast, fill with water and liquefy. Pour this concoction on your garden, and you have instant compost.

Feed your plants for up to 6 months in 12 seconds.

New ORTHO® Timed Release Plant Food formulas make feeding and growing healthy plants easier than ever. You just spoon on the clean, odorless granules and mix into the soil.

It takes only seconds to start plants on a steady, uniform diet that lasts from three to six months, depending on plant variety.

Each granule of these scientifically formulated fertilizers provides the balanced combination of nutrients needed by specific plants. The slow release of these nutrients lets you feed whatever you grow indoors or outdoors, from seedlings to mature plants, without the danger of overfeeding or burning.

Look for the family of ORTHO Timed Release Plant Foods at your Ortho dealers: African Violet Food 6-9-5, feeds 4 to 6 months; Pot and Planter Food 5-10-5, feeds 4 to 6 months; General Purpose Plant Food 12-6-6, feeds 3 to 4 months; Tomato and Vegetable Food 10-20-5, feeds 3 to 4 months.

You'll know they're better because they're from Ortho.

says, "but many teams don't know how to handle them properly. With the changes now in baseball and the running game in and all the guys stealing bases, pitchers have to learn how to keep guys close to first base better. Not by throwing over a lot—I'd much rather have a guy throw home than to first. But there are fakes and body movements that pitchers have to learn in order to keep base runners from getting big jumps."

Still, both Spahn and Sain see several pitchers they rate highly as young men of promise. Spahn points to Cleveland's 21-year-old right-hander Dennis Eckersley, who had an excellent rookie campaign in 1975. "He doesn't throw hard," says the Hall of Fame southpaw, "but he knows how to pitch. He's got an unorthodox delivery, and that helps him."

Sain is high on a 22-year-old right-hander he worked with briefly the past two seasons in Chicago. The pitcher's name is Jack Kucek, and he's appeared in only 11 big-league contests so far. But Sain likes the way this 6-foot-2, 200-pounder can fire the fast ball and also points to his capacity for learning the game's finer points.

Richard Rodgers

On the Eve of "Rex": "Work Is a Matter of Survival"

The man is in his seventies, and he has been stage-struck since he was 7. His body is showing signs of wear and tear; the last big thing was a laryngectomy he underwent in 1974, and he has learned what is known as esophageal speech. Still, you wouldn't think of Richard Rodgers as an old man or as being any particular age at all. He is, up close, a gen-

By Noel Coppage

"For 'The King and I,' I had to write 'Siamese music.' What did I know about Siamese music?"

tel man, a modest-sized, ordinary-looking man whose ego doesn't taint his manners. Inside him, though, there is, there must be, an all-out, damn-the-torpedoes commitment to the theater and to his specific job in it—making melodies.

Stage struck? Two decades ago when he was working with Oscar Hammerstein II on "Pipe Dream," Richard Rodgers was told on a Friday that a cancerous growth would have to be removed along with part of his jawbone. He was scheduled to enter the hospital the following Tuesday for surgery on Wednesday. What he did over the weekend was he worked: He wrote a new song and finished three piano manuscripts. On Tuesday morning, before checking into the hospital, he stopped by the rehearsals.

"Had this episode been made into a movie," Rodgers wrote in his autobiography, the recently published "Musical Stages," "the scenario would have ended with the composer recovering just in time to attend the opening-night performance of his latest work, and with tears in his eyes he would acknowledge the thunderous ovation signaling his crowning achievement. Well, if there were any tears in my eyes, it was because "Pipe Dream" was universally accepted as the weakest musical (that Oscar and I had ever done together.)"

The most popular of those was "Oklahoma!," and now Rodgers has collaborated with Sheldon Harnick, who wrote the lyrics for "Fiddler on the Roof," the show that finally broke "Oklahoma's" longest-run-on-Broadway record. The Rodgers-Harnick score (to a book by Sherman Yellen) is for "Rex," a musical about the romance and intrigue surrounding Henry VIII. (opening on Broadway April 20) Richard and Dorothy Feiner Rodgers, his wife since 1930 and his best girl since some time before that, were staying close to the theater district for the testing of this new enterprise. They have a New York apartment fronting on Central Park and a house in Connecticut.

The actual writing of a tune has always come quickly for Rodgers, but he seldom invents one when he doesn't have an assignment. The play, almost always, is the thing. Continued

ANNE AND ELLIOT RICHARDSON
The Brahmin advantage

What has made the recently appointed Secretary of Commerce, Elliot Richardson, the choice for so many Cabinet positions? "Although he can be frosty and aloof in public, his private warmth and ebullience—he is a passionate tennis player, a joyous dancer, an enthralling dinner partner—have earned him loyalty and friendship wherever he goes. Richardson's value to Nixon was obvious. Richardson is a team player. In five years on the Nixon team, he played each of his important positions with a cheerful recognition that his captain's requirements came before his own—even, his critics would say, before principle. His Brahmin air of chilly rectitude was priceless coin in an Administration increasingly steeped in the seamy business ethic." From "Nightmare: The Underside of the Nixon Years," by J. A dramatic legacy: Some fathers leave their sons money or a title or a business. Actor-producer Lore Noto plans to leave his son Thad a musical—"The Fantasticks"—and the way things look, Thad will probably hand over the musical to his own children. When it opened May 3, 1960, at the Sullivan Street Playhouse in Greenwich Village, no one, least of all Noto (who invested his entire nest egg of $3,300 in it), dreamed that this unassuming show would end up as the longest-running musical in theatrical history. It has been produced world-wide, in every state, at the White House, on TV, at hundreds of colleges, and it has survived five Presidents. Son Thad was nine when the show opened. Today, at 25, he's the show's manager, and his wife, Mary, is treasurer.

The elder Noto, who has prospered greatly from this production says, "I'll keep it running forever. You can't shut down a legend." Happy Sweet Sixteen, and many more.

AMONG THE NUTS

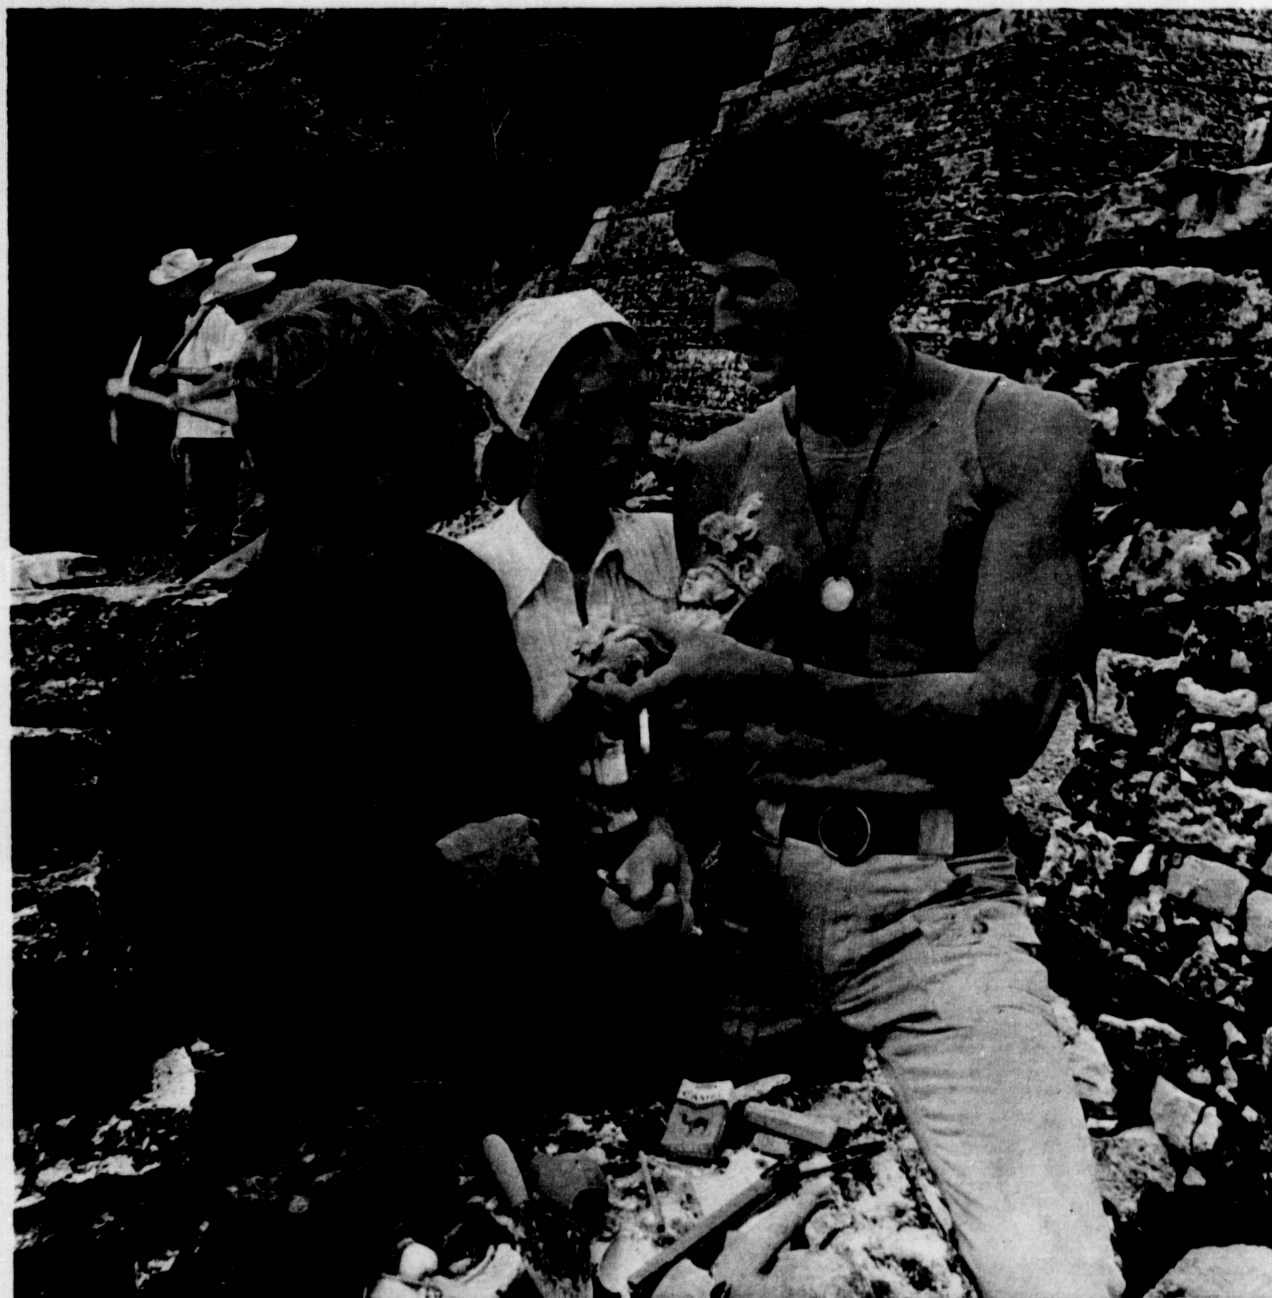

At cocktail parties nuts are passed
And there are plenty, they will last,
Except that I pick almonds out
And so must dig and poke about
To find amidst pecans and peanuts
And all the other large and wee nuts
My favorites, by these encumbered
And covered up and far outnumbered.

"With me," he says, "it isn't a question of needing a deadline but a question of subject matter, having a theme, and that can come from a story line, the characters, the situation in which you find them—which you use as a springboard. That's what theater music is: describing the characters in a situation. The song 'Where or When' was written for a particular situation in which a boy and girl meet. You can take the song out of the play and it can get by, but it was particularly effective in the situation in the play."

His music always sounds like Richard Rodgers music and yet fits the situation. Alec Wilder, another almost-legendary songwriter, once wrote that Rodgers's songs "show the highest degree of consistent excellence, inventiveness and sophistication, and bear the mark of the American song."

"When we started work on 'Oklahoma!'," Rodgers says, "Oscar sent me a book. I forgot the name of it, but it was a book of music from the Southwest: I opened it up, looked at one song, closed it and never opened it again. For 'The King and I,' I had to write 'Siamese music.' What did I know about Siamese music?"

One critic said that for "Rex," Rodgers wrote a score "based on music of the 16th century." But one suspects that in time it will prove to contain a lot more of Richard Rodgers than anything else. "Rex" is a play rich in costume and elaborate in staging, but it also puts considerable energy into the plot, the story line; and Rodgers's score seems designed not to produce possible hit songs but to color in the mood of the story. Before it opened in New York, out-of-town critics singled out for particular praise his melodies and the acting and singing of Nicol Williamson. Penny Fuller is the female lead. Directed by Edwin Sherin, "Rex" is an expensive production—not the least of the reasons why its backers are glad to have a score by Rodgers.

There was never anything else he wanted to be, Rodgers says, "and there was nothing that took me away from music."

Rodgers's courtly manners suggest he would not be an intense, nervous person when he is working, and Dorothy confirms that he has been relatively easy-going about it. "In the years when Dick was doing most of his writing at home," she says, "when the children [Mary and Linda] were little, they would run in and out of the room. He worked in the living room, and they had to pass through to go outside. He didn't like them stopping and sitting down to talk, but it never bothered him."

"That," he says, "may be because I started writing when I was so young. I wasn't old enough to have developed habits. I was too young to be temperamental."

It may be, further, that his earliest associations with music were in the living room, where he was the child and it was his mother playing the piano. Or it may be something in the amiable calmness that dominates what an outsider can see of Rodgers's personality. He says he works best in a friendly atmosphere (which he enjoyed, by and large, with his long-term collaborators, Lorenz Hart and Oscar Hammerstein), and he says the value of his lifelong friendship with Dorothy has been "incalculable."

In any case, the man does find friendly atmospheres, and he is a worker. As he says in his autobiography, where he tells how he felt following Oscar's death: "After the shock and grief of the loss of a dear friend and partner, it's easy to consider chucking everything and spending the rest of your life puttering around a garden or traveling around the world. Had I succumbed to that feeling, I'd be dead—not physically, perhaps, but mentally and emotionally dead. For me, work is simply a matter of survival."

have more going for them.

More value.

We think we offer you the most tractor for your money. And the most value. Here's why.

Every Bolens tractor is extremely well built. If anything, our tractors are over-built. You can see it in the frame. Brakes, bearings and gears. They're tougher than they have to be. They're built to last longer, take more abuse and tackle bigger jobs.

That's value.

And that holds true for the eight models we make, from the hefty 19.5 hp right down to the 6 hp.

For example, the 19.5 hp tractor has a massive rear axle, differential and heavy duty front axle, all custom-designed and built to match the tractor's work power.

The 8 hp tractor has a unique body design, with wrap-around fenders and frame shaped out of a single piece of formed steel.

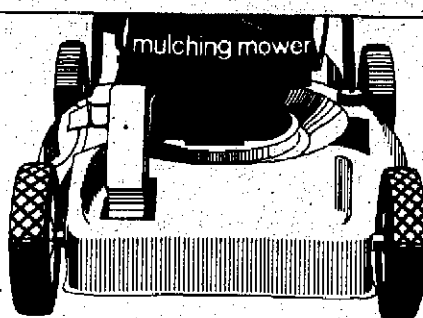

And every Bolens tractor has as much brain as brawn. We've made changing jobs easy by making the changing of attachments easy. You can switch from the center-mounted mower to dozens of attachments in just minutes.

Attachments like the Bolens rear-mounted rotary tiller. Blades to move top soil and snow. Lawn sweepers to groom your lawn. Snowthrowers to blast through the worst of winter. And dozens more.

You also have your choice of one-pedal automatic or manual shift. Hydraulic or manual attachment lift control. And accessories that include everything from vinyl cable to wheel weights.

Get a close look at the value built into Bolens tractors, as well as Bolens garden tillers, riding mowers and snowthrowers, at your Bolens dealer. For his name and address, call 800-447-4700 toll-free anytime (in Illinois call 800-322-4400). FMC Corporation, Port Washington, Wisconsin 53074.

Bolens' Mulching Mowers
have less going for them.

Less work.

Because this is the mower that eliminates the grass clippings as it mows.

That phenomenon is accomplished in the unique fully-enclosed mower housing. It sets up the grass with suction. Then, the exclusive multi-pitch blade cuts and recuts the clippings into a fine mulch that's blown down into your lawn.

So you end up with less.

Less work, because you never have to bag, rake or haul grass clippings.

Less expense, because you'll save on fertilizer costs. The tiny mulch particles decompose quickly, returning nitrogen to the soil.

Less thatch, because the particles decompose instead of contributing to thatch build-up.

Less awkward mowing, because there's no discharge chute. So you can trim along borders and around obstacles with both sides of the mower.

Other features include sure-footed front wheel drive. Grip 'n Go™ safety drive control. Squeeze it and you're going. Release it, you stop.

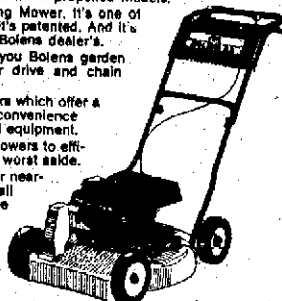

Bolens Mulching Mowers come in your choice of manual or electric start, 22" and 18" cutting widths, and in self-propelled and hand-propelled models.

The Bolens Mulching Mower. It's one of a kind. So unique, it's patented. And it's only found at your Bolens dealer's.

He can also show you Bolens garden tillers in both gear drive and chain drive models.

Bolens riding mowers which offer a host of safety and convenience features as standard equipment. And Bolens snowthrowers to efficiently toss winter's worst aside.

For the name of your nearest Bolens dealer, call 800-447-4700 toll-free anytime (in Illinois, call 800-322-4400). FMC Corporation, Port Washington, Wisconsin 53074.

says, "but many teams don't know how to handle them properly. With the changes now in baseball and the running game in and all the guys stealing bases, pitchers have to learn how to keep guys close to first base better. Not by throwing over a lot—I'd much rather have a guy throw home than to first. But there are fakes and body movements that pitchers have to learn in order to keep base runners from getting big jumps."

Still, both Spahn and Sain see several pitchers they rate highly as young men of promise. Spahn points to Cleveland's 21-year-old right-hander Dennis Eckersley, who had an excellent rookie campaign in 1975. "He doesn't throw hard," says the Hall of Fame southpaw, "but he knows how to pitch. He's got an unorthodox delivery, and that helps him."

Sain is high on a 22-year-old right-hander he worked with briefly the past two seasons in Chicago. The pitcher's name is Jack Kucek, and he's appeared in only 11 big-league contests so far. But Sain likes the way this 6-foot-2, 200-pounder can fire the fast ball and also points to his capacity for learning the game's finer points.

There are several other outstanding young pitchers in the majors, and here are some of the others who received lavish mention from our panel:

ANNE AND ELLIOT RICHARDSON
The Brahmin advantage

What has made the recently appointed Secretary of Commerce, Elliot Richardson, the choice for so many Cabinet positions? "Although he can be frosty and aloof in public, his private warmth and ebullience—he is a passionate tennis player, a joyous dancer, an enthralling dinner partner—have earned him loyalty and friendship wherever he goes. Richardson's value to Nixon was obvious. Richardson is a team player. In five years on the Nixon team, he played each of his important positions with a cheerful recognition that his captain's requirements came before his own—even, his critics would say, before principle. His Brahmin air of chilly rectitude was priceless coin in an Administration increasingly steeped in the seamy business ethic." From "Nightmare: The Upside of the Nixon Years," by J. Anthony Lukas (Viking, $15).

The Kienasts had 5 good reasons for choosing a Gym-Dandy Gym.

Namely, the quintuplets: Amy, Abigail, Sara, Gordon and Ted. According to their mother, Peggy-Lo, an awful lot of time is spent just running around counting noses.

In Gym-Dandy, she found the perfect playplace. Not only does it keep the quints active, outdoors and in sight—it has the kind of special features that help to put a busy mother's mind at rest.

Take our Bodyguard Slide™! Its platform stays level because it's actually hinged from the sturdy Gym-Dandy tip bar and supported at 4 points (instead of standing on legs that can sag into the ground). Our ladders have rugged non-metal Giant Footsteps™ designed with wide foot-gripping treads that are virtually impossible to wear out.

What put Bill Kienast's mind at rest was our patented 5 Minute Frame™. Unlike any other gym, Gym-Dandy's tip bar comes factory-assembled with all crossarms and leg sockets pre-welded into place. Bill simply slid the legs into the sockets, locked them in—only one bolt per leg—and the Gym-Dandy frame was on its feet. In minutes.
